EDITORIAL

- 1—Cultivate the habit of always looking on the brightest side of every experience.
- 2—Accept cheerfully the place in life that is yours, believing that it is the best possible place for you.
- 3—Throw your whole soul and spirit into your work, and do it the best you know how.
- 4—Get into the habit of doing bits of kindness and courtesies to all those who touch your life each day.
- 5—Adopt and maintain a simple, childlike attitude of confidence and trust in God as your own father.

Cut these out and use them! they are Dr. Charles E. Barker's rules for happiness. We want to thank Dr. Barker, who was the honor guest of Greensboro and of G. H. S., last Friday, for his excellent rules. He said that he wants each one of us to feel that he is our friend, and we certainly do. We will take his rules and try them here and now in old G. H. S. We'll not be discouraged if we have one failure but we will use them till July as he urged. We earnestly hope that Dr. Barker will return soon and give us another one of his invaluable addresses.

AN APPRECIATION

We have recently been hearing much about the Triangular debates but probably most of us do not know the outcome. Greensboro beat Winston, Winston beat Asheville, and Asheville beat Greensboro. Nevertheless we are proud of our debaters for:

"When the One Great Scorer comes To write against your name,
 He writes not that you won or lost
 But how you played the game."
 The sophomore class wishes to express its appreciation of the teacher who worked tirelessly too.

In reviewing the cities who are to send their debaters to Chapel Hill the sixth and seventh of April we find forty-five cities all of which are very small with the exception of Durham. The following are examples of the high schools: Glen Alpine, Gibsonville, Sanford, Bessemer, Glendale, Pleasant Garden, Waynesville, and Lexington. Durham is thought by those who should know to have a very good chance as it is the largest school. Teachers there not only have better training but they also have more time for coaching their debaters. In other words if Durham lives up to expectations she will have one more cup in her cabinet when her debaters return. The rules of the debate say that whoever succeeds in getting the cup twice in succession may keep it and Durham got it last year.

DR. PERISHO

A very interesting chapel program was held when Dr. Perisho, who was once president of the A. and M. College of S. Dakota, spoke to us on the value of education.

He showed us that education is necessary from all standpoints.

When our soldiers went to France a message once came back from headquarters saying "You Can't Make Soldiers out of Ignorant Men." To remedy this defect schools were established where the soldiers were taught everything from writing their own names to the senior year of high school. A university was founded which was made up of colleges that specialized in certain things, such as art, agriculture and engineering.

He also showed that the boy who finishes high school makes twice as much money as the boy who finishes elementary school and that if a boy goes to college he makes more money still.

It is only an educated man who makes an intelligent voting citizen and the boys and girls of America owe it to their country to stay in school as long as they possibly can.

The Station Problem

Should this question of such importance to the city be discussed in G. H. S. For some reason it is not being discussed here. That it is of greatest concern to Greensboro is proved by the fact that it has caused so many hot discussions and arguments in the city. If it is of such importance to our elders, the present citizens, surely it is of more importance to us the future citizens of Greensboro. Ought we not to know why, if the station is right or not?

Katcha Koo was a great success. The Grand held a good crowd both nights.

This play is the largest responsibility that any Senior class of G. H. S. has ever undertaken and they managed it well. Therefore they can't be praised too highly.

By this play the Seniors will be able to publish the Reflector at a lower price.

According to Dr. Perisho the average pupil in going to high school for four years doubles his value in dollars or increases it $20,000. In other words each day of study in High School is worth $27.77 to the pupil. Interesting, isn't it!

Easter holidays are slowly but surely approaching.

The Juniors are duly "thrilled" over the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Raising Cabbage, especially to the level of the theatrical stage, has not been found profitable in G. H. S.

"A ripple of melody gaily floated out over the fantastic breezes." When we asked its source we received the vague reply, "The Captain of Plymouth"

Good Sportsmanship

"To brag little, to show up well, to crow gently when in luck, to own up, to pay up, to shut up when beaten."

—Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes

This is Mr. Archer's ideal in school work as well as athletics. We have heard him quote it. If we take it and Dr. Barker's rules and apply them here we will need to talk and worry no more over "school spirit." We might also interpret "to pay up" in relation to the Athletic Association dues, and thus abbreviate the present deficiency of friends of the athletic treasurer.

HI-Y PULLS "SOME BLOW OUT" BEAUTIFUL GIRLS PRESENT

Last Thursday night at 7:10 the members of the Hi-y Club of the High School gave a banquet to which their "Lady Friends" were invited. The formality was broken by a few small games before the dinner was served. Everyone was urged to fall in line for a good time. After the supper those present were favored with various speeches and recitations. Mr. Phillips was asked to tell exactly why he brought the lady he did, which he told much to the enjoyment of the whole party.

A "special delivery" was then received for Andrew Bell from "Louise" in Alabama and was read amid much laughter. A debate was then carried on. The query being, Resolved, that the razor is more important than the powder puff. Hubert Rawlins was the affirmative debater and Edwin Pearce the negative. The affirmative won the question. The last but not least was duet by Messrs. Peyton Neal and Albert Stanton. It was suggested that they sing, "Aint Nobody's Darling" but Mr. Neal objected at first saying that he couldn't sing that because it wasn't true. Finally he was persuaded and they rendered the piece in fine style. Those enjoying the evening were, Edwin Pearce and Mildred Morrison, Andrew Bell and Virginia Denney, James Wilkins and Mildred Little, Hubert Rawlins and Nellie Irvin, Harold Seburn and Fanny Anderson, Robert Wilkins and Miriam Rankin, Albert Stanton and Dorothy Caldwell, Peyton Neal and Margaret Pickard, Worth Williams and Elizabeth Newell, David Thomas, Mr. Chas Phillips and Miss Stanger, and Mr. Casper and Miss Coleman as chaperones.

"Bill," said the foreman after the accident, "did you break the news to poor Mrs. Murphy about her husband getting blown sky-high in the explosion?"

"I did."

"Did you break it gently?"

"I did." I told her that Tom had got that raise he'd been looking for."

DR. BARKER GIVES ADDRESS

God. God acts as a father to me, as I act as a father to my daughter. I give her what I think is best for her, but have to deny her some things. I always try to make her happy, though, and that is just what God does with me. From now on, I am going to have Him as my father" That was twelve years ago, and Dr. Barker believes more firmly than ever in God now.

Dr. Barker was ex-president Taft's physician for four years, going to the White House every morning. He said that Taft had Henry Van Dyke's poem over his bed, where he could read it each day: which he quoted;

"Let me but live my life from year to year,

With forward face and unreluctant soul;

Not hurrying to, nor turning from, the goal;

Not mourning for the things that disappear

In the dim past, nor holding back in fear

From what the future veils, but with a whole

And happy heart, that pays its roll To youth and age, and travels on with cheer.

So let the way wind up the hill or down,

O'er rough and smooth, the journey will be joy:

Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,

New friendship, high adventure and a crown,

My heart will keep the courage of the quest,

And hope the road's last turn will be the best."

G. H. S. LOSES TWO STUDENTS

It was much to the regret of the pupils of Room 208 that the two sisters, Ann and Betty Roe left last Thursday night at 10:30 for Vineland, New Jersey. Their father who is a minister of the Episcopal church, was called to New Jersey in his church work.

Ann and Betty were two of the smartest and best liked girls in 208. They have been good students in High School, and were on the Honor Roll nearly every month. If you ever wanted a favor done, all you had to do was to go to Ann or Betty, and they did it without the slightest hesitation. They were good in every phase of school life, always showing a remarkable school spirit. A box of candy was given to Ann and Betty by the members of Room 208 to show their appreciation of all that these girls have done for the class. We know that they will be greatly missed in G. H. S., but we wish them the same success and happiness in their new home.

In the days of the Old Testament it was considered a miracle for an ass to speak; now nothing short of one will keep one quiet.

"Pa, is a vessel a boat?"

"Er—yes—you may call it that."

"Well what kind of a boat is a blood vessel?"

"It's a life-boat, son. Now run away to bed."
