

Vets Seek High Office

HUNT PARKER AMONG POSSIBLE OPPONENTS TO SENATOR BAILEY

(Special to The HERALD)

Raleigh, Apr. 5.—World War veterans are expected to figure more prominently in the political arena and in the higher brackets in the next few years than they have in the past.

These veterans have been content, so far, with secondary posts in the State and national government, largely, such as those of commissioner of labor, insurance commissioner, lieutenant governor, and lesser executive posts, a few superior court judges and district solicitors, and legislative jobs. But the predictions are now that they will crawl higher and seek more prominent places.

The assertion is made that the east will certainly trot out a former service man to oppose Senator J. W. Bailey two years from now. The most likely candidate is Henry Stevens, Warsaw, former State and national commander of the American Legion. It is known that he has such an idea in the back of his head and is laying plans that would not conflict with his becoming a candidate. He will not admit it for publication, but that is the way he is lining up his ducks.

Two other eastern possibilities are mentioned, if for any reason Stevens is not a candidate. They are Harold D. Cooley, prominent young attorney of Nashville, and Judge R. Hunt Parker, Roanoke Rapids. While Stevens would be the logical man from the legion viewpoint, the others are available, and about in the order named, legionnaires say.

In the western section, the field has not been so thoroughly canvassed, but it is pointed out that Major L. P. McLendon, formerly of Durham, now of Greensboro, is the most logical legionnaire to oppose Senator R. R. Reynolds four years from now. He is not expected to be a candidate for Governor two years hence, but it is assumed that he would not ignore a call to run for the Senate. Also, it is likely that other eligibles will be produced ere the four years is up.

At least two of the prospective candidates for Governor are World War veterans, Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham, and Judge Wilson Warlick, and there may be still others who may have a yen for the Blount street mansion.

The veterans number two or three of their members in Congress from this State and two or three judges, in addition to two or three State officials, but the belief is that they have reached the age now and the assurance to begin to shoot at the topmost branches in the State and national government.
