SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY

The Roanoke Rapids Schools, closed Wednesday morning of this week because of the heaviest snowfall in the city for the past 13 years and an increasing number of absences among the students on account of illness, will open again Monday morning, if weather conditions permit, C. W. Davis, superintendent of city schools, stated today.

Mr. Davis said that he felt it advisable to discontinue school work until weather conditions improved. Attendance for the past week has been rather poor in the light of the average attendance at this time of year, he said. He further stated that he believed that it would be best for all children to remain at home until most of the snow gone, or until all walks and streets are fairly well cleared of the snow giving the pupils an opportunity to get to and from the different buildings without having to wade through the deep drifts along the way.

H. SHEARIN HURT MON

Herman Shearin is in the Roanoke Rapids Hospital this morning suffering from a serious but necessarily critical injury received while at work at the Halifax Paper Company last Monday about 10 p.m.

Shearin, who had started to work for the paper company on Monday morning, was pulling some paper from the reel in a paper mill when the reel caught his hand and pulled his left arm into the machine, between the reel and the frame, breaking his arm and dislocating his shoulder out of socket.

Reports come from the hospital today that the injured man is doing as well as could be expected under the conditions. There are no signs of a pulse in his arm and some nerve reactions to a stimulus it is said.

Mr. Shearin had recently secured employment with the Halifax Paper Company and reported for work for the first time Monday morning. The accident occurred about 10 p.m. of the same day. However, he had been employed by the company for a period of about five years sometime ago. Since his former employment at the local mill he has been working in a mill in Georgia, it is said.

Leg Injured

James Webb, colored employee of the Halifax Paper Company in the Roanoke Rapids Hospital today suffering from a leg injury that he received when a tractor ran over him last night. The tractor was not broken, but the injury was rather painful.

TICKET SELLERS

The above group of charming sales ladies formed a part of the ticket committee that has made the Minstrel Revels, staged this weekend by Rosemary Recreation, an assured success. They have been on their toes every minute, having practically sold out the house for both Friday and Saturday night performances by today.
