

The Rocketship Soars—At New York World's Fair

NEW YORK — (Special)—The dream of the mechanical age and perhaps the commonplace event of the World of Tomorrow—a trip to Mars in a rocketship—will be produced in tangible form in steel and glass when a model working rocketport is placed into operation at the New York World's Fair 1939.

Now being constructed by Raymond Loewy, industrial designer, the operating planet-line will be part of a free, focal exhibit in the transportation section of the Fair. More than a thousand visitors will be able to see the show at one time. After an interesting, activated display of transportation from the day of the cave man to the present, illumination in the auditorium will be shifted to spotlight the rocketport.

Airplanes, liners, railroad trains and taxicabs of futuristic design will bring passengers and twinkling elevators will begin loading the rocketship's cargo. When the time comes for departure, sirens will sound, machinery will hum, a giant crane will lift the rocketship and place it in the breach of the gun and a brilliant flash and an explosion will indicate that the world-folk are off on a visit to another planet.

By means of an ingenious invention resembling the shutter of a camera, placed in the sky-ceiling, the audience will seem to see the rocketship vanish into the vast reaches of space.

Summer School Here Will Begin June 5th At H. S.

History will be taught in summer school in the Roanoke Rapids

High School, starting June 5th and continuing throughout July 4th.

T. L. Martin will teach all histories from the 7th through the 12th. Mr. Clary plans to teach geometry the following six weeks if he returns from summer school at Carolina soon enough. The fees will be the same as last year's, five dollars per student plus book rent. There will be two hours study each day, Monday through Friday of each week.

Students planning to take music next year are urged to get off what work they can during the summer.

Applewhite Is Inducted Into Office

R. L. Applewhite, of Halifax, recently elected President of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, was formally inducted into office in his home town of Halifax Tuesday night this week at a banquet in his honor. The meeting was a district gathering of the regional organization. Secretary N. G. Bartlett acted as master of ceremonies in the absence of Vice President Guy Elliott of Kinston, and officially turned the affairs of the organization over to the newly elected President. President Applewhite made a few remarks of appreciation and promised his best efforts to make the eighteenth year of the organization the best of them all.

Other speakers on the program included W. E. Fenner of Rocky Mount, a member of the last three sessions of the General Assembly, and Chairman of the Finance Committee of the 1939 House. Mr. Fenner said that the saturation point has been reached so far as the State is concerned in making further provisions for longer terms schools or more grades, and added that he wished it were possible for every man in the State to have a hard surfaced road run by his house. He upheld the action of the Legislature in passing legislation will enable the highway funds to be diverted to the general fund if and when the funds of the general treasury are exhausted and there is no surplus available. His comments indicated that he will sponsor an economy program from now on.

John Kerr Jr. of Warrenton spoke feelingly of the world situation, with the flat statement that "hungry people" will sell their liberty for bread, and that as long as the United States can keep her people well fed there will be no demands for Dictators in this country. Senator C. Wayland Spruill of Bertie entertained the guests with several jokes and paid tribute to the "rippling waters of the Chowan". W. J. Norwood of Roanoke Rapids took encouragement from a recent statement of the Bank of Halifax, which showed more money on hand than at any time in the history of the institution. Rev. Mr. Thrift, pastor of the Methodist Church of Halifax, pronounced the invocation. The dinner was served by the Woman's Club of Halifax. There were about fifty in attendance.
