

AVENUE

If you are in the habit of tearing up love letters or private papers of any kind, we would suggest using a match as an added precaution, these days. It might be little short of tragedy if a "jig saw" puzzle fan happened to get hold of your waste basket.

It is really uncanny the impression important events make on children. Little Everette-Holt Kivette, age just five, was listening to President Roosevelt's Inauguration speech Saturday over the radio. Someone asked if he knew who was speaking, to which the bright-eyed youngster immediately replied: "Sure! That's the man who like to have got shot!"

The NEWSpaper always knows! A card received Friday morning from the hostess at the Hotel Commodore in Washington announced: Among the recent arrivals in the Nation's Capitol registered at the Hotel Commodore from Roanoke Rapids was Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sherry.

This popular young couple evidently thought they were putting a "fast one" over on their many friends. This was the first word from the newly-weds after leaving Roanoke Rapids.

In the face of the present banking situation we read where "checks" will be all the rage this season, so far as fashion is concerned. "Certified Checks" - - - we presume!

Did you hear the one about the Duke University student who threw his thumb out of joint the other day, trying to "hitch hike" to Chapel Hill?

It remained for C. N. Sowell ("Nick" to you) "radio man" and electrical maintenance manager of the Carolina Hotel at Raleigh to settle a little point concerning the difference between "official" Air-mail beacons and advertising beacons. Some little comment has come to the attention of this newspaper recently about the beacons "bothering" motorists at night.

"Nick," perhaps knows more about radio than Marconi, or Armstrong, and certainly knows his stuff on "electricity."

Altho it is still a point to be settled as to whether official Air-Mail beacons turn from left to right, or right to left, and advertising beacons vice versa, there is one thing certain: the official beacons turn 6 R. P. M. (rev-ol-you-shuns per minute) while the advertising beacons turn only 2 R. P. M.

An interesting fact, pointed out by Mr. Sowell is that even the advertising beacons, used in the larger towns, on 110 volts use 1,000-Watt bulbs, with 250,000 Candle-power, and at a cost in current of approximately $21.00 per month.

Far be it from me to turn this into a "Blessed Event" column during the boss' absence, but here are two arrivals:

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Loy, Tuesday, March 7th, a fine baby boy, weighing six-pounds and two-ounces, at Roanoke Rapids Hospital. Mr. Loy is a brother of H. S. Loy, and is manager of the shoe department at Leggett's

*****

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hardy, Wednesday, March 8th, a nine-pound son at their home on Hamilton Street. Mr. Hardy is compositor at the Herald composing room.

Both mothers and sons are doing nicely, it is said, and either may bid fair to be named: "Franklin Delano."

Saturday morning a delightful meeting of the Coca-Cola club was held at the Rosemary Drug Store with Mr. Alfred Martin as host (script). The meeting was well attended despite the fact that inclement weather had delayed the arrival of very necessary cooks and maids.

Having disposed of the weather in a few well chosen remarks, the members took up the order of business. No scandal of importance was brought out, but it was related that Mrs. A's new dress, of which she is so proud, is entirely too young for her. Furthermore, it was the general consensus of the club that she was spending entirely too much money for clothes, prices and her husband's income being what they are.

It was duly noted that the arrival of the Stork might be expected, with several new entries. The secretary was given a rising vote of thanks for her promptness in disclosing these items. (Once she broke the Great Tidings before the husband was aware of the fact.)

A discourse on "How my husband can expect me to get along on so little," by Mrs. P, was thoroughly enjoyed. The short discussion by Mrs. C on "Late Hours," brought sighs of applause from those assembled.

Fortunately, the absence of a few regular members gave the club a rare opportunity which was utilized to the fullest.

Concluding with the statements that hungry husbands, waiting establishments would perish should members not attend to pressing duties, the meeting was adjourned to meet again Monday morning at the same hour, much to the delight of the above named host, Mr. Martin.

And here, at last folks, in spite of the fact that my friends said that I couldn't do it, is a "column" without too many "I's" in it, all of which brings to mind the sad story of a certain middle-western columnist a few years ago, who left the following note to his editor:

Dear Ed tor:

You w ll note am not turn ng n a column today, all because of the excellent reason that my type- wr ter s broken. You see, Ed. t was th s way, the darn "eye" key on my mach ne got out of whack and you w ll real ze that t s utterly mposs ble for me to get out my column w thout the "eye" key.

Juniper oil is pleasant to take in form of BUKETS, the bladder physic, also containing buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money.
