Charming Simplicity

There is an air of charming simplicity in this afternoon dress worn by Noel Francis, Radio Pictures featured player. A mannish little bolero and wide belt are softened by a jabot and flares on the elbow-length sleeves of daintily tucked net.

Miss Emma Matthews, who is a student nurse in the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ida Matthews.

Misses Annie Bell Cleaton, Marie and Sue Duke of Seaboard, were the guests last Sunday of Miss Addie Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pridgen and children visited relatives in Whitakers last Sunday.

Messrs Carl Thompson and Crawford Britton visited friends in Washington, N. C., Sunday.

Ladies Aid Circle No. 1 of the Christian Church entertained all the other Circles of the Church last Tuesday evening. The program was as follows: Song service, Scripture, little Miss Margaret Carter. Several selections were rendered by the High School quartet, Coby Williams, Robert Lowe, John Glover and Norman Speight. Roll call and reports from the circles. Solo, "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," Norman Speight. Short talks by the Pastor, Rev. V. H. Grantham and Mr. Buck Taylor. Duet, "Oh Why are You Mad?" by little Miss Marie Cartre and Billie Lewis. Solo, "Little Feet Be Careful," by little Miss Alma Grantham. Solo by Miss Margaret Carter. There were about seventy-five present and after the program they were all invited down in the Church dining room where after more music by the quartette and a short prayer by the Pastor, the guests were served cake, punch, peanuts and other refreshments. The auditorium and dining room were decorated with roses, daisies and other spring flowers.
