WOMEN SEEK ATHLETIC SUPPORTERS

(CPS, by Graci Stalli)--Physical education is one of the discriminatory areas in the American educational system, testified Billy Jean King recently before a U.S. Senate Committee.

Urging support of the educational equity act introduced by Senator Walter F. Mondale (D-Minn.), the tennis star asked why women's sport programs in public schools receive only one per cent of what men's programs receive and proposed enforcement of total athletic equality for women.

In schools and colleges across the nation women have begun to demand their rights as athletes. Charges of discrimination in funding, training facilities, coaching, opportunities for participation, scholarships and publicity have surfaced in law suits involving Little Leagues, high schools and universities.

Guidelines for eliminating sex discrimination in education programs and activities under review by the Office of Civil Rights include extensive rules regulating all competitive athletics operated by universities.

The planned guidelines need the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), Caspar W. Weinberger's signature to be adopted as an addition to Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, which prohibits sex discrimination in educational institutions receiving federal funding.

According to the proposed rules, all sports teams would be considered a single competitive athletic program regardless of whether the athletics were conducted at the freshman, varsity, club, or other level.

"No person shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, be treated differently from another person, or otherwise be discriminated against in athletic program or activity," the guideline report states.

The report also suggests affirmation efforts to correct inequalities where competitive athletic opportunities had previously been limited. Institutions would be required to determine in what sports the formerly excluded sex desired to compete and whether or not in teams separated on the basis of sex.

University of Illinois women have organized a group called "Concerned Women Athletes" to combat unequal funding. The men's intercollegiate sports program at Illinois is supported by $2.4 million a year while the women's program receives a $4500 state appropriation. Concerned Women Athletes intend to file suit under Title IX, but the University maintains the men's programs are sponsored by the University Athletic Association from gate receipts, donations, and memberships separate from the school's normal finances and that in fact, women receive $4500 more than men in official funding.
