

A. SAPP'S FIBBLES

By A. Sapp

Many a girl has stopped by the wayside because, because that's the only place her boy friend would park.

Jeanne: So you have learned to love me?

Charlie: Yes, I've been watching how all the other boys do.

Little Willie: Baby, how would I come out if I gave you a long, lingering kiss?

Little Ginny: Exhausted!

Nig L.: I had my nose broken in four places.

Rusty C.: Well, you oughta keep out of them places.

Ves. (Lover) Everhart: Do you know what good clean fun is?

Ann M.: I'll bite, what good is it?

Charlie Williams says if you want to see a girl in her true light, put it out.

Parks Easter says it's all right to tell a girl she has pretty ankles, but don't compliment her too highly.

Curley: What are those things?

Toby: Aw, them's grapefruits.

Curley: It wouldn't take many of them to make a dozen, would it?

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead

Who never turned around and said, "Not bad."

Fanny: Give me a man that's good, and kind, and true.

Peggy: Gimmie a man.

To keep out of the clink
Some me n'give 'em mink.

Miss Johnson: Now - - - If I subtract 22 from 45 what's the difference?
B. Tritt: Yeh! That's what I say.
Who Cares?

Jeanne: You mean to tell me you kissed him openly.

Jean: No, I closed my eyes.

People who live in glass houses shouldn't.

Bud W.: Darling, I love you.

Dot S.: My gosh the Jr. Sr. and you get drunk.

We quarrel about the slightest things;
I'm all upset and harried,
We're getting on each other's nerves;
It's time that we got married.

B. Barnes says don't count your chickens if you live near the main highway.

Mrs. Hedrick: Are you a little boy or a little girl?

Little Junior (innocently): What the heck else would I be?

The only serious reflecting some girls do is when they are on a polished dance floor.

Some people's idea of having a circus is making a show of themselves.

Sympathy is what one girl offers another in exchange for details.

Lib: You're one of those terrible lovers.

Toby: But, darling, I haven't even touched you.

Lib: Yes, and that's terrible.

When women go wrong, men go right after them.

When a girl is game, every boy wants to play.

You need lots of sugar to fix up a jam, says S. J. Easter.

Couples usually play with fire in the cool of the night.

Miss Critcher says the itch to get married has kept many an old maid scratching for a husband.

James P. H.: Sweetheart, does my love-making intoxicate you?

Peggy: No, half-pint.

Girls who stop at nothing have a good start.

Fanny: Are you the bull of the school?

Joe T.: That's me, baby. Moo.

Mr. Sawyer: Statistics show that musicians seldom commit suicide.

Bud Ward: How about their neighbors?

If every boy in the United States could read girl's mind, the gasoline consumption would drop off fifty per cent.

These are professional secrets and copywrited too.
