From what can be seen and heard Joe Kelly will surely be captain of this year's track team.

'Rah for the Seniors; they actually started something when they suggested that the school send a telegram to the Disarmament Conference.

The more that pile on Daniel the more that get a free ride down the gridiron.

We see that Durham High School has named her team the Blue Tornado. If names have anything to do with it Durham ought to deliver the goods.

From the attention that the students in chapel give Miss Morlock you would think that they were accomplished singers.

If the piano was transparent it would be possible for the Seniors, who sit behind it, to see the chapel program.

The Chatterbox Societies are now meeting in certain of the study periods. Well, that's some better than meeting in the Library.

At last the much looked-forward to Disarmament Conference is in full swing. The air is full of buzz and hum of disarmament. The eyes of the whole world are turned on Washington to see whether or not the sword shall be turned into the plow-share; whether or not the coming generation shall be one of war or of peace. History is being made in which our country is taking no small part. It behooves all of us as loyal Americans and advocates of future peace to keep abreast of the times; to lend our assistance in of least thought and attention to the great things which are being accomplished by this conference.

The history class in the school has already set aside one period a week for the purpose of studying and keeping up with the conference. We heartily approve of this step and hope that it will be possible for every student in the school to spend at least one period a week in deep concentration on this conference.

GOOD MANNERS

"The supreme business of the school is to develop a sense of justice, the power of initiative, independence of character, correct social and civic habits, and the ability to co-operate toward the common good," said Dr. Frank Crane.

A campaign for good manners and conduct is now being planned. We hope that through this campaign we shall be able to correct many of our careless habits. The campaign for better speech proved that we could correct our mistakes and by the campaign for good manners and conduct, we think that we shall correct such things as rudeness in speaking while others are reciting, laughing at the mistakes of others, knocking against people in the hall, talking in the chapel and many other things. Good manners have been taught us in our homes, but we quickly forget when we get out from under home influences. This campaign will be worth while if we will only get in the habit of considering the rights of others and our slogan might be the quotation, "Liberty exists in proportion to wholesome restraint."

BOYS AND GIRLS OF THE CITY SCHOOLS

TEACHERS TOO

In our opinion it will pay you to investigate our Fall and Winter FOOTWEAR and learn the prices which are just as attractive as the styles. No use talking THERE IS NO BETTER PLACE TO BUY SHOES than

There is a movement on foot in school to form an honor society. We understand that this movement is to promote better scholarship, higher character and more service among the students.

High Life could do nothing but help and advocate in every way to put this movement across. We sincerely hope that every student will give this society some serious thought and his ardent support in adopting it.

After seeing the spirit that the students of G. H. S. and the team showed last Wednesday, we feel safe in saying that G. H. S. could not have won a greater victory by defeating Winston or in winning the State championship.

Under the severe test of the supreme test the students and team of old G. H. S. did not come up lacking. They showed themselves to be as cheerful losers as winners, and although Winston may cheer and exult in every victory over our team G. H. S. has the consolation of a good fight well fought and the heart-swelling pride in knowing that as fighters and losers they are second to none.

Although you lost the game, we are far prouder of you in knowing that you contain the stuff which will enable you to overcome greater adversities than will ever be offered you in a football game.

SENIORS HAVE CHARGE OF

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

On Armistice Day the seniors had charge of the program which was held in chapel at the end of the first two periods. Mrs. Henry Ware, a former teacher in the schools whom we all love, sang, "The Americans Come", a stirring song admirably suited to her voice. Mr. A. L. Brooks was the speaker of the day and of what Armistice Day really means. He paid high tribute to those Americans who fought in the war and spoke especially of those who first went over. He brought out the fact that we can best repay them by being the very best citizens for school and for our country. He mentioned the Disarmament Conference and what it means to us and to those men who fought. Mr. Brooks' talk was short, to the point and interesting. The whole assembly then sang two or three songs after which school was dismissed for the day.

THANKSGIVING DAY

It was a cold November morning,
Just at the break of day
That our Pilgrim Forefathers' ship
Sailed into Massachusetts Bay.

They landed without a welcome,
They saw only forests in sight,
But they had a grand determination
To build up a nation of might.

They worked, they strove, they builded,
They did things we could never do;
They builded up this nation
For us—for me—for you.

It was not easy, it was not pleasant,
Yet they fought out every foe—
That we might live in peace and gladness
And now stands this nation—lo!

Now we honor and pay homage
With one nation-wide holiday,
For these ancient nation-builders
We celebrate Thanksgiving Day.

We can pay no honor grand enough,
There is no tribute too worthy to pay,
So we honor them year in, year out,
By celebrating Thanksgiving Day.

—Ethel Stockton.
