

SHOPS TO CLOSE ON JULY 4TH

City Stores Decide To Stay Open All Day Wednesday and Close Fourth

Despite the fact members of the Roanoke Rapids Merchants Association decided to keep their stores open all day on July 4th at their last meeting, they have re-considered and have now decided to close on that day, according to word coming from Miss Lillian Belle Jenkins, secretary.

Because the Fourth comes on Thursday this year, the stores will stay open all day Wednesday, instead of closing on Wednesday afternoon, as has been the custom since June 1st. This action will not interfere with future Wednesday afternoon closing hours, and after next Wednesday, the stores will close at noon until September, according to the approved schedule for summer hours.

All members of the association have approved closing Thursday, Miss Jenkins said, and it is thought other merchants who do not belong to the association will cooperate, so remember to do your shopping Wednesday, as the stores will be closed all day Thursday, July 4th.

2 Cases Paralysis

(Continued from Page 1) the hospital two months ago, is so much improved that his father reports no sign of limping and all temporary paralysis evidently cured.

In discussing infantile paralysis on the Avenue, it was found that two well known citizens were victims in their early years: W. C. Williams and Alton Gurganus.

On advice of City Health Officer Dr. John Martin, it is reported the Mayor and City Board of Commissioners will take action to prohibit small children from attending any public gathering until cool weather.

The baby clinic which has been held each Thursday at the doctors' offices of Rosemary Mfg. Co. will be discontinued until further notice, as a precautionary measure against spread of infantile paralysis.

Mayor Kelly Jenkins stated this afternoon he was getting in touch with the Commissioners today to get approval of an ordinance that would keep children under 14 years of age from any public gathering in Roanoke Rapids until further notice.

Physicians say there is no cause for undue alarm as long as parents are careful about keeping children from places where the contagion might spread.

News! Cowboy Throws Horse!

In this stirring bit of rodeo action, from a Rocky Mountain "dude" ranch, the cowboy was a little too tough for his mount. After a stiff tussle, the rider hangs on grimly while his unruly bronc, bewildered, sprawls in the dust.
