

INSURED DEPOSITS

More than 90 per cent of the banks operating in North Carolina have applied for membership in the National Deposit Insurance Corporation, or will have their deposits insured automatically because of membership in the Federal Reserve system or because they are national banks, it was stated by Commissioner of Banks Gurney P. Hood today.

Of the 277 banks in the State, all but 27 will have insured deposits, if they meet the requirements. Probably seven of those not yet applied have no deposits or such little deposits that the insurance is not necessary for them, Commissioner Hood said. In the State are 36 national banks with three branches and six State banks with seven branches which are members of the Federal Reserve System. All but 27 of the remaining 225 banks have applied for insurance and half of those applying have been examined, Mr. Hood said.
