

Homecoming Beauties Are Chosen

Dozen Newcomers Run Faculty to 83

A dozen new faculty members and two others returning from leaves of absence have boosted the college teaching staff to an all-time high of 83.

Eleven of these fill vacancies created by three retirements, a death, two leaves of absence, a transfer to the administrative staff and four resignations. The other three represent expansion of the teaching force.

The two returning from graduate study are Joseph Taylor of the science department, who has been working on a doctorate in biology for the last two years at Auburn University, and Mrs. Lou Therrell, who recently received a masters degree in education from Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone.

The newcomers, their educational background and teaching areas are as follows:

Dr. Robert J. Carner, BA and MA, University of Virginia, MA and PhD, Harvard, modern languages; Miss Constance Constant, BA and MA in library science, University of Michigan, acting librarian; Miss Joyce Faggioni, BA and MM, Florida State, music.

William D. Higdon, BA, Tennessee Temple College, ThM, Dallas Theological Seminary, MM, University of Tennessee, math; Mrs. Betty Jean Hughes, BS and MA, Appalachian, English; Miss Beatrice Hutzler, BS, Western Kentucky State, MS, University of Kentucky, biology.

Robert Kramer, BA and MA, Mississippi State, modern languages; Dale A. Roberts, BA, Furman, MM, East Carolina, music; Dalmuth Shealy Jr., BS, Carson-Newman, MA, Peabody, physical education; Paul Sorrells, BA, Lenoir-Rhyne, BD, Southeastern Seminary, MA, Western Carolina, English.

Joel Stegall, BA, Wake Forest, MME, North Texas State, music; Mrs. Marian Tisdale, BA, Drake University, MA, UNC at Chapel Hill, modern languages.

In addition to the teachers several persons have joined the general staff in recent months. These include Mrs. Ossie Ponder in the Student Center, Mrs. Brenda McLeod in the public relations department; Miss Sarah Cabe, a '65 graduate, in the library; Mrs. Vera Houck, hostess in Huffman.

Alumni Killed

Two recent Mars Hill students, well known to many juniors and seniors now on campus, were killed last week in separate automobile accidents.

Gary Frank Tucker of State Road, N. C., a senior who dropped out of school during the 1964-65 school year, was killed in a crash near Statesville.

Reginald Christian Haynes of Acworth, Ga., a sophomore during the 1963-64 session, died in a smash-up in Georgia.

Davis, Joe David Fore, Judy Giddens, Mrs. Linda Rape Glenn, Janice Karen Green, Eva McIntosh, Mrs. Mary McKinney, Emily Mizell, Paul Nuckolls, Stephen Parker, Brenda Pope, Dianne Price, Billy Sellers, Mac Watson and Mrs. Lola Wilde.

The 1965 Football Queen, Betty Pate (left), and the 1965 Homecoming Queen, Judy Hill, will share the spotlight during an event-filled homecoming celebration two weeks from today.

Homecoming festivities, just two weeks away, were assured an eye-catching lineup of lovely coeds with the selection this week of the homecoming queen, a football queen and four attendants.

Judy Hill, junior from Mt. Airy, was elected homecoming queen Tuesday in campus-wide balloting. Betty Pate, junior from Kannapolis, Wednesday became the choice of the grid team to reign as football queen.

The attendants, one representing each class, were to have been picked at class meetings Thursday, too late to be included here.

Plans are being made by both faculty and student groups for a big homecoming celebration on Saturday, Oct. 9.

A letter from President Hoyt Blackwell will be mailed by the Alumni Office next week to former students and friends of the college, inviting them to the campus for the occasion.

Highlight of the homecoming observance will be the dedication of the new football stadium just before the opening kickoff of the game between Mars Hill and Carson-Newman. The pre-game ceremonies, including the crowning of the Rat Queen, are scheduled at 2:15 p.m. sharp. Kickoff will be at 2:30.

The long-awaited opening of the 3500-seat stadium with its beautiful gridiron will see the athletic department honor all former varsity athletes, who will be seated in a reserved section and recognized during the game.

Halftime will be utilized for the traditional crowning of the homecoming and football queens. Band Director Wayne Pressley has invited the Carson-Newman band to perform.

Lyceum series entertainment scheduled that night will feature the Don Shirley Trio.

Founders Day, usually observed in connection with homecoming, will be celebrated at a special convocation chapel on Tuesday (Oct. 12) following homecoming. Guest speaker will be Dr. Dale H. Gramley, president of Salem College in Winston-Salem.

ID Followup Consolidated

Requests for duplicate identification cards and any questions pertaining to ID cards should be made to Mrs. William Lynch in the office of the dean of students, according to Walter Smith, director of publicity, who coordinated the ID card process during registration.

Anyone losing his or her card should see Mrs. Lynch at once, he said; anyone finding a card should return it to the owner or turn it in to Mrs. Lynch. Any student withdrawing from school is requested to turn in the ID card when checking out through the bursar's office.

Replacement of a lost card can be accomplished in only a few minutes but will cost $1.

Radio Goal Within View

A campus radio station, sponsored by the Student Government Association, has moved from the planning stage to the preparation stage and should be in operation before too long.

First suggested last spring by Craig Covey, then of the sophomore class, the idea won administrative council approval and financial support from SGA.

Most recent developments have been the location of a studio-control room in one corner of the publications office in the Montague Building and the preparation of the room for utilization as a station control center. The room was originally constructed for a similar station established in 1958 and is well-suited for the needs of the newly proposed station.

Covey worked on the project while attending summer school, securing donations of parts and equipment and consulting the appropriate persons on the college staff.

He returned to the campus early this month and began improving and remodeling the control room, installing insulation and sound proofing and setting up broadcasting equipment.

Completion of the task of setting up a station should take several more weeks, but a new voice for Mars Hill College students is definitely on the way.

The 1958 station operated from the same location. A transmitter in the attic of one of the girls' dorms and one in the attic of Melrose gave good coverage of the campus but limited broadcast to the campus, which was a requirement set by the Federal Communications Commission. The station played "quiet" music and broadcast campus news and announcements. The new station will presumably follow a similar format.

Photography Concluding

Monday, Sept. 27, will be the final day of picture taking for the 1966 Laurel, Editor Tracy Heath announced this week.

Any student or faculty member who has not been photographed should have his picture made Monday, even though he has not received an appointment notice.

Proofs of the individual pictures are being shown in the Montague Building as soon as each roll of film is returned by the processor. Cards filled out at the time the pictures were made are being sent to the individual as his or her proof is ready.

Photographer Russ Johnson of Asheville asks that each person adhere as closely as possible to the time schedule shown on his or her proof notice.

A pose for the yearbook will be selected by the photographer for any person who fails to come by and indicate his own choice.

A price list will be displayed with the proofs and prints may be ordered for delivery before Christmas, Johnson said.

Men's Club Activated

Sigma Kappa Lambda, men's social service club formed on the campus last spring, will undertake its first project today, cooperating with the Mars Hill Woman's Club in improving the local Community Center.

Other projects already on the club's schedule include assistance to some elderly persons in the community and the preparation of a float for the homecoming parade Oct. 9.

According to President Bill Pruett, the club is currently in the midst of a membership rush. The 16 charter members held a get-acquainted social for freshmen and transfer students (male) Thursday night as the first step toward inducting 10 new members.

The club's membership was intentionally limited to 26 to promote closer working relationships and to encourage the formation of similar clubs. Other officers of the club include David Clapp, vice president; Larry Boyd, secretary; Paul Thompson, treasurer; and C. K. Caldwell, chaplain.

A similar organization for women is designated as Sigma Alpha Chi.

Summer Commencement Adds 48 Grads

For the first time since Mars Hill became a senior college degrees were awarded at the close of summer school in August. Forty-eight persons qualified, including 19 for Bachelor of Arts, 28 for Bachelor of Science and one for Bachelor of Music.
