OVERHEARD:

"That's a bad cough you have, Allen."

"No matter . . . It isn't the cough that carries you off . . . it's the coughin' they carries you off'n . . ."

"ALL GAUL IS DIVIDED" is the name of a book . . . a series of letters from France . . . smuggled out . . . written to Mrs. Dwight Morrow . . . The letters range in subject matter from the Underground Railway (similar to that in our country during slave days) to the various reactions of the French to their German conquerors . . . Frenchmen (All Gaul) can be divided into three groups: the Realists, who think there is no hope and so cooperate and associate with the Germans; the Sentimentalists, who will have nothing to do with the present state of affairs (one Sentimentalist said she had never seen a German . . . she had seen plenty of German boots, but by keeping her eyes strictly on the ground, she had never seen a German!); and lastly, the Militarists . . . who are proud of De Gaulle and are taking active part in resistance to the Germans . . . Families are divided so that in many instances their differences of opinion of the subject of cooperation with Germany have caused the members of the families to separate, even to move their living quarters . . .

MR. and MRS. X—have just completed a new home and moved into it last week. They were showing friends around the place, explaining their plans for gardens, etc. . . when a man passed by and called to the colored boy who was working in the yard.

"That's a mighty fine house you all got there!" said the passerby. "Yassuh, yassuh, it's right nice," answered the boy.

"Ain't but one thing I don't understand. It's such a fine house I don't see what you going to do about the washing. You ain't going to hang your washing in the front yard, is you?"

"No suh. We's done planned on that. We goin to take care of that all right."

"How you going to take care of washing if you don't hang it in the yard? What you going to take care of it with? That's what I wants to know."

"We got something," insisted the boy.

"What is it? And where is it? I don't see nothing," taunted the man, seeing the boy was uncertain of his ground.

"It's right there in the backyard," said the boy, "And you can come right in and see it if you wants to. We going to put all our dirty clothes in the 'cinerator!'"

ONCE THERE WAS A COUPLE who asked a Charleston waitress if South Carolina was a "dry" state and she answered that she didn't know, but she would go ask the bar-tender . . . Now we've heard of another couple who asked the waitress what she recommended for lunch and she told them to be sure to take the baked chicken. After lunch they thanked her for recommending the chicken, and said it was very good. "I'm glad you liked it," beamed the girl. "You see the Boss told me if I sold six baked chicken orders, I could have one of the turkey dinners!"

Long Suffers Broken Hip In Fall At Farm

Mac Long of Longview, near Garysburg, was admitted to the local hospital Saturday morning for treatment of injuries received when a dog on the farm of Wiley Long, his brother, ran between his legs and tripped him.

The animal, said to be a pet on the farm, caused Long to fall and break his left hip. The accident happened Saturday morning about eight o'clock. It is expected that Long, who is about 55 years old, will have to remain in the hospital for some time. He is a brother of the late Dr. T. W. M. Long.
