ARRESTS MADE IN VA CASE

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 - With only the phantom-like "Roy Brown" still at large today, state and Prince George police, holding four men, believe that they are on the way toward the solution of last Sunday's miniature crime wave in the Petersburg-Hopewell sector.

Still searching for Brown, supposed to be an escaped convict from North Carolina, the police have reconstructed the situation as follows:

Sunday morning Junius Riddle and Garland Starke, Newville farmer, driving toward Hopewell, picked up a third man who they knew only by sight. After a series of farm visits at which liquor was consumed, the trio was arrested in Colonial Heights for speeding. Riddle now in the Petersburg jail on a drunken driving charge, said he climbed peacefully into the police car but that

CONVICT KILLED BY TRUCK

Whit Anthony of Tillery, working as a prisoner on the highway near Arlie, was instantly killed late Tuesday afternoon when struck by a truck, driven by Willie King, 20, of Littleton.

King is under a $500. bond awaiting further disposition of the case. He claims that he did not know he hit the man, thus explaining why he did not go back to the place where Anthony lay.

Three prisoners working with Anthony say the truck passed a car at the place they were working and hit two men at the edge of the road. One was unhurt but Anthony was struck in the back of the head by the body of the truck.

The prisoners were trusties and the guard was down the road and did not see the tragedy. All were from the prison camp at Heathsville.

Murray Myrick of Littleton is owner of the truck. Norman Edwards and Howard Walker were on the truck with King.

8 CITED ARE FREED BY COURT

The eight mill employees of Roanoke Mills Co., cited for contempt on petition of Dr. T. W. M. Long, when they circulated petitions in an endeavor to break a medical contract they and others had with the Doctor, were freed this afternoon by Judge Small when the court dissolved the contempt order.

The attorneys for Dr. Long admitted they did not have sufficient proof to show that the defendants had knowledge of the restraining order issued by Judge Frizelle in October, 1932. Thereupon the court acquitted the defendants and dissolved the show cause proceedings on contempt.

The eight defendants were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Davis, E. L. Hogan, O. F. Ray, Clifton Grant, Tommy Beale, Loftin Rook and Garland Wheeler.

They had circulated petitions among signers of Dr. Long's 1932 contract with the purpose of banding together to break the contract. More than 200 are said to have signed the petition.

Attorneys for Dr. Long were George C. Green, E. L. Travis, Winfield Crewe and Eric Norfleet. For the defendants attorneys were Gay and Midyette of Jackson.
