Barmaids and Cocktails After Repeal

Gone, seemingly forever, are the oldtime bartenders with oiled hair and waxed mustache. Instead, when repeal becomes effective, will be American barmaids, a la' British system. Above is shown a class of girls being taught the art of bartending and cocktail mixing at the Bartender's Institute in New York.

REPORT RUM RUNNERS PLAN BIG BUSINESS IN THE CAROLINAS

Raleigh, Nov. 16—Is North Carolina due to be covered regularly and systematically by a thoroughly organized and fearless fleet of rum runners, plying from sources of supply to bootleggers located in every city, town and hamlet during the coming days of alleged dryness, following the "dry" vote in this State last week?

Reports are given in Raleigh that last week an emissary of an organized gang from up around the Great Lakes was in the State looking over the land, checking highways, cities and towns, possible local contact men and other conditions, with the announced purpose of covering this State with a network to supply the supposedly arid area with fiery liquid.

He was in Durham, the report said, and that was thought to have been only one of several points touched in the preliminary survey. Belief was expressed that soon, probably even before the 18th amendment can be repealed early in December, a fleet of trucks will be plying from the Great Lakes area and also probably from Florida, Louisiana and other southern ports, into North Carolina, and South Carolina as well. If such an organized crew should attempt such a thorough coverage, it would be impossible to prevent it entirely, even with the entire United States Army and the State Militia and Highway Patrol, seeking to stop up the gaps through which it would flow.

Another report is that the Sandhill resort folks are wondering what effect North Carolina's arid vote will have on the resort areas in and around Pinehurst and Southern Pines. Numbers of northern people who had made reservations at the hotels for this winter have cancelled them. One man is quoted as having written to this effect: "Instinctively, I am a law-abiding citizen, but I like my toddy, and dislike the thought of breaking the law to get it, I shall go where I can get it without violating liquor laws."

North Carolina, as well as South Carolina, will have plenty of trouble in the next few years in maintaining even a semblance of aridity, despite the two and a half to one vote last week against repeal of the 18th amendment.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP for CHILDREN.
