

LIQUOR CASES ON DECLINE

22 Face Recorder Tuesday But Only Five For Liquor

Busy Session At Recorder's Court Variety Of Cases

A variety of charges comprised the twenty-two cases tried in Recorder's Court Tuesday. Liquor charges led with five cases, while larceny was a close second with four cases. There were three cases of fornication and adultery, two cases each of assault and assault with deadly weapon, driving while drunk and two charged with both assault with deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapon, and one case of affray and one of both driving while drunk and transporting liquor.

George Lee and Ned Little, charged with assault with deadly weapon and carrying concealed weapon, whose case was continued from last week, plead not guilty. They were found guilty, however, and sentenced to ninety days in jail to be assigned to work the roads.

W. F. Martin, Gray Outland, and Elizabeth Melvin, charged with fornication and adultery, and whose case was also continued from last week, plead guilty as to Martin, not guilty as to Outland. The judgment was six months in jail to be assigned to work the roads as to Martin. Capias to issue any time within two years after Friday, May 12, 1933. Prayer for judgment was continued as to Melvin.

Approximately 76 Miles Of Streams Open For Fishing

Raleigh, May 7.—State game refuges in National Forest lands in North Carolina will be open for public fishing during the periods, May 10 to 15, and June 10 to 15, both dates inclusive, J. S. Hargett, assistant director of the Department of Conservation and Development, in charge of inland fisheries, announces.

The lands to be open for fishing are Mount Mitchell refuge, Wayah Bald refuge, Daniel Boone Refuge and Andrew Johnson refuge. Approximately 76 miles of streams will be available in these refuges. These streams have been heavily stocked with trout held in rearing pools up to fingerling size, Mr. Hargett estimating that up to this year 280,000 have been released in the streams of the four refuges. Detailed information on the fishing may be secured from C. N. Mease, chief refuge warden, Marion, N. C.

Mrs. Helen Kley of Chicago, won a divorce because her husband spanked her when he found her using a reducing machine.

Enos Williams of Cardiff was expelled from the miners' union for agreeing to abandon his fellow strikers in return for a pair of trousers.

The New Store that's "DOING THINGS"

When we opened our new store, we weren't content to sit and let business come to us, thinking it would because we were a local, home-owned store. We started to "do things" in a few weeks, we've attracted (and are holding) many new friends and customers, and have LOWERED THE PRICES OF GROCERIES IN ROANOKE RAPIDS. If you doubt it, food is being sold nearly 20 per cent lower since we opened than at the same company's store in Weldon. There's a reason! Show your appreciation by trading with the store that sets the pace in PRICE and SERVICE!
