CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The need for office machine operators under the defense program has increased steadily. A new examination for under mimeograph operator has just been announced by the Civil Service Commission, for appointment in Washington, D. C., only. The position pays $1,-260 a year. Applicants will be rated on their experience, and no written test will be given, They are required to automatic paper-feed mimeograph machines. While applications will be accepted until further notice at the Commission's Washington office, persons who can qualify are urged to file their applications at once.

The Commission also announced an examination for Junior Engineer at $2,000 a year, the optional branches being aeronautical engineering, naval architecture and Marine engineering. Applicants may qualify if they have completed a professional engineering course at a college or university of recognized standing with major study in the optional branch chosen. The general requirements for the naval architecture and marine engineering option have been modified to allow graduates from a college curriculum in architecture to apply if they have had special study or experience in naval architecture or marine engineering. This same provision applies to graduates from general engineering courses. Applicants for the aeronautical option may qualify if they have had a general 4-year engineering course suplemented by either study or experience in aeronautical engineering. Provision has also been made for the utilization of defense training courses in marine or aeronautical engineering or naval architecture. For this examination applications will be rated as soon as practicable after receipt at the Commission's office until June 30, Full information as to the requirements for these examinations and application forms, may be obtained from Carl Churchill, Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at the post office in this city, or from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at any first or second class post office.
