

Eight Speakers Will Discuss the Humanities

(Continued from Page 1)

He is seen as special features editor on "Sunday," the NBC News magazine-format television program; and he is a regular contributor to the NBC Radio "Emphasis" program, in addition to his numerous assignments on NBC News specials.

Married and the father of a 19-year-old daughter, he lives in New York, where he has recently been active in local reporting.

Dr. J. Oscar Lee

Out of this venture came an award-winning program, "Poverty Is People," and a lecture subject, "The Effect of the Population Explosion on Politics."

Baumann, whose father lives in Asheville, is chief of the spacecraft integration and sounding rocket division of the Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md.

Trained as a mechanical engineer, he holds a patent on a design for satellite structures and received the Outstanding Efficiency Award at the Goddard Center in 1955 and 1958.

Despite a heavy schedule of work in his job he is a member of the Seabrook (Md.) Little Theater, maintains a rock collection and enjoys camping and fishing. He's also a photographer, having co-authored an article entitled "Photography from a High Altitude Probe."

Kalb is a candidate for a Ph.D. in Russian and Chinese history at Harvard. He worked for a while in Moscow for the U. S. State Department before joining the CBS news staff in 1957.

An intense, deliberate young man whose comments are as pithy as they are perceptive, he takes his audiences behind the headlines. He illustrates the latest developments in East-West struggle with first-hand information and anecdotes drawn from his personal experiences and observations in Russia, India, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaya, Burma, Hong Kong, Formosa, Japan, Poland, Austria, England, France and Germany.

In the preparation of his book, "Dragon in the Kremlin," Kalb took a year off from his duties at CBS for a Ford Foundation-sponsored trip around the world. He has since authored another book, "Eastern Exposure."

Now stationed in Washington as the first CBS diplomatic correspondent, Kalb is generally regarded as one of this country's best-informed and most astute analysts on foreign affairs.

Dr. Lee is secretary for program services for the National Council of Churches' division of Christian life and mission. It is his responsibility to develop and coordinate programs for this largest division of the Council.

He is a writer and speaker on race relations. Formerly associated with the department of race relations of the Federal Council of Churches and editor of Interracial News Service, he helped author "The Christian Citizen and Civil Rights." He also wrote "A Manual for Cooperative Work in Race Relation."

He serves on the board of directors of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing and on boards of numerous church and community organizations.

Dr. Gottlieb is director of research and evaluation for the Job Corps, which is operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity. A B.A. and Ph.D. graduate of the University of Chicago, he is a sociologist. He has worked with several sociological surveys and taught at Michigan State, Northwestern, his alma mater and at the University of Virginia. In 1964 he was a consultant on the president's task force on the War Against Poverty.

He has written and edited numerous articles for scientific journals and has authored such books as "The American Adolescent," "The Emergence of Youth Cultures" and "Adolescent Behavior in Urban Areas."

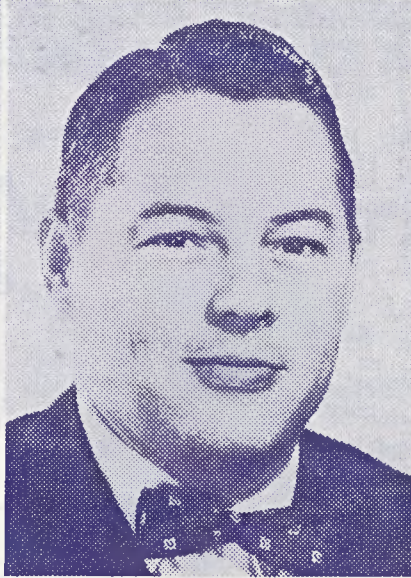

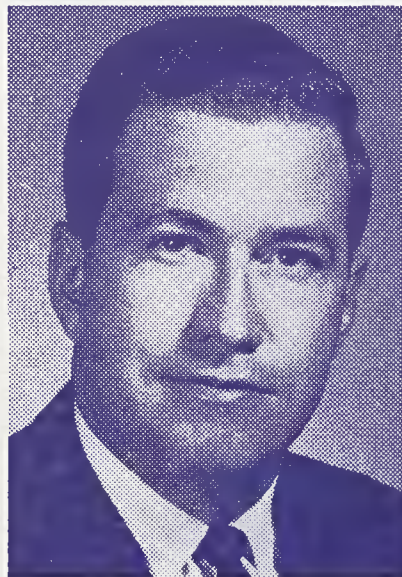

Currently he is consultant to the U. S. Office of Education, the U. S. Office of Science and Technology and the Learning Institute of North Carolina.

Trained in theology, Dr. Limbert is a former college professor and president. Interest which began in his student days led him to accept in 1952 the position of secretary general of the world alliance of YMCA's with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. During the next 10 years he travelled in 65 countries, visiting YMCA's.

Since retiring from that position he has been at the YMCA-related assembly east of Asheville.

One of Dr. Limbert's major concerns throughout his life has been the interpretation of Christian faith and its relevance to the daily life of youth in a changing world.

Dr. Killenger has an unusually varied academic background. He

Upper left, Dr. John Killenger; upper right, Dr. David Gottlieb; lower left, Dr. Paul Limbert; lower right, Robert C. Baumann.

Miss Van Denburg

holds a B.A. in religion (with minors in French, English and history) from Baylor; M.A. and Ph.D. in English from the University of Kentucky; Bachelor of Sacred Theology from Harvard; and Doctor of Theology from Princeton.

He has taught at Georgetown College and Kentucky Southern College and is currently associate professor of preaching at Vanderbilt University Divinity School.

He has written three books and numerous articles and reviews.

Miss Van Denburg is associate professor of art in the College of Home Economics at the University of Tennessee's Martin Branch.

As a hobby while working on her masters degree she began collecting folk songs of the mountain area of East Tennessee. She became fascinated with it and the hobby grew into an exciting occupation. She has thus become a performer (singer) as well as a collector of folk music and folklore and authority on the subjects. She accompanies herself on the auto-harp.

Spring Symposium

Monday, March 7

8:00 Address: "A New World View: Understanding and Cooperation"

Edwin Newman
Moore Auditorium

Tuesday, March 8

Education for This Age

10:00 Address: "Interdependence of Science and the Humanities"

Robert Bauman
Moore Auditorium

2:00 Seminar: "In an Age of Science"

Robert Bauman
Auditorium, Memorial Library

8:00 Address: "The United States and Red China: Collision or Cooperation"

Marvin Kalb
Moore Auditorium

Wednesday, March 9

Living Together: Race and Class

10:00 Address: "Walls That Divide"

Dr. J. Oscar Lee
Moore Auditorium

2:00 Seminar: "Race vs. Class"

Dr. J. Oscar Lee
Auditorium, Memorial Library

8:00 Address: "Society Meeting the Needs of Its People"

Dr. David Gottlieb
Moore Auditorium

Thursday, March 10

Man: A Life of Fulfillment and Creativity

10:00 Address: "Religion: Its Relevance for This Age"

Dr. Paul Limbert
Moore Auditorium

2:00 Seminar: "A Church Adequate for This Age"

Dr. Paul Limbert
Auditorium, Memorial Library

8:00 Address: "Literature and the Problem of Being Human"

Dr. John Killinger
Moore Auditorium

Friday, March 11

10:00 Ghosts Ibsen

Mars Hill College Dramateers
Auditorium, Owen Building

2:00 Seminar: "Being a Person in a Depersonalized Age"

Dr. John Killinger
Auditorium, Owen Building

8:00 Folk Music — A Lecture Concert

Miss Aaltje Van Denburg
Moore Auditorium

Saturday, March 12

8:00 Ghosts Ibsen

Mars Hill College Dramateers
Auditorium, Owen Building

STUDENT CENTER

The Bookstore Proudly
Announces That It Has
In Stock

THE TWO LATEST BOOKS

of

DR. JOHN KILLENGER

The Failure of Theology in Modern Literature

and

The Thickness of Glory