

FACULTY CHANGES for FALL

Dr. Richard Hoffman, Vice President for Academic Affairs, has announced several faculty positions which will be filled for the coming Fall Semester.

Lynn Wenige will be returning to the faculty after taking a year off to study toward her doctorate at the University of Tennessee.

Mr. Donald McCloud has been hired to fill the vacated spot of Dr. Taylor in the Biology Department. Mr. McCloud is currently finishing his doctorate and will arrive with a Doctor's Degree in Biology from UNC-Chapel Hill. Susan Hensley will replace Chris Yoder, in the Music Department, who is returning to graduate school at the University of Illinois. Miss Hensley has earned her M.A. Degree in Music from Louisiana State University. Eddie Jo Jarrett will become a member of the English Department replacing Vesta Baughman who is taking a leave of absence at the University of South Carolina.

Kathy Nann will become Director of the Audio-Visual Center effective June 1. She has a bachelors degree from the Technical Institute of Alamance.

Within the next few weeks, replacements for Ed Shields, who has decided to take another year of leave, Dr. Pat Verhulst, in the English Department, and Mr. Murphy, in the Social Work Department, will be named.

THE GOOD, THE BAD, AND THE AWFUL

by Bob Kramer

Since there are no more movies to review for this term (they were all reviewed in the last issue), and since this is the next to the last issue of the HILLTOP for this year, I thought I would give you a preview of what the Mars has to offer for next Fall. Already booked are The Towering Inferno, Young Frankenstein, Lenny, W. W. and the Dixie Dancekings, Brannigan, Airport 75, The Great Waldo Pepper, Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore, Godfather II, Murder on the Orient Express, Freebie and the Bean, Rosebud, and The Four Musketeers.

You have heard of Jeanne Dixon who predicts what will happen, Uri Geller who causes things to happen; well here are 25 things I would like to see happen next term: in the area of film. (Excuse me if I slip in a couple of others as well.)

1. Patton in Moore on a Sunday evening.
2. New seats at the Mars.
3. Speakers that

- work in Belk.
4. A Woody Allen Film Festival.
5. Everyone seeing at least one movie.
6. Costume dance on Oscar night; come as your favorite star.
7. Survey among students as to what movies they would most like to see.
8. Chinatown any night in Moore.
9. The red chalk removed from the screen in Belk.
10. The "Reader" becoming a music major and singing the credits.
11. Quiet radiators at the Mars.
12. Air conditioning for Moore.
13. Speaker on UFOs.
14. Everyone coming in to the Sunday night movie before it starts.
15. Reader's choice. (Insert your own: _____)
16. A few films with smokers and discussions to follow.
17. Movement from my office clock; it has been stopped since June, 1974.
18. Movement from several of my students; they have been stopped for considerably longer.

Debate Team '74-75

After a period of several years of inactivity, the Mars Hill College debate team resumed intercollegiate competition during the winter and spring of 1975. Seven debaters participated in one or more tournaments debating the 1974-75 intercollegiate resolution "Resolved: That the power of the presidency should be significantly curtailed." For an inexperienced group, the team posted a credible record. The best performances were in tournaments at Middle Tennessee State University where the team of David Rankin and Scott Sivils were the top-ranked non-finalist team with a won-lost record of 5-3 and at Western Carolina University where the team of Steve Boyce and Alice Coppedge tied for 1st place in novice debate with Lenoir Rhyne. The teams also competed in tournament at the University of South Carolina, the University of Georgia and The Citadel, where they debated against the best teams in the Southeastern United States.

The debaters have formed the Mars Hill Debating Society and

19. Graduation for J. Boy Black.
20. All road construction, electric construction, water construction and progressive destruction to cease.
21. A diet that works.
22. Who's Who committee becoming public.
23. A Competency Curriculum hotline are exploring the formation of a campus chapter of one of the national debating honor fraternities. Scott Sivils, the president of the debating society, is leading the club in preparation of an active year in 1975-76. Among activities which are underway is recruiting of debaters from entering freshmen and transfer students and plans for a high school debating tournament on the Mars Hill campus next fall. The faculty sponsor of the debating team during the past year has been David Knisley, of the History department.

For the 1975-76 school year, the coach of the intercollegiate debating and other forensic activities will be Mr. George White of the Mars Hill library staff. Mr. White was a successful intercollegiate debater at his alma mater, Union College in Barbourville, Kentucky. He is already maturing plans for conducting the disciplined and sustained research and training program which is necessary for a winning debating team in today's intercollegiate competition.

where any student or faculty can call in and have questions answered about the new curriculum.

24. Formation of a Mars Hill Film Society.
25. Last, and certainly not least; black, green, red, yellow, or chartreuse greyboards in Cornwall.

GUATEMALA

Ancient Mayan ruins, beautiful lakes, colorful Indian market places, Spanish colonial architecture - these are the ingredients which are bringing collegians to Guatemala in ever increasing numbers.

Many are journeying to this Central American nation by themselves - and even more are arriving in groups. And, for good reason - Guatemala has the range of hotels, interesting sightseeing and food to fit most budgets.

Whether they arrive in groups or individually, collegians may select a variety of package plans, which include hotel accommodations, sightseeing, transfers to and from the airport and in some cases, meals as well.

A popular package, offered by Gray Line of Guatemala, is an eight day/seven night tour which costs only $109 per person, double, plus air fare. Those collegians who select this tour will experience one of the best travel bargains in the hemisphere.

On one day, a special tour is planned to the central highlands of Guatemala to visit the Mayan market town of Chichicastenango, followed by a visit to Lake Atitlán with its magnificent volcanos. Also on the agenda is a half day tour of historical Guatemala City and a full day's tour of Antigua, the old Spanish "Capital of the Americas."

Chichicastenango, on Thursday and Sunday, becomes the setting of the Western Hemisphere's largest and most colorful market. A good many of the 20,000 Mayans who live in the surrounding hills converge on "Chichi" during the market day to hawk their wares. A few hours drive from there is one of the world's most beautiful lakes, Lake Atitlán, which is ringed by more than 12 different villages, many of which are accessible only by launch or
