

The Lexhipep

Vol. XXXI No. 2

Lexington Senior High School, Lexington, N. C.

November 19, 1963

Three "Beauties" To Represent L. S. H. S.

The LSHS Administration Announces Candidates For Exchange Students

Sherry Wilson and Roger Price are the finalists in the 1964. A.F.S. Summer Program. They were chosen by the Lexington Chapter from a list of nine applicants. They were judged on outstanding personality, achievements in scholarship, and activity in various school programs.

Their names will be forwarded to New York City for review before the America's Abroad Committee of the A.F.S.

The American Field Service will make a final selection of students throughout America to visit some foreign country this summer as part of an international foreign exchange student program.

DR. BAILEY SPEAKS

On October 3, L. S. H. S. was pleasantly surprised with an unscheduled assembly. The Methodist's visiting revival minister, Dr. Bailey, spoke. Our president, Doug Pritchard introduced Mr. Lindsey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who in turn presented our guest speaker. He has written several books and has a syndicated newspaper column entitled "Dailey Bread." He also has a widely-circulated radio devotional program over N. B. C. and affiliated stations.

Dr. Bailey emphasized thankfulness. He believed that people were thankful, but forgetful: They just seemed to overlook the "thank-you." He filled his timely talk with situations and examples making it easier to visualize.

One of his examples was a present day story, which he compared to Jesus's parable about the ten whom he cured and only one thanked him. The 20th century tale was that of an elderly man, who presents many deserving young men full scholarships for any college. He concluded that only twenty out of the 1,000 boys had ever written him a thank-you note.

"This was not because they weren't thankful, but because they were forgetful. It takes so little effort to smile and say thank-you — yet few do. Won't you try it?" Closing his talk, he challenged each student to think and to be considerate, and to love one another.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Nov. 21—P.T.A.
Nov. 25—Varsity Football Banquet
Nov. 28-29—Thanksgiving Holidays
Dec. 3—Garinger—here
Dec. 6—Garinger—there
Dec. 10—Thomasville—there
Dec. 13—Asheboro—here

MISS LOU RAKER

MISS SYDNEY YOUNG

MISS KATHY BROWN

LEXINGTON CLUB ATTENDED DECA DISTRICT FOUR CONVENTION

The Lexington Senior High School Chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America will attend the DECA District Four Convention to be held in Salisbury November 6. Candidate for district president is Geraldine Hill, while Honey Hartley is a candidate for district secretary-treasurer. Representing the local club in the Job Interview Contest is Kenneth Everhart, and contestant for the D. E. Queen Contest is Gayla Young.

Other club activities this school year include an exhibit at the Davidson County Fair with the theme, "Prospecting for a Career Through Distributive Education;" a Get-Acquainted Social at High Rock Lake; a Parliamentary Procedure Workshop held as a dinner meeting at Chanticleer Restaurant in Salisbury with Mr. George Uzzell, Rowan County Representative to the State Legislature, as lecturer-teacher; District Four business meeting and social held at A. L. Brown High School in Kannapolis. Superintendent L. E. Andrews attended the meeting at Brown High School as guest of the local club.

The D. E. I Classes have completed studying a unit entitled "School and Business Relationships." Mrs. Jody Gregg of the Davidson County Welfare Department spoke to the groups on the Federal and State Labor Laws. Mr. O'Neil Chastain, Manager of McLellan Stores Company, was a guest of the classes and entered into a job interview role-playing situation with four students.

The D. E. II Class has been studying "Career Planning for Professional Growth." Mrs. Gayle Hussey, Senior High Guidance Counselor, addressed the group on "The Psychology of Careers." All seniors took the Kuder Preference Test administered by Mrs. Hussey and the General Aptitude Test Battery administered by the Employment Security Commission for interest inventory purposes. The seniors toured the Dixie, Young-Hinkle, Link-Taylor Furniture Market Showroom October 28.

LSHS Sends Representatives To NCSCC

Lexington Senior High School was represented at the North Carolina Student Council Congress by Sherry Wilson, Dee Dee Jordan, Ann Lanier, Martha Occhi, and Truls Disen Bastiansen. The delegates left for Winston-Salem Sunday, November 3, and stayed until Tuesday, November 5, during which they attended a series of meetings, classes, and banquets. The purpose of this annual meeting was to discuss new ideas for school government.

Speech And Drama Formed At LSHS

This year, to fulfill the demand for a club pertaining to public speaking and drama, under the leadership of Miss Stallings and Mrs. Aycock, the Speech and Drama Club has been formed. The club is open to anyone who would like to stimulate their interest in speech or drama. The club will have several phases of which a student may participate: public speaking, debate, or oral interpretation. All students who are interested contact either of the two sponsors. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, November 5, at the home of Linda Kirkman.

Formal Initiation Held For Tri-M Club

The Lexington Chapter of the Modern Music Masters has just joined the national society and received its charter.

The officers of the Tri-M Club for the 1963-1964 year are as follows: Linda Nannie, president; Joyce Stanley, vice president; Glenyce Hartzog, secretary; John Fite, treasurer; and Ken Butler, historian.

On Monday evening, November 4, all of the members were formally initiated into the club. Devotions were presented by Linda Nannie and Joyce Stanley. Eight new members were brought into the club. They are Andy Aycock, Jean Baker, Vicki Erickson, Jim Fry, Chuck Green, Michelle McDade, Randy Perryman, and Jo Saddler. After the initiation, the new members performed solos. At the conclusions of the program, everyone was invited to the band room for refreshments.

Seventeen Tapped By Honor Society

On Wednesday, October 30, 1963, the LSHS chapter of the National Honor Society tapped its new members. The program was opened with devotions given by Larry Young and Wayne Berrier. The president, Jane Leonard, explained the purpose and meaning of the National Honor Society, and the ceremony was presented by Durante Griffin, Teenie Sink, Thompson Miller, and Connie Beck, who discussed the four principles — scholarship, character, leadership, and service. The procession of the old members tapped the following people: Judy Mauze, Doug Pritchard, Bebs Mann, Penny

(Continued on Page 3)

Fall is the time for queens, princess, and school representatives. As a result of the recent Senior Class election, the following girls were chosen to represent Lexington Senior High School in various contests: Carousel Princess, Sydney Young; Representative to the Miss Davidson contest and to the Armistice Day Parade, Kathy Brown; Christmas Queen, Lou Raker. Sydney Young is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith Young of Country Club Drive. She is a member of the Pep Club, Tri-Hi-Y, and LEXICON staff. She is also this year's homecoming queen and Senior Superlative — Most Attractive.

Kathy Brown, a cheerleader and member of the LEXILIT staff, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Brown of 604 Long Street. She is also a member of the Pep Club, Tri-Hi-Y, and National Honor Society. This year she was elected Senior Superlative—Most Popular.

Lou Raker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Raker of West Center Street. Her talent is playing the piano, which will be used in the contest. Lou is LSHS's chief cheerleader and member of the Pep Club, Tri-Hi-Y, and Future Teachers Club of which she is treasurer. She was voted Most Versatile by the Senior Class.

Students On Trial

The Student Trial was held in the auditorium from 1:15 until 2:15 on October 24th. The Student Council sponsored the trial under the able leadership of Doug Pritchard, president of L. S. H. S. and Hugh Bingham, parliamentarian. The members of the council represented those who were tried for offenses committed against the school or its ideals.

One was Louise Litter, who was tried for her untidiness and disorderliness. Consequently, she always managed to drop her ice cream wrappers, cups, and chewing gum (which she is not supposed to chew) on the ground instead of in the waste basket. Gertrude Gripe's case was heard because she failed to support the team and griped constantly about those who did, yelling in her ear. Another of these was Sammy Scratchoff, the reckless driver who turns the parking lot into a race track. These are only a few of the nine points which were stressed. The others were titled as follows: Loving in the Halls, Attitudes in the Classroom, Paper in the Cafeteria, Unsportsmanlike Conduct, Peter Patriotic and the Star Spangled Banner.

After all trials were held, the judge addressed the jury, which were the students. They were to decide the verdict—guilty or not guilty. He pointed out that whether we, the school advance or become complacent hinges on their decision.