

TRUCE DECLARED IN HOG CASE AS CASE POSTPONED

When Recorder Judge Daniel allowed postponement of the now-famous Roanoke Rapids hog case until next Tuesday he took particular pains to see that the hogs were taken care of in the meantime.

From the evidence in Mayor Jenkins court Monday it seems that Julian Glover and Jim Cranwell had a hog pen, enclosing four hogs, on the land of the Roanoke Rapids Properties, Inc., in the untenanted area east of Mr. Cranwell's home. The pen had been on the property several years, with the permission of the owners.

Some time later, E. B. Glover rented the land for farming purposes and for several crops everything went along smoothly. Nothing was ever said about the pen being on the land.

Last week, however, the owners of the hogs were informed their pen had been torn down, the hogs removed and they could be found tied to a tree off the property. Sure enough, there they were. Messrs Glover and Cranwell swore out a warrant charging trespassing against E. B. Glover. The latter says he rented the land and had a right to move the hogs.

The matter was threshed out before Mayor Jenkins. At this hearing, Mr. Glover acted as his own attorney. He admitted his reason for moving the hogs was because he had been fined some time ago for permitting his livestock to roam at large and destroying the garden of his present opponents, but contended he was "boss" of the land on which the hog pen stands and could prove it.

This he intends to do in Recorder's Court. Judge Daniel allowed the case to be continued at Mr. Glover's request but instructed him to repair the damaged pen and leave the hogs alone until the case was decided. Eddie Ricks, in charge of the property in question, will be the star witness in the case. He will probably be used by both sides.

100 At Party Given For Teachers Of Local Schools

On Friday evening of last week the teachers and a few of their friends were honored with a reception by the Presbyterian Church. The Sunday School rooms, where the party was held, were attractively decorated for this occasion.

The guests were greeted as they arrived by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. A. L. Clark, Mrs. Carl Hale, Mrs. Frank Nash and Mrs. George Hayes. Punch was served immediately by Mrs. J. H. Vries and Mrs. Frank Hawley. During the evening various contests were enjoyed, Mr. Bradley having charge of the amusements. Several prizes were given, musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Lyle Wilson, Miss Evangeline Pendleton, Russell Buxton, Mrs. Frank Hawley assisted by Mrs. R. G. Knight, Mrs. R. P. Beckwith, Mrs. Edward Brenner and Mrs. Vries served a delightful ice course to about a hundred guests.

Over in Scotland the other day they staged a tournament for one-armed golfers. Most of the players were veterans of the world war.

New Yorkers go in for prize contests of every conceivable character like ducks take to water. Residents of that city are constantly looking for something for nothing.

It was learned through the office clerk at Halifax, that 625 applicants have registered with the National Reemployment Service to date Sept. 20. Of this number 471 registered when the clerk visited the different communities. The number of applicants for the communities visited are: Scotland Neck, 87; Enfield, 90; Brinkleyville, 70; Littleton, 65; Hollister, 62; Weldon, 50; Roanoke Rapids, 47.

The applicants are classified according to the work they do. And many occupations are represented. A large majority of applicants are common laborers. Truck driving also has a large representation, 83 applicants. Carpentry comes next with 32; while there are 22 foremen, 11 each of painters and firemen, 10 mechanics and 8 bookkeepers. In the miscellaneous group it may be truly said are men from every walk in life. Bank clerks, waiters, plumbers, nurses, saw filers, brick layers, black smiths, plasterers and two civil engineers and one landscape gardener all go to make up his group.

Anybody who wants extra help for work of any kind will surely be able to find a person to do it in this office at Halifax.

During the annual exhibition of the Aquarium Society in the American Museum of Natural History in New York, there was displayed a fish that screams. It has to be feeling fresh, though, before you can get a scream out of it.
