

SCRAP CAMPAIGN MOVING ALONG RAPIDLY IN CITY

Partial List Of Things To Save Is Given

With collections being made on Wednesday of each week from deposits established in each of the seventeen districts in the city, the Salvage for Victory campaign here is moving forward rapidly under the direction of F. S. Kemp, Salvage Chairman, and his executive committee.

Mr. Kemp reported yesterday that contributions to the salvage drive were fast clearing the city of scrap materials essential to the nation's war effort, but he added that a much greater effort must be put forth by residents of the city if the permanent salvage campaign here is to net the desired results.

With this in mind, Chairman Kemp listed the following articles that should be cleared from the premises of every residential and business establishment:

Housewife, look for these in your attic: Beds, made of brass or iron; electric cords containing copper wire; electric toasters, irons heaters, fans, or any electrical equipment; hardware, door knobs, hinges, keys, locks, trim, springs; kitchen utensils, old knives, pans, pots, scissors; lamps, lighting fixtures made of brass, copper or iron; ornaments such as metal ash trays, bowls, statues, vases; porch and garden furniture made of metal; radios, broken parts made of metal; screens made of brass or copper; toys, sleds, ice skates, roller skates; vacuum cleaners, and broken parts containing metals.

Husbands, look for these in your cellar: Coal stoves that are worn out; fire place equipment, such as andirons, grates, poker; fire extinguishers; furnace parts, along with old grates, metal doors, etc.; iron and nickel parts of old gas stoves; pieces of iron, brass or copper piping; plumbing fixtures, such as bath tubs, faucets, sinks, etc.; old radiators; refrigerator parts such as ice trays, inside linings, etc.; tools, including all old tools made of metal.

Husbands and sons, look for these in the garage: Automobile parts, such as chains, batteries, license plates, parts of motors, tires and tubes, bicycles and tricycles, garden tools, lawn mowers, hoes, pick axes, rakes, shovels, etc.

In addition to these, old rags, paper bags and boxes, and old newspapers and magazines, and "plunder" around the house should be carefully sorted and carried to the deposit lots. Each of them are essential to the war effort, in that they are vital in the building of planes, tanks, guns and other war material.

Chairman Kemp said that he was expecting the Salvage For Victory drive here to begin bearing fruit now that the seventeen district organizations have been set up and deposit lots selected and marked with signs so that people of the district can easily find them.

Note: The above list of scrap materials essential to defense, is only a partial one. Another list will be carried next week.

Stell Speaks To Senior Class At Aurelian Springs

Rev. Lawrence I. Stell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Roanoke Rapids, delivered the commencement sermon to the members of the graduating class at Aurelian Springs Sunday afternoon, May 3, before a large audience. Rev. Albert E. Simms, Baptist minister, assisted him in the service.

Mr. Stell, whose message was well received by pupils and parents alike, chose as his theme for discussion, "Criticism". He pointed out to the seniors the fact that their lives have been sheltered lives; but that from graduation on, it will be every man for himself.

He told the members of the class that the criticism which they will receive, no matter what field of work they choose to get into, will not mean nearly so much in their lives as their reaction to the criticism will mean.

Enfield's Political Honor Roll

(From Enfield Progress)

With the primary only about thirty days ahead it is well worth noting that quite a long list of Enfield boys have come to the front or made good on the Political horizon—a record outside of their business or professional careers, which demonstrates that citizens in this community take their Sovereign responsibilities seriously.

This is as it should be, the Progress believing that the privilege of voting plus the privilege of holding elective office is an American right to be compared with the freedoms for which our country made costly sacrifices in its infancy, and maintained through the years by the toil and patriotism of Statesmen who have labored for country above self.

Many adverse criticisms mark political contests and frequently such contests produce unhappy repercussions, but we believe that these are generally overestimated and run not much longer than a campaign, resulting perhaps in a few disappointments. But what contest is not followed by defeat as well as victory?

The Progress have observed a number of citizens in and around Enfield who have served and are offering to serve their State and county. We are glad to recount their names and to remind the public of their achievements. Some may have been omitted. If so, it is an oversight.

Judge M. V. Barnhill, Associate Justice Supreme Court.

R. Hunt Parker, Judge Superior Court and resident Judge.

Wade H. Dickens, County Solicitor.

J. Waldo Whitaker, Chairman Board of County Commissioners and Candidate for reelection.

Dr. B. M. Nicholson, Chairman County Democratic Executive Committee.

Ralph C. Rives, Member County Board of Education.

T. M. Cooper, County Coroner.

E. H. Ricks, Supt. County A.B.C. Board.

S. W. Dickens, Chairman County Board of Elections.

D. Mac Johnson, Ex-member State Legislature.

R. Hunter Pope, Ex-member State Legislature.

A. M. Atkinson, Ex-member State Legislature and Candidate for Judge of County's Recorder Court.

F. M. Taylor, Ex-member Legislature and Candidate for same office.

A. W. Andleton, Ex-Chairman County Board of Elections.

Sam Arrington Dunn, Candidate for Clerk of Superior Court.

F. Ray White, Candidate for County Commissioner.
