

Mars Hill College

LANDSLIDE

No. 28754

BOOT HILL, NORTH CAROLINA

April, 1971

See pictorial of campus love-in on Page 3.

Women's Libbers delight in the capture of a male chauvinist at one of the many demonstrations that were taken over by the group here yesterday. The male has been identified as Dr. Fred Fiendly, treasurer for "The Good Old Days" club. This club, a prime target for the Lib, was once popular back in the 18th century when they sponsored fox hunts and croquet games.

Broad Side To The Front

Campus Libbers Pull Off a Royal Flush

by Laine X

Editor's note: This report is completely accurate as our managing idiot is taking part in the demonstration and has been named Mistress of Offense for the faction.

There was a flush of demonstrations here yesterday as our own personal faction of Women's Lib took over all the men's restrooms in the various buildings on campus. The group had a special surprise with the arrival of a prime libber and one time Dean of Women. The former Dean, Merry Slogan, spoke at the bonfire in Spilman Dormitory shortly after all the men (and the few women who occasionally live there) had evacuated the area. Her speech was one with intense spark as she roared, "Out of the kitchens and into the streets!"

As the flames in Spilman rose higher, so did the spirits of the women. The group decided to move onward to the Administration Building to take over the private restroom of the college president, Dr. Fred Fiendly. Fiendly's restroom was selected as a target because his female assistant, Miss Snailson, does not have a private restroom.

The strikers staged a sit-in in the lavatory and noted, by the way, that the toilet tissue was superior in texture to that in the dorms. The group was further enraged by the fact that the toilet tissue was blue and therefore a contributor to the pollution dilemma now faced by this community. Showing their anger over the administration's complete disregard for ecology, the strikers ripped down the Raggedy Andy curtains in the restroom.

The women then moved across campus to the Fine Arts building. The restrooms in the art department proved an easy target and the women met little opposition.

However, the music department presented another story. When the protestors arrived down in the catacombs, they were confronted by 55 angry music majors. These students attacked the women with tubas, clarinets, and various and sundry other instruments, causing a sour note in the protest march. The music majors changed their tune when one "lib" caught Mr. TheGall by the throat and threatened to rip out his vocal cords. Mr. TheGall was quoted as saying, "Ah....." (in high C).

At lunch time the protestors gathered at what once was the Community Development Institute. The institute has recently been renamed the BROADminded Development Institute. Lunch consisted of male pheasant under glass, salad, rolls, and milk. As the women feasted, Miss Joan Frilliams spoke on the evils of false eyelashes.

Around 3 p.m. the women took over Wall, McConnell, and then the gymnasium. These buildings will be renamed in the immediate future.

It is expected that the women will start their takeover of Gibson, Brown, Melrose, Myers and Treat sometime late tonight. There is some controversy as to whether the women will force the men out or hold them as hostages. The Speaker for Women's Rights will make a statement this evening at 6 p.m. outside the Landslide office.

The Lib will continue their strike at full force until they get what they want. A statement has been taped to the rear view mirror of Dr. Fiendly's chartreuse Edsel. Demands include a Department of Women's Study, a declaration declaring May 16 as a school holiday in honor of women, and the appointment of Betty Folley as Chief of Women. (Mrs. Folley is known for her book The Red Ridge Parkway Through A Woman's Eyes).

Senate Holds Red Tape Review

by John McX

The Senate convened for its third meeting of the year on March 30. The meeting was called from disorder by SAG President Danny Rage. He noted that only two senators were present and attributed the 100% increase in attendance to the fact that convocation cards were being accepted.

Senator Barbara Whiz-nutt moved that the senate approve a bill to free the study body from the power of the administration, subject to Dr. Fiendly's approval, of course. A vote was taken and the proposal was defeated.

The senate was then asked to consider a resolution which would allow women open hours and visitation rights for all students. The senate postponed the motion to a later date.

President Rage then asked the senate to consider a bill doing away with the anti-liquor law on campus. After a snort debate there was a vote and the resolution was defeated.

The senate was then asked to consider whether the new handbook should have a red or blue cover. After three hours of furious debate the senate decided on a half red, half blue cover with a purple pin-stripe.

Senator Billed Lately asked that President Rage adjourn the meeting as there was a football game on at 9:00 p.m. The motion was passed and the meeting adjourned.

President Rage was quoted as saying, "Gee, that's groovy, man!"

Honor Role, 1971 *

This certifies that the following, for various and sundry reasons, stated below, have acquitted themselves well and are hereby awarded some space on this page of the newspaper.

Little Ruthie Gelderstedt gets the coveted Vocalist of the Year Award.

Bob Abbott gets the Snoopy Happy Hopper Award.

John McNutt (our man at MHC) retires the Anti-Trust Challenge Cup.

Karen Cummings walks off with the Arthur Whiteside Pollution Award for her dying efforts.

The Traffic Police. . .well, what else but the Rin-Tin Pen Award.

Peery's Public Opinion Political Science Class (P.P.O.P.S.) gets the "Better Read Than Dead" Award.

Of course the Jolleys take top honors for the Trippers of the Year Award.

The Reignmaker Award goes to none other than Dr. Bentley.

Each senator gets the "I Wish I Were There" Award.

Hayes Goodrum wins the Mouth of the South Award.

Terry Kuykendall wins the Who's Minding the Mint Award.

Mr. Walter P. Smith is awarded the Noble Appease Prize.

The Library Staff wins the Library of Commerce Award.

Last (and maybe even least) the Laurel gets the Avis Ribbon.

* (not necessarily in any order or other stuff.)

Students Raise Stink

Madison County to be Polluted

by Harry X

National Stink Foundation has awarded a $17,000 grant to several MHC students to pollute Madison County. This is a further step on the part of President Fiendly's new anti-poverty program which emphasizes the idea that Appalachia's poor will gradually divert attention away from their economic problem if severely threatened by the president's top priority program. This latest policy was announced by Henry Missinger, who says, "There is no solution to any problem but thinking about something."

The student recipients of the grant, under the direction of junior Fumblings, have outlined a pilot program which should gradually engulf the county in a cloud of pollution. Extensive research will be done on transmitting foul, gas-emissions from Pittsburgh to the mountain vicinity. Negotiations will soon begin with the city of Los Angeles and New York to purchase several tons of solid material with which to clutter the highways and byways of the county. The program has pledged itself and its resources to what President Fiendly called, "a more than worthy Community involvement, of which will play a major role in the success of the program. Each participating citizen will be allotted 14 days of garbage to utilize to the advantage of the county. A total of 14 days will be awarded in late August to the citizen with the most original idea for distributing his garbage allotment.

As an outgrowth of an independent study in noise pollution done by Wary B. Quiet, two major U.S. industries, Lockheed and Boeing, will build a complex just outside the accelerating Petersburg area to test the effects of sonic booms on cows.

The NSF project has been called the dirtiest anti-poverty program in the county's history.

On the Bandwagon

by John X

Berry Black, Director of Student Activities, has announced his forthcoming retirement after a bang up career here at Boot Hill. It's not that he's over-age; he'll just get paid elsewhere. He has accepted a job as Road Manager for the always there Suppressions. It was a hard choice for our man Berry because the Huckelberry Mudgrips were hard after him, too.

Berry will leave us and will his motorcycle to Mrs. Joys so that she will be able to make it to work on time.

For years to come Boot Hill students will remember Berry and the few fine concerts he brought to us. He promised much and, well, he tried. Bless his stomach ulcers and all that follows.