

JUNIORS BID FORMAL ADIEU TO SENIORS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

"Say it With Songs" Is the Keynote of Every Informal Toast.

HUMOR PREDOMINATES FEAST

"Say it with songs" was the keynote of the annual Junior-Senior banquet held at the Jefferson Standard cafe on Friday night, April 17. The Seniors were welcomed by a receiving line composed of members of the faculty and of the presidents of the Junior and Senior classes. After the guests had assembled the Juniors led the way into the banquet hall, which was decorated with dogwood and balloons of varied colors. On the tables were miniature Maypoles draped with the colors of the two classes, between which were vases of purple iris.

Glenn Holder, president of the Junior class, welcomed the Seniors with a parody based on the song, "Welcome Sweet Springtime," and he then advised everyone to "hop to it!"

Garnett Gregory, president of the Senior class, responded with "Till Springtime Comes."

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT BODY OBSERVES NATIONAL ART WEEK

Mr. Barton Talks on "Appreciation of Architecture," Miss Zolloman "Art As Related to Dress."

National Art Appreciation Week was observed at Greensboro High School April 6-10, 1925.

"Appreciation of Architecture" was the subject discussed by the speaker, Mr. Harry Barton, at the chapel assembly of the main building, April 6.

"Since nine-tenths of our money is spent on buildings, why should we not make them beautiful?" the speaker asked. Mr. Barton indicated the points by which good architecture may be recognized, as follows: the principles of proportion, scale, and color.

"America can claim only one type of architecture as original with her. That is the colonial style," the speaker said.

Miss Zolloman, of the Home Economics Department, spoke to the Girls' Assembly on Thursday, April 9, concerning "Art as Related to Dress."

She emphasized the fact that art is an every-day thing, and not merely a picture in a frame. "The real artists of today are the dressmakers, designers, and people who choose cloth for dresses," declared the speaker.

"Color is a very important item in the art of dress. Colors should harmonize when used together and each blends with each to add to the beauty of the whole." (Continued on page five)

ANNUAL MUSIC CONTEST TO BE HELD AT N. C. C. W.

Mr. Gildersleeve Expects Greensboro's Entries to Win First Places.

On April 23 and 24 the sixth annual music contest will be held at N. C. C. W. There are sixteen events scheduled, six of which Greensboro will participate in.

The following people have been entered: Mary Elizabeth King, piano; Mary Strader, soprano solo; Edward Stainback, tenor solo; William Fowler, violin; the girls' glee club, and the orchestra.

Although there are a larger number of contestants this year from all parts of the state, Mr. Gildersleeve is expecting Greensboro's entries to win several first places.

MUSIC REIGNS SUPREME IN CHAPEL PROGRAM

Tommy Strader and Edward Stainback Give Vocal Solos—Mary E. King Renders Piano Selection.

The program for Tuesday and Wednesday, April 14 and 15, was a varied and enjoyable one. Randall Martin and Shelton Dry were the orators on these days, giving as their selections those used in the declamation contest. The program was then turned over to Mr. Gildersleeve. He announced that the contestants for the state music contest would have charge of the programs for this week.

"Tommy" Strader, winning soprano, was unusually pleasing in her song. The next number was three songs sung by the girls' glee club under the direction of Mr. Gildersleeve. Mary Elizabeth King, Greensboro's representative in piano, gave a beautiful number by Beethoven. "Little Mother of Mine," sung by Edward Stainback, G. H. S., contestant in voice, justly received a most enthusiastic applause.

The girls' glee club gave the closing number in these programs.

FRED ARCHER WILL RESUME WORK AT G. H. S. JUNE 10

One day last week three men were discussing business in one of the largest business houses in town. A knock came at the door. "Extra! Extra!" called the little newsboy, who, without waiting for an admittance, burst into the room.

"Paper, Mister?" he addressed Mr. J. Norman Wills.

"I have one—sorry," our school friend replied.

"Don't you want one, sir?" the boy smiled into the face of a friend of all school children.

SENIORS PLAN FOR CLASS DAY

The Senior class, aided by Mr. Wunsch and Miss Coleman, is making elaborate plans for class day. As yet everything is a dead secret, but the fact that they are planning a unique fête has already leaked out. The following officers have been elected:

Class poet—Marjorie Vanneman; Historian—Elizabeth Smith; Custodian—Julius Witten; Prophet—Claude McIver.

HI INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET HERE PROVES HUGE SUCCESS

Marked Improvement Over Last Year's Records Shown and Coach Park Is Pleased At Interest.

The High School Inter-Class Track Meet, which took place Saturday, April 18, at the Fair Grounds, proved a great success. Various competitors representing the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes displayed good form and showed a marked improvement over last year's records.

Coach Herbert Park, of the High School, was very much pleased with the meet and expressed his surprise at the interest shown. Though the various classes did not compete with each other, the existence of keen rivalry between the contestants was noted.

BY FLOOD OF QUARTERS SCHOOL WINS HOLIDAY

April Is a Big Month for the Athletic Association.

On Thursday, April 9, the Greensboro High School fell victim to an enormous flood of quarters which swept away every Athletic Association ticket in its path. Moreover, it was necessary to declare a half-holiday Friday in order that the effect of such a deluge of coin upon the Athletic Association's treasury might be estimated. According to Mr. Bullock and other authorities, the torrent was caused by the breaking of a reservoir under the strain of spring weather and pre-Easter influences. However, he added that the association might recover from the shock.

It is rumored that for several days prior to the catastrophe a large number of students, undoubtedly inspired by a morbid hatred for the Athletic Association (for officials believe that the matter of a half holiday was merely a minor motive) evilly organized under the direction of picked class leaders to damage Financial Reservoir in such a manner as to release hundreds and hundreds of heavy quarters upon the defenseless Athletic Association, thereby locking the giant wheels of education for hours. That alleged agreement was carried out, secret service men believe.

Although no formal statement has been issued by the association heads, it was learned that a drag-net had been spread, late Friday afternoon, around the whole (Continued on page six)

CAST OF SENIOR PLAY REHEARSE DILIGENTLY

"Dulcy" Will Be Presented in Auditorium of N. C. C. W. on May 8.

Work on "Dulcy," the senior class play, continues with daily afternoon rehearsals on the narrow auditorium stage and promises to make of the domestic comedy a finished production. There are yet to be solved many knotty problems in stagecraft; but Mr. Wunsch and Miss Wheeler are about to convert into a really loving husband for Dulcy, Pats Forbes, whose initial cave-man methods were considered too brutal for amateur theatricals; they have fortunately succeeded in getting Judah Shohan to take the role of Mr. Forbles; and they are successfully teaching Bernard Shaw to play rhapsodies on the grand piano while he makes love to Mrs. Forbes, Frances Elder.

Virginia McClamroch in the title role seems admirably suited, and her supporting cast is all that is to be desired. Bill Roach, who will act as stage manager, is (Continued on page six)

MISS BULLARD'S CLASS VISITS COLUMBIA LAUNDRY

Thursday, April 9, the fourth period Science class, conducted by Miss Bullard, paid a most unusual and enjoyable visit to the Columbia Laundry. This was probably the first visit made by the class to an outside establishment.

Conducted by one of the foremen, the science pupils strolled at will on the second floor of the building. Everyone was astonished at the innumerable pieces of machinery. The class saw the clothes when first brought in and carried through all the various processes which they must undergo. The company, so the foreman stated, employs 56 people in the laundry department alone. The students found (Continued on page six)

PECULIAR SNOW FALLS IN APRIL

On April 16 and 17 such a peculiar and extraordinary snow fell upon Greensboro High School that the entire student body is alarmed over its possible effect upon a select few of the faculty. The freshmen feel confident that they will witness the result before they complete the courses administered in the main building. (Continued on page five)

PROSPECTIVE BRIDES HONORED BY TEACHERS WITH EARLY BREAKFAST

Misses Sapp and Davidson to Become Blushing Brides in June—Announcements Out.

KILLINGSWORTH QUIZZES THEM

The regular monthly teachers' meeting assumed a novel form Thursday morning, April 16, when the faculty almost 100 percent strong met at 7:30 o'clock at the High School cafeteria and enjoyed a delicious breakfast with fun and business served a la carte, through the courtesy and thoughtfulness of Miss Killingsworth.

In her usual gracious manner, Miss Killingsworth welcomed the teachers, stating that the purpose of the meeting was twofold: namely, to dispense with some necessary announcements, and to do honor to the two prospective brides of which the faculty now boasts. She ended her welcome by a direct and emphatic question addressed to the young brides-to-be, "How in the world did you do it?"—the mystic answer to which was not revealed. Several announcements were made by Miss Killingsworth and Mr. Edwards while the teachers enjoyed an appetizing two-course breakfast served under the direction of Mrs. Comer.

The banquet-hall of the cafeteria was tastefully decorated with spring blossoms. On a small table in the center of the quadrangle of the breakfast table (Continued on page six)

GEORGETTE PLAYERS ENTERTAIN TWO LARGE AUDIENCES AT G. H. S.

This Company Played Twenty-Five Different Instruments—"La Paloma" Pleases Students.

On Thursday, April 16, the Georgette Players brought here under the auspices of the Senior class entertained an overflowing auditorium of high school pupils. The players, Mr. Georgette, his daughter, Miss Josephine, and the pianist, Miss Parr, played 25 different instruments, violin, cello, banjo, Swiss handbells, saxophone, xylophone, and many others. The company was very gracious and gave a number of encores. The most popular numbers were "La Paloma," played on the Musical Roses, and Miss Josephine's violin and xylophone numbers.

The concert was instructive as well as entertaining, for Mr. Georgette explained the history of each instrument. "The Hungarian Dulcimer," he said, "was used in Biblical times. The xylophone originated in Africa, being worn first as a belt."

In an interview after the performance, Mr. Georgette said that he wished to thank the Junior and Senior classes for their splendid co-operation. He also said that since the company had been so enthusiastically received, he hoped to make a return engagement at a later date.

This performance, with a few additional numbers, was repeated for the outsiders and parents Thursday night.

PARK AND EDWARDS ENTERTAIN STUDENTS

Announcement of Coming Track and Field Meet.

Tuesday morning, April 7th, the Sophomore and eighth grade students met in chapel for their regular weekly chapel program.

Miss Killingsworth read for the devotional exercise the 67th Psalm. Afterwards all united in the Lord's Prayer.

Mr. Park talked on the coming track and field meet. It is to be purely a novice meet, excluding all who have previous to this time won any kind of medal. Prizes will be awarded in each class. There will be gold, silver and bronze medals, going to the first, second, and (Continued on page six)
