ATHLETES PRESENTED SWEATERS and LETTERS

The presentation of sweaters to the boys and letters to the girls of the basketball team was made possible through the wonderful cooperation and school spirit of the student body of Lexington High.

The boys to get sweaters were Burke Craver, O. A. Petrea, Bill Bailey, Smith Young and Glover Rogers.

The girls to get letters were Mildred Ann Critcher, Virginia Bower, Naney Raper, "Lib" Revelle, Stamey Leonard, Carrie Lee Bean and May Vestal Leonard.

This gala occasion was made even more enjoyable by two fine speeches delivered by our coaches, Young and Dorsett.

National Honor Society Organiz- ed: 11 Members

For the first time in the history of Lexington High School a National Honor Society has been organized with Mr. S. M. Justice and Miss Bernice Apple as sponsors. They are the only ones of the faculty who have ever been members of a National Honor Society.

The charter members are Margaret Hooper, Evelyn Greer, Harry Philpott, James Hartzog, Elieze Johnson, Burke Craver, Virginia Fritts, William Wilson, Pauline Cope, Elizabeth Revelle, Foyell Smith and Olin Easter. In chapel on March 13 they were formally inducted into the society. These members were chosen by the faculty from the upper 30% of the senior and junior classes in scholarship, the election being based on service, leadership and character.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET MAY 4

Mr. McGregor quotes the now fast approaching Junior-Senior banquet as "the biggest blow-out the school has ever known." And it's really true, we hope. Plans are now being put into action. The decoration committee headed by Foyell Smith, the program committee headed by Mary Martin, and the invitation committee headed by Sarah Green are working for the one big object—a real banquet. Invitations have been sent out, and a record crowd is expected. The Junior class members are joining hands to guarantee to all seniors a real "blow out" of a time.

Commencement Plans Made; Dates Chosen

Plans are being formulated for the the Lexington senior high school commencement exercises which will be held this year May 18-24, with Dr. Julian Miller, editorial writer for the Charlotte Observer, Charlotte, to deliver the address to the graduating class.

On Friday evening, May 18, the dramatic club will give its second performance of the year in the nature of a three act comedy, "Tea Topper Tavern."

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered Sunday evening, May 20, in the high school auditorium. Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, president of Salem College, will be the speaker.

The traditional class exercises will be held out doors Wednesday afternoon, May 23, at five o'clock.

On Thursday evening, May 24, Dr. Julian Miller will speak to the graduating class. The class in indeed fortunate in securing such a noted and brilliant speaker for this occasion.

The senior class will wear caps and gowns at the sermon and graduation exercises. Harry Philpott is president of the class; Haywat Hinkle, vice president; Margaret Hooper, secretary, and Ruth Hutchins, treasurer. Misses Margaret Miller and Hazel Griffin are class sponsors, Greta Miley, mascot.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS SHOW VARIETY

Ranking foremost among the chapel programs of last month were those given by the home rooms of Misses Lindsay, Griffin, Springs, Dorsett, and Messrs. Humphrey, Walser and McGregor.

Miss Lindsay's home room of girls gave a splendid pantomime of Pocahontas saving Capt. John Smith's life.
