Well, here I go again. After originating this column in the Fall 1969 I have the opportunity to complete my work in the Spring 1973. This column will offer to you, the student, some insights and interpretations of events that are swept under the rug by various and sundry officials on campus. Also I will attempt to offer, to the rest of the college community, feelings and opinions of students. And in the event there is some tidbit of news that will be helpful to the community, I will not fail to bring it to light.

One of these tidbits is that Benjamin Cochran will be traveling to Bently College in Boston. I understand a tea party will be held.

Students make sure you read this newspaper, there are some traffic regulations that are going to be changed. I would explain it but I am trying to figure which of the lots behind the library is A and B. Because A becomes B but only half of B because A is going to be A $\frac{1}{2}$ because B is going to be B/2. Now, if that makes sense you have just passed the requirements to be an administrator.

IT WERE NOT BEST THAT WE SHOULD ALL BE ALIKE; IT IS DIFFERENCE OF OPINION THAT MAKES HORSE RACES. --MARK TWAIN

Abe Lincoln said, "A government of the people, by the people and for the people." Sometimes history becomes muddled where government is concerned.

Mini-mester is finally over with. For those who did not realize, that was the last mini-mester that the student had an option of sifting out without having to pay. For you see my friends next year you pay for mini-mester whether you attend or not. That sounds logical. If you don't believe me, ask Dr. Hoffman.

So far the reader may be saying that I am being destructive in my criticism. But, here I would like to offer some solutions. One, the college should build some new parking lots before the College Union Building is completed. Another, for the mini-mester robbery, why can we not pay for what we study, and not pay for what we do not study.

The budget of the college will be completed soon. Now, I am not going to hypothesize that tuition is going up, but there is a strong possibility. But that will not be a surprise -- for it is nothing new -- with inflation and all. While on the topic of the budgets I would be interested in seeing if the athletic budget is increased. It was a heated discussion last spring among the students. Now, with a new coach and several assistants I was wondering where the money is coming from? Should I or not?

WHAT DOES INSUBORDINATION MEAN TO A COACH?

In ending this column I will be presenting several awards to groups or particular students on campus for the accomplishments and/or perseverance during this semester.

The first award is the group with the most stamina for this week. It will be called the Guts Award. Are you ready? Guts Award goes to the men of Gibson Dormitory for being calm while the heat and hot water was cut off January 30. Now, that takes guts since it was the first day of class.

Congratulations to Jeff Davis for being selected in the Pro Draft. Washington Redskins need just one more added punch and I believe Jeff will be able to supply it.

The No Doz Award, which needs no explanation goes to the Brothers of TKE for their diligence of the late-night watch to raise money for the Orthopedic Hospital in Asheville.

My last award goes to the outstanding student of the week. This award is based on achievement acquired through work, without hope of reward. This

Agony On Ice

Did you ever try to walk up Boy's Hill after a snowfall? The walkways always seem to keep a sheet of deadly ice for at least a week after the other sidewalks on campus are cleaned. If you get the impression that going up one of these walkways is hard... try sliding to breakfast or an early morning class. The casualty list so far includes only one person injured due to a fall (and she was on dry ground). However, according to the nurse, last year a number of people reported to the infirmary after slipping on ice.

College Gets $3,406 Grant

As part of its contribution to the Appalachian Consortium, "Traditions of Southern Appalachia in Transition," Mars Hill College proposes to do a number of things during the January-March period of 1973. The project will be headed by John M. Hough Jr., Associate Dean of Academic Affairs. The project will be divided into four parts: January term courses, Spring semester courses, internships, and workshops, development of a course in the fall of 1973, and the Library.

shop-$100, Oral History Workshop - $500, Social Problems in Appalachia - $400, Ecology-Biology - $250, five internships - $1,250, Interdisciplinary Environmental Science course - $400, Cherokee Indian Library Collection - $306.

The Consortium was developed in the fall of 1970 and was devoted to the salvaging, perpetuation, and preservation of the heritage of Appalachian. Several main objectives govern the project. A general inventory of all valuable manuscripts and artifacts will be made, projects for promoting Appalachian culture will be sponsored and study and research in the Appalachian region will be promoted.

Dr. Hough made a request for projects related to the Appalachian consortium for a total of $3,406. This amount will be divided as follows: Folk Music of the Appalachians - $200, Appalachian work-

Grose Made Dept. Head

Jack N. Grose, nine-year veteran of the Mars Hill College faculty, here, has been appointed chairman of the Business Administration Department according to Dr. Richard L. Hoffman, Vice President of Academic Affairs.

Grose, an assistant professor, will replace Miss Mildred Bingham, who asked to be relieved of her administrative post and to teach full-time in the department starting this summer. She had been department chairman since 1946 and has been a member of the faculty since 1937.

Grose, a native of Winston-Salem and a junior college graduate of Mars Hill, is completing work for a doctorate at the University of Mississippi at Starkville. He earned a Master's degree in business administration from the University of South Carolina in 1964 and a bachelor's from Wake Forest University in 1957.

In between schooling Grose worked in management and marketing with R. J. Reynolds Industries and with Western Electric Company.

The Business Administration Department at the Baptist School has a 10-member faculty.
