The election of dormitory officers will take place during the regular time for chapel on Thursday (Apr. 14). There will be no chapel service, and students are to go to the dorm in which they will live next year to cast their vote.

The slate of Student Government Association officers chosen just before spring holidays will be installed during the chapel period on Thursday, Apr. 21.

The newly elected officers of the BSU for 1966-67 and several who have been appointed to various positions will be installed during the chapel period on Tuesday, Apr. 19.

The list includes Paul Campbell, president; Tony Hawkins, enlistment vice president; Betty Davis, devotional vice president; Perry White, social vice president; Cathy Broome, secretary; Carolyn Broome, treasurer; Joel Reed, music chairman; Rick Gaskin and Rita Ware, publicity co-chairmen; and Ray Johnson, Hilltop representative.

Charlene Kauzmaul will be installed as the student representative from the Calvary Baptist Church; Kermit Gray will become the representative of the O. E. Sams Ministerial Conference; and Roger Saunders will take the oath as BSU council representative from Volunteers for Christ.

Denny Hill has been appointed social actions chairman and also will be installed.

Yet to be selected are the Sunday School and Training Union leaders for the Mars Hill Baptist Church, the representative of the local Methodist church and the chairman of the Mission Council.

The members of the retiring BSU council and the council for the coming school year will hold a banquet in the cafeteria during the evening meal time on the day of the installation, Apr. 19.

Several of the new BSU officers are planning to attend a leadership training conference at Gardner-Webb Junior College Apr. 15-17.

Home Ec Meeting Attracts Coeds

"Home Economics Week in North Carolina," proclaimed by Gov. Dan K. Moore for Apr. 10-16, will be celebrated by the Mars Hill College Chapter of the American Home Economics Association with the sending of a group of delegates to a state-wide workshop.

Maxine Plemmons, Frances Stewart, Bee Mayo, Sally Spaulding, Martha Bruce, Ann Kirby, Ginger Owens and Fran Carter will attend a North Carolina Home Economics Association workshop at East Carolina College next Friday and Saturday (Apr. 15-16). They will be accompanied by their faculty advisors, Mrs. Mary Howell and Miss Carol Kendall.

Dr. Rodney Green

Historian To Speak

A British authority on American history, Dr. Rodney Green of the University of Manchester, will give two lectures here Tuesday (Apr. 12), sponsored by the Visiting Scholars Program of the Piedmont University Center of North Carolina.

Particularly well-informed on the historical relationships between Ireland, Scotland and the United States, Dr. Green will give an illustrated lecture at 2 p.m. in the Library Auditorium and will speak again at 7:30 p.m. in Spainhour Hall.

The first lecture will be entitled, "Looking at the Industrial Revolution." The second will be on "Ireland and America." Both will be open to the entire student body and faculty.

The Piedmont University Center is a league of 17 private colleges in North Carolina cooperating in various ways for mutual benefits. The Visiting Scholars Program brings distinguished authorities in various fields to the campuses of three or four of the member colleges during a three-day tour.

Dr. Green is a replacement in the program for Dr. Sylvester Broderick of Sierre Leone, Africa. The latter missed an appearance here when he changed his schedule so that his visit to colleges of the Piedmont University Center came during Mars Hill's spring holidays.

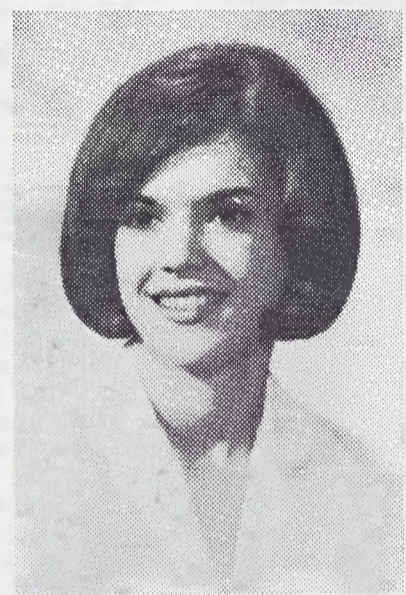

Previously in this school year Mars Hill has enjoyed the lecture visits of three distinguished participants in the program. Historian Dr. George Mowry and Dr. Broadus Mitchell, an authority in economics, visited the campus in November; Dr. Marston Bates, a zoologist, was here in March.

Dr. Green is the final entry for Mars Hill's schedule in the program for the 1965-66 session. Continuation of the program for 1966-67 is anticipated for the fall term.

A fun-filled schedule of events and activities has been planned for the first annual Derby Day celebration next Saturday, sponsored by the Student Government Association.

A riot of laughter is anticipated for various field events and other contests, slated on the intramural field and the old track beginning at 1:15 p.m.

The "Lion's Little 500," a bicycle race, will start the afternoon's fun. All dorms and campus organizations have been invited to participate. The winner

Honor Clubs Meet Tuesday

Tuesday (Apr. 12) is the regular time for the monthly meeting of campus honor clubs, and several of the clubs have announced plans for interesting meetings.

Logothia will meet at the home of M. H. Kendall, head of the department of religion and philosophy. The program will include a discussion of the much-talked-about "God is Dead" theory.

The club also is working on plans for a dinner meeting in May.

The Scriblerus Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Betty Jean Hughes in Weaverville. The program will concern the late poet Robert Frost.

The Business Club's April meeting will be in the form of a field trip. The members will leave campus at 1 p.m. Tuesday for Asheville, where they will tour the facilities of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. They will have dinner in Asheville following the guided tour.

The club's final meeting of the year will be its annual reunion for former members on May 7.

A distinguished MHC alumnus, Dr. H. F. Robinson, dean for research at North Carolina State University at Raleigh, will address the Science Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Library Auditorium. Director of a $15 million world-wide research program, he will speak on "Trends in will be given pole position in a Chariot Race, which will follow the bicycle event.

Each dorm has been asked to build a chariot for the race; prizes will be awarded for the fastest one, the best-looking chariot and the best-dressed driver.

The fun doesn't end here, though; there's more. Prizes will be given for seven other events as follows:

Greased Shaft — money certificate will be placed at the top of a well-greased pole.

Greased Pig — pig will be released and first person to hold him for 15 seconds wins prize.

Jello Plunge — (for coeds only) grapes and marbles will be placed in pans of jello; the girl who retrieves the most by using only her mouth (hand behind back) wins.

Pie-eating Contest — (for boys only) one who eats pie first, using only his face (hands behind back) wins.

Chicken — couple tosses egg back and forth, taking one step farther apart after each toss; couple farthest apart without breaking egg wins.

Dunking Event — dunking stool will be constructed over barrel of ice-cold water; students throw ball at target which releases person atop the stool into water if ball hits target.

Bachelor of Ugliness Contest — each dorm and various campus organizations have been invited to nominate a candidate for the title "Bachelor of Ugliness at Mars Hill"; voting will take place on the field and a winner will be announced at the concert intermission that night.

The day's program will be capped with a variety concert in Moore Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Thus far the entertainment lined up includes the Danny Mac Trio, a group of versatile folk singers from Carson-Newman; Miss Tommye Greer, a pop singer from Queens; Frank Mills of Wake Forest, who writes and sings his own songs; and the "Jesters," a local group which will play and will also accompany Miss Greer.

The "Jesters" include Bob Suttenfield, leader, Bill Brown, Carroll Aldridge, Tommy Cole, Bob Drake, Cline Borders and Lynn Cheek.

Senior class president Tommy Shoe is chairman of the SGA's events committee working on Derby Day. Chairman of publicity and the concert is Jim Alexander. They and SGA President Chris Pappas have expressed hopes that the day's celebration will become an annual event of the spring semester.

Campus Calendar

The campus calendar for the next two weeks includes the following:

Tonight — movie "Becket."
Apr. 11 — recital on three different organs in the auditorium by Eddie Scofield.
Apr. 19 — movie, "Fall of the Roman Empire."

Mulkey Wins Award in Art

Two Mars Hill College art students have won recognition in the seventh Carolinas' College Art Annual, which ends tomorrow.

Douglas Mulkey, junior commercial art major from Fairburn, Ga., received a $25 merit award for one of his polymer works entitled, "Painting #10."

Senior art major Craig Greene of Marion was notified that his oil painting "Crowd Images" was selected for the exhibition.

Open to all students of art departments at colleges in North and South Carolina, the Annual is sponsored by the art departments of the universities of North and South Carolina and by the Columbia (S. C.) Museum of Art.

The jury for this year's show was S. Perrin, head of the art department at Georgia State College in Atlanta.

From 218 entries this year Perrin selected 40 graphics, paintings, and sculptures, which have been on display at the museum in Columbia since Mar. 20.

The purpose of the annual competitive exhibition is to assess the comparative values of advanced art students in the two-state area, to enable them to gain experience for national competition and to permit their public to share in the future to become familiar with their talents.
