to take a make e-up exam, and ers the studen richment Cell counseling in roblem solving The student 州班巴 newspaper vocational test ars Hill, N.C. 28754 VOL. LIV Number 8, 1981

University, chart. Proctor to Give Staley Lectures for counseling or Samuel D. Proctor, Senior ster of the Abyssinian Baptist Irch in New York City, and Pro-^{lor} of Education (Martin Luther King porial Chair) of the Graduate School now competend Education at Rutgers University, will mbers of the goat a series of three lectures March for and wrote and 18. He is sponsored at Mars Hill rett, Jeff William the Staley Distinguished Christian mart, Lori Solars program.

Diane Bartlett. Proctor holds degrees from nd statistics que ginia Union University, Crozer biased nature, and Boston University. He v response, who is career as pastor of the Pond Baptist Church in Providence, le Island. He has held positions as er, dean, and president of his alma as well as president of North olina A and T State University. 1964 to 1969, when he assumed his nt position, he held administrative lions with the Peace Corps in and Washington, D. C., the Na-Control Council of Churches, the Office conomic Opportunity, and the Infor Services to Education.

is a member of the governing ds of the United Negro College Meharry Medical College, Mid-General Hospital, and the Na-Institute of Health's advisory mittee on recombinant DNA in our popular of numerous awards including the ^{1ch} among others. He is the reci-N COLLEGIA standing Alumnus Award from University and the Distinguished ce Award from the Universty of York at Plattsburg. He is also the Plent of over 17 honorary degrees inng doctorates by Davidson College North Carolina A and T University in North Carolina.

Dr. Samuel Proctor

He will speak at three different occasions during his two-day stay. His first address will be "The Possibility of a Genuine Community in America," at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 17, in Belk Auditorium. He will speak at the Community Meeting Wednesday, March 18, at 10 a.m. in Moore Auditorium, and his final lecture, "The Search for Real Security," will be delivered Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Belk.

The Staley Lecture Series was established in 1969 by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Staley of New York in memory of their parents. It brings recognized scholars who truly believe in the Christian gospel and who can clearly communicate their beliefs to students in colleges and universities across the na-

Ronai is New Basketball Coach

Mars Hill College named Robert Ronai as its new basketball coach this week. Ronai, 28, is presently head basketball coach at Massanutten Academy in Woodstock, Va. The announcement of his appointment was made public in a news conference held Thursday, March 12, at Asheville's Sheraton Inn.

Ronai has been at Massanutten since 1979, compiling records of 16-9 and 16-8. Massanutten's basketball program is a post-high school program, yet the players retain four years of eligibility at the college or university they decide to attend. Ronai has had to recruit all of his players while at the Virginia school, and do so within a very limited scholarship budget. The 16-9 record in 1979-80 was compiled with only seven players, and this year's 16-8 score was completed with 10 players. Nearly all of his players have been recruited by college programs and have received scholarships. The preparatory school's schedule contains a number of college or university freshman teams as well as other prep schools.

Prior to his coaching job with Massanutten, Ronai has held head coaching positions with Bisop Luers High School in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, where he compiled a two year record of 28-13; Crownpoint High School, where his team was regional runner-up in 1977 with a 16-6 record; and Salesian Prep High School.

Ronai graduated from Don Bosco High School in Ramsey, New Jersey in 1971 with several academic and athletic awards. He earned his undergraduate degree in health and safety from St. Francis College in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, continued his education at Indiana University, and is scheduled to receive a Master of Science degree in physical education this summer from Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana.

New Coach Bob Ronai

Mars Hill's Athletic Director, Claude Gibson, noted that Mars Hill was "very pleased to have been able to attract Bob Ronai. His references have stressed his thorough knowledge of the game, and the organization and discipline of his teams. The evidence of his ability to build a winning team among the restrictions of a military prep school is an indication to us that he can establish a successful program at Mars Hill."

Apple Cadenza, Mom, and the sixth time, Mars Hill's literary line, CADENZA, has proven the of Mars Hill students, faculty, laff to compete on a creative level ^{colleges} all over the nation, by bewarded the All-American ranking, highest honor given college literary cation rights for David Perkins, a junior history major e 1979-80 CADENZA was edited Burnsville, NC and Pam Smith, a rst entry and a lor English major from Easley, SC. ested to submit Hughes, Professor of English, as the advisor for the publication, ve deadline and position she has held since 1969. smallest of the four college and the fact that Perkins and had never worked together, the soon organized a large staff and to work acquiring the poetry,

David Perkins

Pam Smith

prose, photography, and art needed to form the magazine. Their efforts proved successful, and, according to Perkins, the amount of photography and poetry submitted far exceeded that of the previous year. The amount of quality material available enabled the editors to publish a 64-page magazine, the largest size CADENZA ever published.

The CADENZA held its annual premiere in the Timberline Coffeehouse and honored the award winners in each category of competition. The prize winners were selected by qualified judges from each discipline. Dr. Francis Hulme, a professional writer and retired professor from Asheville, NC, served as the judge for poetry and prose; Tony Boring, a professional photographer who lives in Asheville and works at Davis Photographics judged photography; and Mrs. Verna Bradley, an art teacher and graduate of Mars Hill College as art judge. The winners in each category received a cash prize - $20 for first and $10 for second.

At the end of the semester, the magazine was mailed to the National Scholastic Press Association and the Associated Collegiate Press for national ranking, and Betty Hughes recently received the information. The magazine was rated in five categories: character; editorial content; illustration; editing and display; and production factors. The CADENZA rated in the top ranking, "excellent," in all five categories.

When notified of the magazine's achievement, the editors were understandably elated. "That's great," exulted Perkins, who was selected by the Communications Board to serve as editor for the 1980-81 CADENZA. "I only hope we have the same support from the students and faculty in the future. That's all it takes for an All-American magazine, you know, just quality material to choose from."

Mrs. Hughes was a little less modest in her appraisal of the editor's job. "Pam Continued on Page 2

$10 Fifth

$15 Fourth

heir poetry

ner-Webb.

group learning ges-for exam

le is a reprint

thology

of the page of , in the upper t as well as the pe also! f poems up to ns welcome.

not be returned will be notified publications.