

LOCAL GIRL SCOUTS TO OBSERVE 25th BIRTHDAY

On March 12th of this year the Girl Scouts celebrate their 25th anniversary. It was just a quarter-century ago that Juliette Garden Lawe formed the first troop. That was at a tea part in Savannah, Ga. And now the camp-fires of the Girl Scouts burn in more than fourteen thousand American places. There are nearly four hundred thousand members. There are 14,251 troops of girls between ten and eighteen years of age, and 1,734 Brownie packs of girls between seven and ten. In more than four hundred places there are "Little Homes," headquarters maintained by local and national Scout organizations, and there are three hundred and fifty regular camps where the girls and their leaders go in summer for weeks of hearty outdoor living.

Of the fifty-two badges that a Girl Scout can earn, twenty-two are for outdoor doings, such as swimming, gardening, the observation of animals. There are eleven badges for household activities; nine for cultural interests such as dancing and art, and ten for miscellaneous achievements.

Many a community will long remember the good work that the Girl Scouts did during the floods of last spring, and many a park and playground blooms with shrubs planted by the Scouts.

The Girl Scout organization in Roanoke Rapids is still quite a baby. Scouting was started here with a group of twelve girls in the fall of 1936. Now they have organized and registered troops with approximately seventy-five Scouts. This week saw the beginning of the fifth troop for Roanoke Rapids organized with Mrs. Bill Harris as captain.

In keeping with International Month (February), Girl Scouts of Troop II presented an attractive display of dolls dressed in peasant costumes of France, Germany, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Scotland, Hungary and Switzerland at the Parent Teacher meeting on Wednesday afternoon which was enjoyed by all present. Booklets describing the country and its people accompanied each doll. The entire display showed careful preparation on the part of the Scouts.

Displayed also was a collection of fifteen attractive "Remembrance Cards" for all occasions which the Scouts are selling.

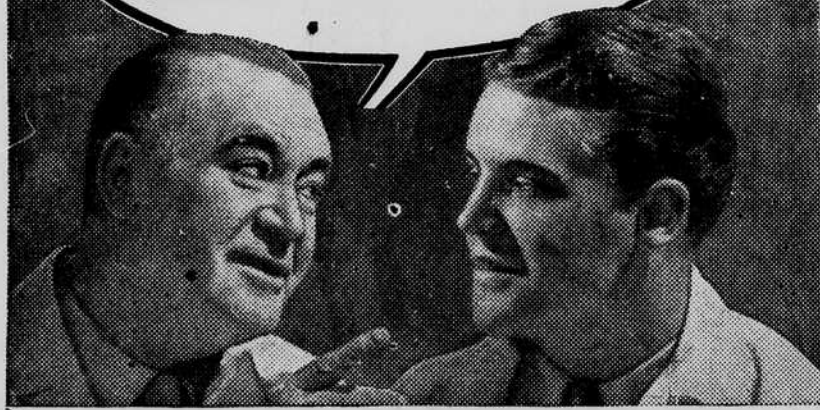

OLDEST HOUSE IN COUNTY BURNS UP

Birthplace Of Local Man On Fire Three Times

Said to be the oldest house in Northampton County, the birthplace of M. D. Collier of this city and of his mother, the old Horace High place on the Lawrenceville Road burned to the ground early Sunday morning, after being on fire three times during the night and morning.

At 8:30 Saturday night the house caught fire but was put out. Fire broke out again just after midnight and the Roanoke Rapids Fire Department answered and put out the second fire. Fire broke out for the third time at 4:20 Sunday morning and this finished the house. The local Department again answered the call. The house, occupied by Mrs. High and a son, is about a mile from Camps Store. Little damage was done when the Fire Dept. answered a call Monday afternoon in the dryer room of Roanoke Mills No. 2. The fire in cotton was soon under control.
