

Next Week At Local Theatres

IMPERIAL PROGRAM

Next Weeks feature offering at the Imperial brings two great stars together for the first time, Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery in their latest production, "When Ladies Meet," and the picture is said to have great entertainment value.

In a simple, but appealing story, Mary, portrayed by Myrna Loy, an ambitious authoress, stands high in the affections of Jimmy, which part is taken by Robert Montgomery, but she cannot help but fall in love with Roger, a philanthropic publisher, played by Frank Morgan. Jimmy's efforts to break up the liaison only adds to Mary's determination. Roger's many affairs are known to his wife, Clare, played by Ann Harding, but she is content to let them run their course knowing her husband always returns to her.

Robert Montgomery in his role realizes he must do something "desperate" and he does it with the aid of Alice Brady and other members of the cast, with the finale having Roger convinced that he has stepped from the straight and narrow path once too often, and in a manner that evidently fixes everything to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

Wednesday-Only, bargain day at the Imperial, sees the return of one of the most popular pictures to play Roanoke Rapids during the past season. By popular demand, the management of Roanoke Rapids theatres will bring back "Smilin' Thru" in what is the only second-run showing of the week. Fredric March and Norma Shearer are co-starred in this feature, and it may be seen Wednesday at its second and final showing in Roanoke Rapids for the low sum of 10c-15c matinee and night.

"Zoo in Budapest," depicts an unusual romance in an unusual romance in an unusual background, starring Loretta Young and Gene Raymond, and comes to the Imperial screen next Thursday-Friday. The supporting cast includes O. P. Heggie, Wally Albright, Paul Fix, Murray Kinnell, Ruth Warren and many others.

The story, built around the activities and the atmosphere of a great zoological park, deals with the romance of a young man who has lived all his life among the animals, and a simple, unsophisticated orphan girl who comes to the zoo for a lesson in natural history. She gets her lesson, alright, and finds romance besides. The production is said to be outstanding from a standpoint of photography, and is a Jesse L. Lasky production.

Rex Bell holds the center of attraction for the Saturday picture in "Diamond Trail."

First of New Crop

There will be many more to follow before bleak October winds blow, but here is the first bathing beauty winner of the 1933 season. She is Miss Laura Hover, of Santa Monica, Calif., who annexed a beautiful cup her first time out in a bathing beauty parade at Deauville Club at Santa Monica.

Mrs. L. S. Cannon and Claude Cannon attended the graduating exercises at Davidson College last week, where Eugene Cannon graduated.

PEOPLES PROGRAM

Starting the week with Edmund Lowe and Nancy Carroll together for the first time on the screen in the late production, "I Love That Man," the Peoples brings another week of excellent summertime entertainment at the new low prices instituted with the combined management of Roanoke Rapids Theatres.

"I Love That Man," will be shown Monday-Tuesday at the downtown house, and is said to be an outstandingly entertaining film, particularly adaptable to the talents of Edmund Lowe and Miss Carroll. The Monday-Tuesday admission at the Peoples is only 10c-20c.

Wednesday-Thursday, Bebe Daniels and Randolph Scott are co-starred in a new and interestingly different story of modern day lives and loves titled: "Cocktail Hour."

Miss Daniel's is one of the favorites of yester-years in the film colony to stage a quick comeback since her excellent work in "Forty Second Street," in which she firmly established herself as a fine, dramatic actress, and her appearance with Randolph Scott is said to inject fun, drama and music in a picture whose strong appeal lies in its clever and startling different story.

"Cocktail Hour" is particularly a picture for the worldly wise younger generation, but one that will be enjoyed by every member of the family.

Bargain Day, Friday, at the Peoples, brings a brand new release. Alison Skipworth and Roland Young are offered in "Ladies Profession." The new bargain day prices at the Peoples are 10c-15c matinee or night.
