CRASH AT SECOND STREET TODAY

10

Above is shown the car of James Sewell as it came to a rest after crashing into the northeast corner of the Marks building at Second Street on Roanoke Avenue this afternoon. Miss Virginia Hux, the only one injured, was cut about the face in the accident. Sewell, whose home is in Gaston, stated after the wreck that he hit the building as he avoided a car driven by W. J. Long, son of Wiley Long, as the Long car turned into the Avenue from east Second Street.

James Sewell Hits Corner Marks Building Avoiding Another Car

Miss Virginia Hux, who lives on Jackson Street, was cut about the face and bruised considerably about five o'clock this afternoon when the car in which she was riding left the Avenue at the Second Street intersection, jumped the curb, and hit the northeast corner of the B. Marks building, breaking the plate glass on the Second Street side. Miss Hux was cut by the windshield, which was broken and shattered by the impact of her head when the machine struck the building. She was rushed to the hospital immediately by bystanders.

Red Cross, received a letter this week from the National Chairman, Norman Davis, informing him that the Red Cross is working in conjunction with United States Committee for the Care fo European Children, with headquarters in New York City, in contacting American citizens who are interested in taking a refugee child for the duration of the present European war.

Those people who are interested in taking a child are asked to get in touch with Mr. Price for information as to the procedure to follow in obtaining a child.

The number of children to be sent to the United States is not known. Earlier plans for the mass evacuation of children from the British Isles have been abandoned for the present because of the risk involved and the lack of adequate convoys. However, the committee believes that preparations must be made to receive and place children that may be sent before the war is over, and has proceeded to organize and function.
