TKE Nets $2,142.50

"Would you care to contribute to the Orthopedic Hospital?" The above statement was echoed throughout Tunnel Road Shopping Center this past weekend by the brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity during their cycle-a-thon for the Asheville Orthopedic Hospital.

The cycle - a - thon started Thursday Feb. 1 at 4:00 p.m. and ran continuously until 9:30 Sunday Feb. 4. The brothers alternated riding the stationary bicycle they were using racking up 1017.3 miles in the 77½ hour period. Their efforts were rewarded with a total collection of $2,141.50 in contributions. The majority of the donations ranged from 10¢ to 50¢, although some were as high as $5.00. The venture received added impetus from Mars Hill coeds who volunteered their time and effort to help raise money for the Orthopedic Hospital.

Editor Named

Frank Farrell, senior physical education major from Richmond, Va., has recently been appointed Editor - in - Chief of the HILLTOP.

His appointment was made unanimously by the Board of Communications on January 30.

In assuming the editorship Frank stated that his primary objective is "to relate student ideas and to present students with a newspaper that reflects their needs." He went on to state that above all his desire is "to present the news fact-ually and up-to-date." Frank has served on the HILLTOP staff as sports editor and news editor.

Farrell was also Chief Justice of the Student Government Association for two years. More recently, he was honored as one of twenty-four Mars Hill seniors to be included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Sam Easterby, the former editor, relinquished his duties in order to pursue an internship with the National Forest Service.

Faulconer Fills S.G.A. Vacancy

Mark Faulconer, a medical lab technology major from Lynchburg, Va., has been appointed Treasurer of the Student Government Association. Faulconer replaces Bynum Tuttle, who resigned to student teach in Greensboro, N.C. Faulconer was elected at the Senate meeting Thur., Feb. 1 and was formally installed Feb. 5. The new treasurer is also director of student enterprises, which handles movie pass sales and refrigerator rentals. This is Mark's last semester at Mars Hill since he will be transferring to the University of Virginia Medical School in the fall.

Faulconer is currently working on this year's budget and plans to present it to Senate Feb. 26. Mark also stated that he plans to change some of the procedures that have been followed in the past. For example, he plans to use invoices to make auditing easier and to verify expenditures.

SENATE: SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

by Terry Kuykendall
"Change is going to stop."
"Student Government is non-relevant to my life and student life."
"Power."
"I sort of renigged on that."
"Two of the major dormitories will not go with this."
"No comment."

Above are some of the notable quotes that were heard in the Student Government Association Senate last Monday, when proposals ranging from David Caldwell's resignation as President of the Junior Class to the cheerleaders' request for reimbursement for funds.

Caldwell said that he is "very uptight" about the way SGA is operating and hopes that someday "it will be united on something, hopefully." He went on to say that SGA is "non-relevant" in his eyes and in the eyes of the student body.

In the announcements portion of the Senate SGA President Cook related that he had talked with Dr. Bentley on the future of Mars Hill College. Cook stated that one of the foremost proposals is the advent of married student housing, if there is a need. After assorted announcements Cook announced that Dr. Bentley has said that there would be no social change until students show themselves responsible.

Throughout the entire meeting the Senate members and other officials were concerned with the word "Power." There seems to be question of who has what power and everyone seems to be clamoring for its use. Debra Watson made a statement concerning the proposal for visitation stating that it had not been brought before the Housing Councils. She went on to state that "two of the major dormitories will not go along with this proposal."

During the course of debates and rebutals that the Senate participated in throughout the course of the meeting, there was question about some remote bill that had been sent to Cook's office. His response was that he "sort of renigged on that."

Nearing the end of the meeting questions were asked concerning appointment of a new Junior Class President to replace David Caldwell and about the class dues that are passed their appointed hour of distribution. On the subject of the replacement the Senate said that this would be left up to the Junior Class. On the subject of class dues the Senate said, "No comment."

Fines Enforced

Dean Gehring has announced that there are 54 outstanding traffic fines totaling approximately $400.00. Those students who have not paid their fine will not receive grades or be allowed to register. These students had the right to appeal the ticket or make arrangements during the semester. Obviously, no interest in the fine was shown by the student. As a result the parking rules and regulations as described in "Zeitgeist" will be strictly enforced beginning second semester.
