IN MEMORIAM

On January the seventh, 1929, near the hour of midnight the death angel called at our home and took from us our mother, Mrs. Willie Thomas. We loved and trusted her and miss her smile more than we can tell. Her body sleeps beneath the sod but her soul is safe at home with God, where all his loved ones some time shall meet, and little children sit at Jesus' feet.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

Her loving, kind and gentle voice, I think sometimes I hear, But when I realize 'tis hushed, It seems 'tis more than I can bear.

We loved you, dear, sweet mother, But we cannot call you back For the road that leads to Heaven Has no returning track.

Sleep on now, in silence, dear mother, For on earth you will never wake. But we will look for your greeting As we reach the golden gate.

READERS COLUMN

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH WARREN?

I had just finished reading in the morning paper all about the cyclone in Warren County, the curious antics of the wind and how the hurricane had done stunts seemingly without cause. I got in my automobile to come from Henderson to Roanoke Rapids. When I got to Norlan, Warren County seemed to be quiet and peaceful. Norlan was safe and sane, in fact it looked as if nothing unusual had happened in some time.

At this point I turned and headed for Warrenton. About one mile out of Norlan on my right I saw a large bill board about eight feet high and eighteen to twenty feet long. All of a sudden this bill board began to raise straight up in the air. It just rose straight up from the ground with ease and accuracy and no one was anywhere near. When it had cleared its legs or stakes about two feet from the ground, the billboard laid itself gently down, face up, on the ground. Not a plank or a support was broken or hurt. Very little wind was blowing and I said to myself, what is the matter with old Warren?

I went on about a mile further, on the same road. I saw a colored boy about ten years old riding a perfectly good mule, mule seemed to be of legal age and steady. The boy was holding by a string in the top of a very large black paper band box. He was holding the box with his left hand and driving with his right hand. The macadam road was perfectly dry and level and no one was bothering. All at once a little gust of wind blew up and all four of the mules legs blew out from under him and he and the boy and the box came down broadside. For a while there was nothing higher than a foot from the ground, everything was flat and the wind

RULES OF THE CIRCULATION DRIVE

Any person who is of good character and a resident of the territory of which The Herald circulates is eligible to take part in the Circulation Drive. Persons may nominate themselves or anybody else by filling in the nomination blank with the full name and address, or nominations may be made by simply telephoning the manager and giving him the name and address.

No salaried employee of The Herald, or any of the employee's immediate family will be permitted to take part in the Circulation Drive. However, correspondents are eligible to take part. The campaign, or drive, is for individuals only.

Votes or credits will be issued on paid in advance subscriptions, also any back pay due to The Herald. Votes positively cannot be purchased. All subscriptions must be accompanied by the subscriber's name and address.

Votes are not transferable. One candidate cannot withdraw in favor of another candidate. Should the candidates withdraw from the race for any reason, his or her votes will automatically be cancelled. The giving or transferring of subscriptions from one candidate to another candidate will not be permitted. Votes on such subscriptions are subject to disqualification.

Any collusion on the part of candidates to nullify competition will not be tolerated. The person or persons doing so may be disqualified at the discretion of the management.

There is just this way to secure votes: by paid in advance and back pay subscriptions to The Herald and nomination coupons. Cash, checks or money orders must accompany all subscriptions where votes are credited. Candidates may secure votes and subscriptions anywhere they choose. Subscriptions may be turned in as soon as practicable.

All matter printed elsewhere in this issue relative to the Drive is hereby made a part of the rules and regulations governing it. Any question that may arise during the campaign will be decided by the manager of the campaign and the decision of The Herald and the management will be final. No statement made by any solicitor or any other persons varying from the printed rules of statement will be recognized by the management.

passed on. The big box came up first, then the boy and then the mule. The ten year old boy saw standing nearby a new pine stump, about a foot and a half in diameter, about two feet high and level across the top. The boy took the band box and the mule over to the stump. But while the boy was trying to get a better hold on the band box the mule got up on the stump.

The last I saw of the picture the mule had all four feet on the stump. His outstretched head was facing due South and his mouth was wide open. His tail was pointing due North and was straight up in the air. The mule looked like a self-appointed wether vane for all cyclones in Warren County. Meanwhile the boy was beating the mule in the stomach with the big paper band box. What is the matter with Warren? S. T. PEACE

"Monte Carlo" Is a Gay-Time Romance With Plenty Melody

Entertainment of the very richest, gayest types is promised audiences at the Peoples Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week. For Ernst Lubitsch's farm-famed "Monte Carlo" is coming to town. "Monte Carlo" is the story of the fads and foibles of the wealthy members of royalty who spend much of their time at the gaming tables of Monaco's famous casino.

Jeanette MacDonald, who was the romantic feminine lead in "The Love Parade" and "Let's Go Native," is here seen and heard as the sweet-voiced countess who loses heavily at roulette and decides her only hope is a marriage with the affluent Cloud Allister, a vacuum-brained Prince of her acquaintance. Allister is all for the match too, until Jack Buchanan, a glamorously amorous Count enters on the scene. Buchanan loves Jeanette the moment he sets eyes on her, but somehow he can not effect a meeting with her. And so he bribes her personal hair dresser to leave his job. Jack takes the place of the domestic minion and handles the shears and curling iron so well that Jeanette finds him indispensable.

Comes the tim efor Jeanette to allow Allister to propose to her successfully. Jack must do something to prevent this match. In order to clear his mind, seizes Jeanette and kisses her warmly. She likes it. But he is only the hair dresser to her. In the happy conclusion, however, Jack makes his true identity count for something.

The settings for this picture are done in the grand manner of the reminiscent of "Love Parade." Miss MacDonald has 15 changes of costume, some of them we are told (right before your eyes. There is an abundance of original and pleasing melodies sung by Buchanan, Allister, Miss MacDonald and others. Lubitsch was the director of "The Love Parade." Buchanan is the idol of the British musical stage.

The Herald reserves the right to reject any nomination. The awarding of the prizes at the end of the campaign will be made by representative business and professional men of this section. Address all nominations and communications relative to the campaign to the Manager Circulation Drive, The Herald, Roanoke Rapids, North Carolina.
