

YOUNG DEMOS FAVOR REPEAL

Not Over Half-a-Dozen Dissenting Votes At Convention

Raleigh, July 13.—Young Democrats of North Carolina would not be quieted—took the bits in their teeth at Wrightsville Beach Saturday and adopted, with not more than half a dozen dissenting votes, a resolution calling for repeal of the 18th Amendment, favoring temperance and against the open saloon, after killing, with less than a dozen favorable votes, an amendment to seek repeal of the North Carolina Liquor Law, the Turlington act.

The resolution, adopted by acclamation, but representing hours of work to produce a suitable—not too strong; not too weak, resolution, follows:

"Whereas, national prohibition has failed utterly in that it has fostered hypocrisy, invites corruption, supports crime and makes a mockery of the cause of temperance, and,

"Whereas, the action of the State of North Carolina with reference to repeal will be determined by a vote of the people in a non-partisan election in November, 1933.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Young Democrats of North Carolina, in convention assembled, recognizing the right of every citizen to vote for or against repeal without regard to party affiliation, record the vote of this convention in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment. Further, that we urge the enactment of such measures as will actually promote temperance and effectively prevent the return of the saloon."

Mrs. May Thompson Evans, High Point, for two years vice-president, was elected president of the organization, unanimously after Tom Banks, Raleigh, withdrew after balloting started. Doyle Alley, Waynesville, was elected vice-president; John Rodman, Washington, N. C., secretary; Kern Carlton, Salisbury, treasurer; J. Dewey Dorsett, retiring president, national committeeman, and Mrs. Lula Martin McIver Scott, Greensboro, national committeewoman.

Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, of Kansas, lauded the Young Democrats and Tyre Taylor, national founder, and the "new deal" administration of President Roosevelt. Miss Isabel Ferguson, Salem College Teacher, keynoter, delved into history to get a basis for the new order, changed from "let the buyer beware" to "let the seller beware." Others spoke briefly, but largely on repeal and the election. The lone voice raised in opposition to putting the Young Democrats on record regarding repeal was smothered in a noise of protest after a few words had been said.

At the night banquet, former Governor Gardner and the new president, Mrs. Evans, were the un-programmed speakers, both delivering interesting and thoughtful talks. Governor Gardner lauded the Roosevelt courage and told of results of his revolutionary program. Governor Ehringhaus spoke briefly, noting among other things that the action of the 1933 General Assembly in balancing the State budget will bring this State out of the ruts and place her on solid ground. Senator Reynolds launched his campaign for repeal of the 18th amendment.

"Prohibition has not merely failed to prohibit; it has not even pretended to prohibit. We who favor repeal are not for more liquor; we merely seek to control the liquor which will always be with us. We want to control it and derive from it a just portion of revenue for the government," Senator Robert R. Reynolds told the Young Democrats at their banquet, in what may be his opening gun for 18th amendment repeal.

"I welcome an expression from the people at all times and it is difficult for me to conceive the mental process of a person who would wish to deny our people their right to hold an election on any governmental question which arouses their interest," he said. "Personally," said the junior Senator, "I am never afraid of the considered judgment of the people of North Carolina."

"An account of my stewardship" was Senator Reynold's opening theme, in which he showed that in the recent congress, the most momentous in the history of the nation, he had followed the banner of the great President Roosevelt, in a program which, he pointed out, President Roosevelt referred to, in parts, as experimental, and, if wrong, subject to revision." Certainly the older order of things had proved a dismal failure," the speaker said.

Describing President Roosevelt as taking the helm at the most tragic era of the nation, referred to the banking holiday order, reminding that not one of the banks since opened has again closed. Referring to the economy measure, for supporting which he has been criticised, Senator Reynolds said: "I fought with all the power I possessed to secure the best possible compromise for the veterans and then after I had done that I continued with the President."

He referred to the measure to consolidate functions of government, the inflation bill, the Muscle Shoals project act, and other legislation. "North Carolina is getting direct benefits from the legislation we passed in the last Congress," he said, adding: "We are just now witnessing the inception of those vast public works, and we may well view the future with hope."

"I have never been afraid and am not now afraid to mention prohibition. And in mentioning it I do not mince words. I think the 18th amendment stands out as the most colossal failure in the history of our government. It has served the strange purpose of defeating the very thing it was intended to help. Rather than promote temperance, it has increased intemperance."

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.
