

RETAIN ABC SYSTEM UNDER STATE BOARD

 —Only glimmering hope for the quick adjournment which last week seemed so promising remained today as the North Carolina Senate dug into the phases of its consideration of the revenue bill.

With the space of five legislative days, the Senate determined the bloc of "individuals" in the upper house laid down a barrage of amendments to the tax measure that seemed certain to throw it into a joint conference committee and nullify to a large extent the time saving accomplished by the house steamroller that shoved it through the junior body virtually untouched.

Chief target of the Senate amendment-introducers was the sales tax. First, the house conceived levy on sales of building materials to contractors was removed—and with it $1,500,000 of revenue which must either be found elsewhere or lopped off the appropriations list, which the Senate has yet to consider. Then the Senators began to question exemptions granted by the committee which framed the bill, and strong arguments were presented in favor of a two per cent exemptionless levy.

Visitors to the Senate gallery last Friday heard the Democratic campaign pledge to remove the sales tax from food and "necessities of life" termed a mistake, and heard appeals that it be disregarded. Finally, after a day-long session, the senior lawmakers set the revenue bill for special order today and took a breathing spell by considering other less controversial matters at their short Saturday session.

The house meanwhile continued to mop up its secondary calendar and wait for the Senate to finish up with the tax and appropriations bills. The administration highway reorganization measure was presented and sent to committee.

Last week brought also to North Carolina a chance for legal liquor on a statewide basis for the first time in 28 years. The conference committee on the county option liquor bill reported it out with a few changes in the Senate amendments, and both houses promptly accepted the committee report, making the measure law.

Under its provisions, all counties which do not now have legal liquor under the 1935 law may hold elections to determine county sentiment on the liquor question. If the county votes wet, liquor stores will be set up under county liquor boards, which will in turn be supervised by a state control agency.

Rockingham county must wait, for the law provides that only one election on liquor may be held within a county in a three-year period, and Rockingham voted dry in 1935. Counties where liquor is now sold legally are not required to call another election. Their liquor stores and present setups simply will be transferred to the new setup and go under state control.

The Assembly last week voted to spend one day in session at Edenton, historical town within throwing distance of the Atlantic and background for much of North Carolina's colonial history. Governor Hoey will accompany the lawmakers on their trip.

the better-balanced fertilizer for BRIGHT TOBACCO?

Some farmers never know what a fine crop of bright tobacco their land will produce because they never try using enough NV POTASH. Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Yet it very often receives the same low-potash fertilizer year after year. When yields and quality suffer, many things are blamed, when this is often simply due to potash starvation.

Are you sure your bright tobacco gets enough NV POTASH? Many farmers have been content with low-potash fertilizers until they tried using 3-8-8 MADE WITH NV POTASH. They found that the small extra cost of the extra potash in 3-8-8 was their best-paying fertilizer investment, returning greatly increased yields of better quality tobacco.

Full-grained, high-quality tobacco gives more pounds than thin, tissue-paper leaf or light trashy leaf. When you produce 1,000 pounds of tobacco per acre, an extra cent per pound due to extra quality will pay the extra cost of 3-8-8 many times over.

It costs little to try 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. Usually only about six pounds of average tobacco per acre will pay the difference between 1,000 pounds of 3-8-8 and 1,000 pounds of 3-8-5. Farmers who try 3-8-8 keep on using it because it costs little and pays big!

Your fertilizer man knows the importance of plenty of potash in tobacco fertilizer. That's why he has 3-8-8 on sale. Tell him you want to try using more NV POTASH this year. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER MADE WITH NV POTASH—the mixture that contains so much extra-profit-producing plantfood at such low extra cost. Your tobacco will thank you with YIELDS+QUALITY.
