

G.H.S. TEACHERS SPEND SUMMER VACATIONS IN VARIOUS PLACES

Some Study, Some Travel, Others Teach and Gain Back Lost Pounds.

In this day and time teachers no longer idle away the summer day forgetful of the schools they left. They are not satisfied with a mere four years course at college and take special courses during the summer to help them be better fitted for teaching others the coming year. Others not quite so fortunate spend their summer days making themselves physically fit for the great task before them.

The teachers of Greensboro High School are indeed fortunate. Miss Martin, Miss Beckwith, Mrs. M. S. Ashford, Miss Grogan and Miss Greenwaldt spent their summer vacation studying at Columbia University and seeing the sights of New York. Mr. Farthing attended the Summer School of the University of North Carolina for six weeks and then went to the mountains. Miss Morrow studied at Peabody College part of the summer and taught in summer school the rest. Miss Blackmon spent her vacation studying and visiting in New York. Miss Wheeler spent both sessions of summer school at the N. C. C. W. Mr. Rowe spent his summer days at the University of Virginia getting in shape for teaching at the High School.

Several of our worthy teachers simply could not tear themselves away from the daily routine of teaching so they taught in Summer Schools. Miss Reynolds taught Mathematics in the Guilford College Summer School. Miss Coleman hated to leave G. H. S. so she taught here for six weeks and then went to the Blue Ridge Mountains. Miss Hall taught in summer school at Murphy, N. C. Mr. Wunsch taught in summer school here and then took a skeyter trip with several Greensboro boys up to Canada. Miss Summerell taught at N. C. C. W. for six weeks and then went to the mountains. Miss Pullen taught summer school here and then went home to rest up for the coming year.

A few of the other teachers felt that they needed a rest so they either stayed home or went visiting. Miss Mercer fulfilled her desire to get back to nature and went to Bradley, Ga. Miss Sumner, Miss Anderson, Miss Causey, Miss Cooper, Miss Mitchell, Miss Hight, Miss Bullard, Miss Moore, Miss East and Miss Dry all spent their vacations at home with the exception of a week or two visiting. Miss Tillet said she spent the summer resting, eating, reading, and driving a Ford. Miss Lesley, Miss Boyington, and Miss Pickard spent their summer vacation at mountains, lakes, and in different parts of the country. Miss Gillis spent her vacation scheming for the future. Miss McAlister had the hard task of taking care of her nieces and nephews but took ten days off to go to New York.

Miss LeRoy was a councilor and taught swimming in Dr. Kephart's camp at Blowing Rock. Mr. Johnson spent his vacation working with boy scouts in camp. Mr. Coltrane, our baseball coach and a crack pitcher, pitched baseball for Bennettsville, S. C. Mr. Aycock, after a year's hard work, took a vacation and gained back the twenty pounds he lost plus five. Mr. Atkinson was with the Durham Sun newspaper, in the advertising department. Miss Caldwell spent the summer in Wytheville, Va., transforming an old cabin into a livable home.

FRIDAY HOLIDAY FOR CITY SCHOOLS TO ATTEND FAIR

The community exhibits, as well as the agricultural displays, were especially good. Pleasant Garden, Alamance and Deep River offered the best displays. The commercial and poultry exhibits were also well above the average. Saturday probably drew the largest number of High School students with the exception of Friday. On that day the automobile races were held and those who saw them expressed the opinion that they were the most thrilling and interesting feature of the fair.

STUDENT COUNCIL HOLDS A MEETING

Miss Jane Summerell Elected Faculty Adviser by Council; Miss Grogan Speaks.

At the first meeting of the Student Council for this year, held September 26 in the principal's office, Charlotte Van Noppen was elected secretary-treasurer, and Miss Jane Summerell was chosen for faculty advisor. Under the constitution the Council has the privilege of selecting one of its faculty advisors, while the other is appointed by the principal. Miss Ione Grogan was Mr. Phillips' choice for this place.

P. B. Whittington, president of the Council, and Miss Grogan both spoke on the organization's plans for the coming year. They urged that the Council's policy be to make a special effort to encourage all constructive measures, feeling that in this way it can accomplish a great deal and become a force for good throughout the student body.

It is the purpose of the Council to conduct, within the next few weeks, several chapel programs, in order to bring its aims before the entire school.

SUPERINTENDENT ARCHER IN FAVOR OF JUNIOR COLLEGE

ful here. As to when and where Greensboro will have a junior college is still a matter of speculation; but we could use it next year," concluded Mr. Archer.

Several other men have expressed their belief in the need of this institution; namely, Mr. E. D. Broadhurst, chairman of the board of Education of this city and Rev. W. A. Newell of Winston-Salem.

Mr. Broadhurst says that colleges all over the country are turning away Freshmen and even Sophomores. He thinks the time has come when pupils should receive the first two years of their college training in their home town where they belong. He sees need for the Junior College.

Mr. Newell told the Civitans that if Greensboro would start this enterprise then other cities would follow. He believes North Carolina's true wealth lies on intellectual lines as she has no great natural resources. Such an institution, he argues, would take care of the tremendous number of Freshmen and Sophomores and thus leave the colleges for Juniors and Seniors and post graduate work.

REPORT MADE ON COLLEGE CREDITS

of his choice, or to pursue the course he desires.

The students should be thinking this matter over and discussing it with their parents so that they may have in mind at least a working basis when they are called upon for their plans. Of course it is altogether probable that their plans may change before graduation, but having a definite aim will surely come nearer to bringing them safely to their goal than wandering about haphazard.

Miss Mitchell will be glad to talk it over with any student at any time. She has in her office catalogs of most of the colleges students may be interested in, and she will be glad to order any others that any student may desire.

"Look them over, or take them home for your parent's use, just being sure to return them the next morning so that other students may use them also," encourages Miss Mitchell in her efforts to get every student to plan his present work toward his future college requirements.

No. 31 you're quite the stuff, that surely was pretty guarding you did for 26.

Friday morning, September 25, the student body of the High School met in the auditorium for a pep meeting. Everyone seemed to be excited over the first game and the meeting was a great success.

The new cheer leaders, Finley Atkinson and Marguerite Harrison, had some new yells. Everyone co-operated with the leaders and rocked the auditorium with yells.

SEMESTER III ELECTS NEW OFFICERS FOR THIS YEAR

On Monday, September 21, 1925, the pupils of semester III, met in room 12 to elect officers. Harry Gump presided, having been elected as President by the body last year. Edgar Kuykendall was chosen for Vice-President, Helen Shuford for Secretary-Treasurer, Graham Todd for High Life Reporter, and Carlton Wilder as Student Council Representative.

The meeting was carried well, with little of the "joking spirit," often attached to a sophomore gathering.

C. W. PHILLIPS WARNS THE "HASH HOUSE" PATRONS

Tuesday, September 29, the Sophomores held the weekly meeting in the auditorium at chapel period. Mr. Phillips made a short talk, touched with humor throughout, on the "evils of going to the store for dinner."

He "pounced" upon the "evil-doers" in such a delightful fashion that one would hardly call it scolding, but he gave them to understand that further patronage of the stores would start things going in a reverse order to their present trend. His reasons were good and his rules lenient.

Mr. and Mrs. Gildersleve, accompanied on the piano by Elizabeth Causey, sang two songs, after which each sang several solos.

How 'bout Weldon's skeyter being pretty well loaded Friday? Miss Moore and Miss Cooper were both on it.

MR. HINTON MAKES INTERESTING TALK

Fire Prevention Was Theme of Interesting Talk—Girls Glee Club Renders Selections.

"Nothing but thoughtfulness and carefulness are fire preventions," said Mr. James R. Hinton, Divisional engineer of the Continental Insurance Company, in his talk before the students of the main building in chapel Monday, October 5.

Mr. Hinton stated that Greensboro had the smallest fire loss of any city in the state, a loss of about two dollars and nine cents per capita.

"Charlotte," he said, "had the largest fire loss in North Carolina, nine dollars and eighty-six cents per capita". The speaker said that 98 per cent of the fires were preventable. Mr. Hinton closed his talk by explaining the use of the "Sprinkler System" in the prevention of fires.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Mitchell. After the devotional the Girls' Glee-Club, led by Mr. Gildersleve, sang two selections, "Venetian Carnival" and "When Life is Brightest."

The meeting was dismissed after Mr. Johnson, athletic manager, had urged the students to attend the game with Winston-Salem Saturday.

NEW BOOKS ADDED TO SHELVES OF LIBRARY

Mrs. Orr, Librarian, Urges Students to Use Library, But to Take Care of the Books.

Pupils entering the library will notice that it has been improved by the addition of a number of new shelves.

About one hundred and fifty new books have been added to the old list; among which are Dramatic books that were ordered especially for Mr. Wunsch's work in Dramatics. Also there are many books of History, Poetry, and Fiction on the shelves. "Volumes that are interesting and should be read by every one are awaiting you. Look them over," says Mrs. Orr.

Such titles as these await your selection: "Frontier," "Old Mr. Oleack," "Our Presidents," "Boy's Own Book of Frontiersmen," "Why I Am a Spiritual Vagabond," "Illiterate Digest," "The Crazy Fool," "Carolina Chansons," "Can a Man Be a Christian Today?"

"These are just a very few of the many books which are for your benefit. Use the library every spare minute you have," urged Mrs. Orr, the librarian. "When you go there to use the books take good care of them. Think of them as if they were one of your best friends. To get the most out of the library you must be quiet and orderly while studying."

FRENCH CLUB MEETS; AMUSING PLAY GIVEN

The French Club held its first meeting on the afternoon of Oct. 30th in the Auditorium, with a good many former members and several new ones present. The meeting was called to order by Helen Felder, who presided until the following new officers were elected: Kate Stewart, president; Elizabeth Campbell, vice-president; Margaret Stockton, secretary and treasurer; and Virginia Douglas, press reporter.

A very amusing play, "Le Medicin Mystifie", followed the business part of the meeting. The players, Margaret Stockton, Kate Stewart, and Ben Kendrick did excellent work. They worked up this comedy in only two days.

The French Club expects to do good work in teaching pronunciation, as well as in making French more pleasant for both teachers and pupils. It helped greatly last year, according to an old member, who, because of her fine pronunciations, is doing unusually good work in college, having gone from Freshman to Junior French at Randolph-Macon in less than a month.

Believe me those little purple and gold dolls on those caps just kept waving to everybody and the only response they got was a yell from the grandstand.

PHILLIPS PROHIBITS STUDENTS EATING AT CORNER STORE

School is Responsible for Students—Must Stay on Campus and Eat in the Cafeteria.

"Yesterday at the sixth period I walked down to the grocery store at the corner of Walker Avenue and Spring Garden street," said Mr. C. W. Phillips at chapel exercises September 29, 1925, "and found about twenty-five High School boys down there eating onion sandwiches, potted ham, and buns. Yes, eating potted ham. If their mothers would serve this they would leave home. It was good down there."

"Now there are two reasons for this," continued the principal. "They either were not trained right or are stubborn and want to buck authority. This thing has been going on for quite a while and I know it. If your parents want you to do this then we have no objections. But they must tell us so in writing. Then when we receive that we are going to ask them to go with us and investigate conditions down there. There is an unsanitary atmosphere at most grocery stores since decayed vegetables, kerosene and all other odors are mixed."

"The city has prepared a cafeteria for you at great expense and, furnishes sanitary and appetizing lunches for you. We want you to take advantage of this. Besides this, we do not want you to go down to the store for lunch because your safety is entrusted to us by your parents. If a truck hits somebody the first thing parents will do is to come to us. I don't blame them. We cannot look after you when you are not on the campus," concluded Mr. Phillips, "and when you leave the campus the responsibility is shifted from our shoulders to your parents. We are going to insist on every child's eating lunch at the Cafeteria."

MISS BECKWITH SEEMS TO BE DEEPLY IN LOVE

She Misses Lunch and Perplexes Class When She Gets Periods Twisted; Should be Investigated.

What can be the matter with Miss Beckwith? Probably she is in love. At any rate, something must be radically wrong to make her so forgetful as to almost skip a class with the insufficient excuse that she thought it was her lunch period.

To say the least, she was very inconsiderate of the pupils waiting anxiously to devour some English. Upon being asked by a new pupil if she had an extra book, she replied, "I don't know, Wildard. This isn't my class. Elizabeth, who does teach this class?"

"Why, I—I think you do, Miss Beckwith."

Very much bewildered, Miss Beckwith, who was preparing to leave the room, asked what period it was. Upon being told that the fourth period was in progress, she smiled and deposited her armload of books on the desk. "I thought this was the fifth period," she murmured dazedly.

It is high time some of these sharks got busy and relieved the suspense. Is he dark or fair? Dark, probably. Watch out, Miss Beckwith, "your sins will find you out."

Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY TALKS ABOUT "MAKING A CHOICE"

Chapel was opened Wednesday, Sept. 30, with a few introductory remarks by Mr. Phillips. He then introduced Mr. Gildersleve, who sang two selections, "The Song of the Toreador" and "Imiritus." Mr. Gildersleve was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Causey on the piano.

The speaker for the occasion was Mr. E. D. Yost, of the Y. M. C. A. He selected a text from the new Testament and made an interesting talk on the topic, "Making a Choice." He urged the pupils to take advantage of their school days, to choose the subjects which will be of use in future life and not to shirk the harder but more important subjects.

After Mr. Yost's talk the cheer leaders made a plea for cars to go to the game at Salisbury Friday.
