COMMUNITY CHEST WORKERS AT RALLY MEETING TONIGHT

"Let's Bust the Budget" was the slogan given the Community Chest workers, in addition to "Be Thankful You an Give", by Chairman of the Chest Campaign, Frank Sherry, at a rally held tonight in the auditorium of the high school when sixteen people spoke in turn, endorsing the Community Chest, explaining the need in their particular fields, and urging the cooperation of all workers in the drive which begins Monday, November 27. The meeting was presided over by Julian Allsbrook, chairman of the Speaker's Bureau for the Community Chest, who introduced the speakers. The program, beginning at 8:00, was started by the high school band, which rendered a number of selections under the direction of R. L. Martin, band conductor. Chairman Frank Sherry told the large crowd gathered in the auditorium the purpose of the meeting and turned it over to Julian Allsbrook.

Reverend Gordon Price, pastor of the Roanoke Rapids Baptist Church, gave the invocation, asking the blessing of God on the work of the Community Chest and the understanding by all of the purpose of the coming drive.

Mr. Allsbrook then called upon the speakers for the night. Mayor Bernard Allsbrook endorsed the work of the Community Chest in behalf of the city and dedicated the week of November 27 to the Chest campaign.

T. W. Mullen told the listeners that, taking everything into consideration, citizens of Roanoke Rapids should be thankful they could give.

F. C. Williams, chairman of the Budget Committee, was next introduced. He told his audience that conditions in the city, with ap-

MAN SHOOTS SELF WHEN POLICEMAN KNOCKS ON DOOR

Answering to the call of an officer by firing a twelve guage shotgun into his own chest, Clifton "Monk" Tudor, 27, took his own life in his apartment at 48 Madison Street here last night at 7:00 o'clock.

Policeman Jim Adams, after receiving a call to go to 48 Madison Street about 6:45 yesterday, was informed that Tudor, for whom Mr. Adams had a warrant which had been sworn out by a relative some time during the day, was in an upstairs room. The policeman knocked on the door, and immediately after answering a question as to his identity heard a shot.

Forcing the door open, Mr. Adams found Tudor in a dying condition upon a bed with a shotgun clutched in one hand. The full load entered the victim's left chest about two inches above the heart. Mr. Adams attempted to question the mortally wounded man as to
