Dairy Progress

State College Station, Raleigh, July 2.—During the past seven years, Ralph Beane of State Road Community, Surry County, has come a long way up the ladder of successful dairymen, says County Agent Neill M. Smith.

Mr. Beane's milk production has grown steadily from less than 30 pounds daily delivered to a milk route to 200 pounds daily at the present time. He is now planning to construct a 12-cow Grade "A" dairy barn next fall, indicating that he will further expand his production.

Mr. Beane's pasture and hay production program is well under way, with orchard grass, Ladino clover, and alfalfa being grown. By growing his own feed right on the farm, he is able to obtain economical milk production.

week end visitor in the home of

Sow Pansies for Next Spring This Summer

Pansy plants such as are sold in flower in early spring may be grown quite easily by the gardener who has a cold frame. The seed is sown in late summer in a seed bed which can be shaded and watered.

Seed of one of the giant strains should be obtained if one wants large flowers. Violas may also be given the same treatment. All pansies are members of the viola family, but the name pansy is applied to those which have "faces."

If you have a seed bed made of fine soil shaded with a canopy of cheesecloth or lath, and which can be watered, sow the seed in rows.
If you have no such seed bed prepare a flat shallow box full of sifted soil in the usual manner and sow the pansies in that. It can be placed in a shady spot and kept well watered until the seedlings appear.

In sowing spread the seed thinly.
Mix sand with it if necessary to prevent overcrowding. If the seeds are too thick it will be difficult to disentangle the roots of the seedlings when time comes to move them. As soon as the seeds sprout they should be given all the light possible and plenty of fresh air. Do not let them dry out. Protect them from the midday sun.

When the seedlings have made their first true leaves they should be transplanted to other flats, where they have more space, or to the cold frame.
Florists usually move them to flats where they are planted 2 inches each way; this is called "pricking out." They are allowed to grow here until they are small sturdy plants. The amateur may short cut this procedure and move the seedlings directly from the seed bed or first flat to the cold frame.

Soil in the cold frame should not be overmanured, but should be light and friable and reasonably fertile. The plants should be set in rows, 4 inches apart in the rows, and 6 inches between the rows. Let the plants grow in the open through the fall until the ground begins to freeze.

Then fill up the cold frame with dry leaves and cover it with the sash or boards. In severe weather the sash can be covered with straw mats or any such covering, but this is not usually needed.

In the spring as soon as the frost begins to come out of the ground, the leaves should be taken off the pansy plants and the sash put on the frame. The management from now on is the same as any other planting in the spring. The pansies will bloom under the glass much earlier than they would outdoors, and you will have pansies to set out in the border when the tulips begin to bloom.

Farmers Told Dust Peanuts

College Station, Raleigh, July 2.—Farmers who do not dust their peanut crops for leafspot control are literally throwing money away, says Howard R. Garriss, plant disease specialist for the State College Extension Service. Mr. Garriss is suggesting that peanut growers begin now to get their dusting equipment in condition.

Commenting on the dusting problem, Garriss said:
"Evidence of increased interest among growers is shown by the fact that in 1942 only 2,000 acres of peanuts were dusted in 1947.

"The average dusted in 1947, figured at 11 cents per pound for peanuts and at an average increase of 300 pounds of nuts per acre, meant over $2,500,000 in added profits from dusting." Garriss said, that the recommended dusts for peanut leaf-spot control are either copper-sulphur dust mixtures containing four to six per cent of metallic copper or straight 325-mesh dusting sulphur. The copper-sulphur mixtures handle better in equipment and give better results than straight dusting sulphur, he reported.

He pointed out, however, that either dust will give practical results.
The specialist made the following recommendation on the dust application: "Apply 15 to 20 pounds of the dust per acre for each application. Start dusting during the first week in July and continue application at two-week intervals for a total of three to four applications. Any application washed off by rain within 24 hours should be repeated as soon as the weather is settled."

Eggs Larger Says Expert

State College Station, Raleigh, July 2.—North Carolina laying hens are not only producing more eggs now than in past years, but they are also producing larger eggs, according to T.
T. Brown, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service.

A few years ago, Mr. Brown said, most of the eggs exhibited at egg shows throughout the State were too small—below standard weight of 24 ounces per dozen in many cases. At the shows this year, however, most of the eggs were too large, ranging from 28 to 32 ounces per dozen.

for overseas duty the latter part of November, 1944.
Survivors include his widow and small son, the parents, two sisters and two brothers.

Local Man Among 95 War Dead Returned Home

The War Department announced in Washington Thursday that the remains of 5,374 Americans who lost their lives during World War II were being returned to the U. S. from Europe aboard the United States Army Transport Lawrence Victory.

Among 95 being returned to North Carolina is the body of Second Lieutenant Robert R.
Northington, Air Force, whose next of kin was listed as Lionel H. Northington, Box 407, Roanoke Rapids.

The armed forces dead being returned on the Lawrence Victory were originally interred in temporary military cemeteries in France, Luxembourg and the United Kingdom.

Lieut. Northington, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Northington, was killed in action over England on December 24, 1944, according to a War Department message received by the family shortly after his death.

A former manager of one of the local A & P stores in the city, Northington volunteered for service in the Army Air Corps in June of 1942 and received his basic training at Keesler Field, Mississippi. After completing an 18 weeks course in high altitude precision bombing at the AAF Border Bombardier School, he was awarded his silver bombardier wings in August of 1944.
During his training at B. Field, El Paso, Texas, he set the best C. E. record of any bombardier on the field. He left
