HERALD PUBLISHES
THE NEW RONOKO

School Paper To Be Incorporated
With The Local Newspaper

The RONOKO is under way again. Beginning with the present issue, the Herald Printing Company will carry in its regular weekly edition of the Roanoke Rapids Herald two pages of news of the Roanoke Rapids high school.

The Herald is in almost every home in the city, there will not be any great effort on the part of the staff to induce the students of the high school to subscribe to the RONOKO. However, there will be copies of the paper for sale by the circulation manager each Friday immediately after the paper comes off the press.

There will also be arrangements made for those students who want to subscribe to the paper for one reason or the other to do so. The subscription price for the rest of the year will be around fifty cents.
The exact amount has not been determined yet, but the circulation manager will have that information soon.

Of course, the staff realizes that this paper will not be quite as satisfactory as a separate edition of the RONOKO would be. But as the paper is young and struggling to get a start, the students will have to be content with the pres-

The Hi CHATTER BOX

Now that we've won the Northeastern Championship, we're headed for some more games. Let's talk it up to Mr. Davis and as many of us as possible go to them.

What pretty twelfth grader was very much upset when a certain player here was hurt several times in the Elizabeth City game?

That romance between the first string fullback and the seventh grader is still going strong.

Which first string end is crazy about what tenth grade blonde?

Has Julia Moseley been writing to a boy up at William and Mary College, or has she not?

Lucy and Boosie make a cute-sounding couple, don't they?

The football center is the center of what young thing's affection?

Hope the Hi-Y initiation was not too hard on the new members.

Who is Mildred Lee Moore's real heart interest these days?

Sports Paragraphics

Danny Cagle, star center of last year's Yellow Jackets, is playing in the line for the Davidson freshmen.

"Red" Mason, big tackle of the 1935 Yellow Jacket team, is running in the fullback position for the Clemson College freshmen.

ent set-up for a while.

Mr. Wilson, editor of the Herald, is donating this space to the students of the Roanoke Rapids high school. He is not asking anything except that the copy be in on time.

Mr. Denny, adviser for the RO-NOKO, would like to have some students who want to do this type of work to join the staff. However, he warns them that if they are simply joining for the novelty of the thing, they had better employ themselves elsewhere. Those that are really interested in the work for the work's sake are the ones that are wanted.

COLLINS FESTIVAL
PRESENTED HERE

Three Other Entertaining Programs
To Be Given Weekly In Auditorium

The Collins Festival Companies will again be presented in the Roanoke Rapids High School auditorium each Wednesday during November at 8 o'clock p.m. under the auspices of the Woman's Club.

These entertainments were presented here last spring and proved to be very popular and entertaining.

The DiCrosta-Ferrari Company of musical varieties was the first of these shows given here this year.

Andrew DiCrosta is an able player of every variety of brass and reed instruments. His wife, Lenora Ferrari, has a lovely soprano voice and also plays the piano and accordion.

A large crowd attended this excellent program, which was marked by its skillfulness and versatility.

The remaining programs include the Cutler-Griffin Company, Elwood T. Baily, and the Glen Wells Players.

Cutler-Griffin will present an elaborate musical program. It sends before it much praise.

Elwood T. Baily will speak on "and What Now?" on the third Wednesday. He will discuss what is ahead of us. Mr. Baily is the man to whom the credit for the great success of the San Diego Exposition is due. He acted a vice-president of the fair association.

The last attraction will be a play, "Cricket", enacted by the Glen Wells Players. It concerns a servant girl, "Cricket" for short, who enters the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Smith Winters, and the results of her being there. Of course, there is a love story woven into the play, too.

The variety of these different programs should make them have a wide appeal. Music, classical and semi-classical, the best in lecturing, and drama are included in these up-to-date entertainments.
Great interest is anticipated.

Monogram Club
Dance Tonight

Tonight in the High School gymnasium the Roanoke Rapids Monogram Club will hold its third dance. It is being sponsored by twenty high school girls who were chosen by the club. The music will be furnished by Gene Davis' orchestra.

These dances are being put on by the Monogram Club for the purpose of raising money for the school's athletics. As yet very little money has been made, but the students have shown considerable interest. The dances seem at the present a possible source for some extra and needed athletic funds.

The programs thus far have been a social success. Of course, only high school students and their friends are expected to attend. The dances are not for the public.
