Second place went to the school band for its stunt, "German Band," a comic imitation of a symphony. The Dramatics club won third place with "Beautiful Belles of the Ballet," their stunt being an interpretive dance done by four brawny athletes.

STOP! LOOK! THINK!

Students, have you any back copies of the National Geographic Magazine? Mrs. Hall is trying to collect these magazines so that she can have them bound and placed in the library as reference books. Examine your attics and store-rooms today! Any copies brought in will be greatly appreciated by the librarian, who put on a similar campaign several years ago in Knoxville and thus secured a complete file of the same periodical for a twenty-year period.

SEWELL SUCCEEDS MITCHELL ON STAFF

Miriam Sewell to Be Editor-in-Chief, Cassie Kernodle Business Manager of High Life.

OTHERS CHOSEN IN FALL

Miriam Sewell was elected editor-in-chief of High Life for the year 1937-38 at a recent staff election, presided over by Elisabeth Mitchell, who has served in the editorial capacity since the beginning of the second semester. Cassie Kernodle, staff member since January, was selected as next year's business manager, replacing Marty Cockfield.

Miriam received her first journalistic training at Central High School in Charlotte, where she was a member of the Rambler staff. She further proved her capability as a reporter on the Spotlight last fall. In January she was selected as make-up editor of the G.H.S. publication, and has served in this capacity very successfully.

Although Cassie has not served quite as long an apprenticeship as the incoming editor, she has been a most useful assistant to this year's business manager by efficiently soliciting and collecting advertisements. She has also made much success as an editorial writer.

In former years it was customary to withhold the selection of the new staff for High Life until September, but the two most important officers were elected this year so that work on the paper could be continued during the vacation period. The remainder of the staff, however, will be chosen next fall.

Only five members of this semester's staff will graduate in June; therefore, High Life should be in excellent condition to begin next semester under the direction of the new editor. The graduates from the Journalism II class are: Elisabeth Mitchell, editor-in-chief; Maurine Love, student adviser; Mary Spencer Watkins, Stanley Lewis, and Howard Adair, reporters.

Several Faculty Members and Parents of Students to Accompany Sight-seers on Tour.

A group of approximately 40 graduating seniors and faculty members are leaving tomorrow morning, May 21, at 6:30 a.m., in private cars, for Washington, D. C., where they will visit the various notable and historic spots in and around the city. The tour will not be an extensive one, as the seniors, chaperoned by several parents and three or four faculty members, will return to Greensboro late Sunday evening.

As they expect to arrive in Richmond, Va., about 11:30 Friday morning, the group will visit the State Capital, White House of the Confederacy, Federal Reserve bank, St. John's church, Hollywood cemetery, and Monument avenue. Monuments to Lee, Davis, Jackson, and Stuart will be found at the latter site.

From Richmond they will travel to Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington; and from the latter historic site, the travelers will arrive in Washington at the Ebbett hotel. After dinner, the Library of Congress will be explored, and finishing up the day will be a theatre party at the Fox theatre.

The group will be off to an early start Saturday morning, when they visit the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, make a tour of the White House, the Pan-American building, the Supreme Court building, and the Capitol.

Saturday afternoon the seniors will make a general circuit of the historic spots in the vicinity of Washington, visiting Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, Lee's home at Arlington, Fort Myers, and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Later in the evening the Smithsonian Institute will be duly explored, and from that point of interest the seniors will navigate to the navy yard at 5:30 p.m.

Religious services will be attended Sunday morning at the Catholic Cathedral, after which the group will begin

TORCHLIGHT SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Howard Moffett is Chosen President,
Jean Yates Vice-President, and Annis Hines Secretary.

VIRGINIA VACHE IS TREASURER

At a called meeting of the Torchlight Honor Society last Friday afternoon, the officers for next year were elected.

Howard Moffett was chosen as president to succeed Joy Cann. After his election Howard took charge of the remainder of the meeting. Jean Yates, newly-elected treasurer of the student body, is to take over the duties of vice-president, replacing Graham Bartlett. Doris Shaffer, who is the present secretary, is retiring in favor of Annie Hines, next year's vice-president of G. H. S., while Burt McKenzie is relinquishing his job as treasurer to Virginia Vache.

Torchlight will lose approximately 27 members through graduation, but the loss to the chapter will be compensated by the fact that a large number of new members were initiated this semester.
