Sarah B. Everett Is Wed To Claude S. Graves Jr.

Scotland Neck — On Saturday afternoon at six o'clock Miss Sarah Baker Everett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bryan Everett, became the bride of Claude Swanson Graves, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Swanson Graves of Washington, N. C., at her home. The Rev. I. Harding Hughes, rector of Saint Mary's Chapel, Raleigh, married them assisted by the Rev. J. Claude Evans, brother of the bride, of Walhalla, South Carolina.

The spacious lawn with its stately oaks was the setting for the garden wedding. The vows were spoken before a background of an attractive green and white arbor with low folding gates, flanked by tall white baskets filled with white gladioli and sprays of green.

Mrs. W. W. Goode, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music. The wedding party approached the improvised altar to the strains of "The Wedding March from Lohengrin." A Chopin "Prelude" was softly played while the vows were spoken.

At the appointed hour, the ushers and groomsmen entered from winding paths on opposite sides of the lawn and took their places at the altar. They were Mr. James Franklin Graves, brother of the groom, Mr. Lindsey G. Warren of Washington, D. C., Mr. E. Collins Brown of Roanoke, Va., Mr. Nelson Jennette of Greensboro, Mr. Crawford A. Mann of Raleigh, Mr. Robert Kirkland of Wilson, Mr. Don Harrison of Goldsboro and Messrs. Tate E. and Ben B. Everett, Jr., of Palmyra, brothers of the bride.

Following came the bridesmaids, Miss Sally Lee of Goldsboro, Miss Ann Kitchin Josey and Miss Willie Marjorie Riddick and Mrs. Ben B. Everett, Jr., sister of the bride, wearing dresses of white marquisette over dusty rose taffeta. The bridesmaids carried matching parasols, each tied at the handle with a nosegay of pastel summer flowers.

The maid of honor, Miss Dabney Little of Wadesboro, and the matron of honor, Mrs. A. S.

Daughtridge, sister of the bride, came next. They wore dresses similar to those of the bridesmaids and carried the matching parasols tied with nosegays.

Everett Daughtridge, nephew of the bride, followed the dame of honor. He wore a white dinner jacket and carried the bride's ring.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a garden dress of white marquisette over taffeta. Small ruffles were featured on the V-neckline and around the short train. The fingertip veil of imported illusion was touched with pale blue. She carried an arm bouquet of roses and snapdragons and pale blue phalaenopsis, showered with lilies of the valley.

The mother of both the bride and groom wore afternoon dresses of white crepe, and matching corsages of white orchids.

For traveling the bride wore a smart advanced fall suit of red agate with matching hat and brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mr. and Mrs. Graves will make their home in Washington, N. C.

Mrs. Graves attended Saint Mary's School and Junior College in Raleigh and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She made her debut in 1948.

Mr. Graves attended the Virginia Military Institute before entering the Marine Corps for four years. Upon his return, he resumed his studies at the University of North Carolina where he was recently graduated. He was a member of Zeta Psi fraternity.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Everett entertained at a reception with the receiving line forming against the arbor as a background. Mr. and Mrs. Fate Baker Everett introduced to the receiving line which was composed of the parents of the bride, the bride and groom, parents of the groom, the wedding party, the Rev. I. Harding and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Claude Evans. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Eagles of Crisp invited them into the house. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Everett of Nashville received in the living room and directed the guests to the Bride's Register over which Mr. and Mrs. R. D. House, Jr., presided.

Mrs. E. L. Travis, Jr., greeted the guests in the library. Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Dickens invited them into the dining room where Miss Jo Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shields assisted.

The dining room table, covered with a hand embroidered imported cutwork cloth, was centered with pastel flowers in a large silver bowl which was flanked by silver candelabra. Elsewhere in the house mixed summer flowers in pastel hues were used throughout.

Mrs. R. C. Josey, Jr., and Mrs. Hansome D. Taylor of Miami, Fla., at each end of the table, served molded bridal ices. Decorated wedding cakes and Jordan almonds were served by Misses Anne Winslow, Ethel Harrison, Mary Della Harrison, Betty Lus Shields and Pat Yoyner of Manassas, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robbins invited the guests into the gift room where Mrs. W. E. Bellamy and Mrs. Van Watson of Rocky Mount received. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith directed the guests from the side porch to the punch bowl on the lawn. Serving punch were Misses Northa Hall, Katie Guion of New Bern and Grace Bowen of Washington, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Josey directed guests to the gate where good-bys were said by Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Clark, Dan Josey, Jr., and A. S. Daughtridge.

After the reception, the three tiered wedding cake, topped with fresh flowers was cut by the bride and groom. Following, a buffet supper was served, the wedding party and out-of-town guests.
