The Womens Club wishes to take this opportunity to thank the people of the community for their hearty cooperation in making their efforts at the fair a success, and especially do they wish to express their appreciation to the merchants for the various things put on display in the North Carolina Booth. We have every reason to be proud of our State for the many things made at home.

Mrs. T. O. Wilson entertained her card club Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home on Roanoke Avenue. Eight guests were present and an interesting game was played. A salad course was served at conclusion of the game. Those enjoying Mrs. Wilson's hospitality were Mesdames W. T. Babcock, Emmett Matthews, G. A. Northington, Nora Grant, Will Taylor, A. L. Clark, Frank Wilson,

Alligood-King

A wedding of much interest to the Twin Cities and North Carolina took place Sunday morning, Oct. 19, in the Roanoke Rapids Baptist Church at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Ruth Virginia King of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and Mr. William G. Alligood of Rosemary, N. C., were quietly married in the presence of only a few close friends. The wedding which was solemnized by Rev. A. P. Mustian, pastor of the church, came as a complete surprise to the many friends of the young couple. They left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to Washington City and upon their return will make their home in Rosemary.

The bride has lived in Roanoke Rapids for a number of years and is the popular young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. King. She is a graduate of the Roanoke Rapids High School.

The groom is one of the most popular young men of Rosemary and is called the "Boy's Hero," because of the fine work he has accomplished with the boys in the community. He is a graduate of the Roanoke Rapids High School and attended college in Washington, D. C. He is now connected with the Rosemary Manufacturing Co., in the designing department. The good wishes of the whole community go out to this popular and happy couple.

Weldon Chief Wounded

with Mitchell's gun, missing the Negro, who had hidden under the house. His second shot hit the Chief who fell at Mitchell's feet. The latter snatched up his gun but it was empty. He ran after the Negro who escaped thru the front door and headed for the woods across the railroad, eluding the deputy sheriff and hiding in the woods.

A posse of 290 men formed at once, head by Chiefs Massey and Dobbins, deputy sheriff Gray and other Weldon and Twin City police and deputy sheriffs. About fifty men were armed, as it was known the Negro had more shells for his gun.

The woods were combed as far West as the Chockoyotte Country Club, but in the meantime the Negro had crawled to the cotton oil mill and was scereted in the seed house. Hearing the posse closing in on the hiding place, he climbed to the top of the seed house. A half dozen men entered the building from two sides.

Seeing a dim figure they started to fire when someone suggested it might be one of their own men. They called to him and he answered that it was Thorne, a member of the posse. A checkup revealed Thorne outside and the fugitive was called to surrender. He refused and defied the white men saying if they came up there he would give them plenty of Hell.

Several shots were fired up at the Negro who returned the fire. Finally a bullet struck him and he fell from behind the steel lattice work where he had been hiding to the top of the seed pile. Another bullet sent him rolling down into the hands of the posse. He had been hit by two pistol bullets and one rifle cartridge.

Officers took him in hand and brought him to the hospital. Later, the Negro claimed he did not fire until Chief Crew had hit him and he had crawled wounded from the woods to the oil mill. He also claims that his trouble with the other Negroes, which started the shooting, was due to his efforts to get rid of his gun which he had bought the day before. Jackson had been working for the oil mill for about two years. He was originally from Pittsboro. His previous record is not known.

Threats of mob violence Sunday night were many. If Chief Crew had died that night, the ten officers guarding the hospital would have had their hands full. However, everything passed quietly, except for congregations on street corners here and at Weldon. Sheriff Johnson, Scotland Neck police and deputies from other sections of the county arrived here soon after the shooting. Mr. Crew has been Chief of Police at Weldon for more than thirteen years and is known as a fearless and conscientious officer.

Cancer Clinic Here

the outside of the body, which can be seen or felt, often begins as a wart, mole, lump, scab or unhealed sores. Lumps in the breast are especially suspicious. If you have any of these abnormal developments, watch them. If they change in appearance or size, see a doctor at once. Do not wait until they cause pain.

Internal cancer, cancer on the inside of the body may be known by signs before any lump is seen or felt. Increased or irregular discharge or return of flow after change of life in women; and blood at any time in the urine of men are suspicious. Cancer of the stomach and bowels is more difficult to discover. However, chronic indigestion or dyspepsia and piles of long standing are conditions that may lead to cancer. Anyone having any of these signs or symptoms is cordially invited to attend the clinic. On the other hand if one does not have any of the above symptoms there is no reason to suspect cancer and likely nothing to gain by attending a cancer clinic. A cancer clinic is concerned only with the detection of cancer, or precancerous condition, and not with the giving of general physical examinations.

This terrible disease has been and can be cured in the early stages. Drugs and like are useless in the treatment, but surgery, X-Ray and radium are the agents of value in the early stages. Almost as many people over 40 years of age die of cancer as of pneumonia, tuberculosis and typhoid fever combined. One woman in eight and one man in eleven, of those who reach 40 years of age will die from cancer. The menace of cancer lies in the fact that it does not cause pain in the early stages. Therefore its victims often do not know they have cancer until the disease is well developed.

For some unknown reason cancer is on the increase. For the past 15 years the disease has increased about 25 per cent—and that in the face of all the educational work and the improved methods of treating the disease.

Abe Lyman's Band In Talkie 'Good News'

All of the sparkling mirth, youthful exuberance and musical delight of the original musical comedy hit of "Good-News" has been preserved in the filmization of the Broadway success which will show at the Peoples Theatre Monday and Tuesday as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer offering.

Bessie Love heads the cast in the picturization of the famous musical comedy, and others featured include Mary Lawlor, Stanley Smith, Gus Shy, Lola Lane, Cliff, (Ukulele Ike) Edwards, Frank McGlynn, Dorothy McNulty, Billy Taft, Tom Jackson and Delmar Daves.

In the picture version are sixteen song hits including five interpolated numbers not in the stage presentation and written especially for the screen offering. Abe Lyman's famous band renders this catchy musical score, including the ever-popular "Good News" and "Varsity Drag."

Throughout the picture there is a welcome adherence to musical comedy technique, song and dance establishing a swift tempo in the opening flash and increasing its sway right to the end of the spectacular natural color finale in the football wedding scene.

Perhaps the most thrilling of all sequences is the football game staged in a most realistic fashion for the film, not one foot of which was clipped from newspaper. Every bit of the action takes place at a match staged for the picture by members of the University of Southern California football squads.

Recent patients at the Roanoke Rapids Hospital include Mrs. W. E. Collins, Mrs. A. M. Glover, Miss Estelle Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Goodman were hostesses on Saturday evening to their card club at their home on Roanoke Avenue. Places for playing were found by tallies. Two tables for players were placed in the living room. Mrs. Fletcher Dickens was winner of high score. The hostess served a salad course. Those playing were Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Dickens, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Gates.

The Welfare Department of the womens club will meet at the home of Mrs. T. M. Jenkins on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Like Finding it in the Middle of the Road

Is it hard for you to save systematically? Sure! But listen. Mrs. Goodman told us last week she would soon have a hundred dollars for us. We were amazed. How come? We asked. She told us that after Christmas last year we had said we would like to have a Christmas Savings account if we could only think of it every week. "I'll take care of that," was her answer.

And now Christmas is near and we have one hundred dollars more than we thought we had. It was just like finding it in the middle of the road and it was so easy after all. Didn't miss it a bit. Every man, woman and child here can do the same thing on a smaller or larger basis. Try it and see how simple it is.
