

HOME ROOM GIRLS TAKE UNIQUE TEST

Group of Sophomores and Juniors Are Quizzed As to Likes and Dislikes.

TO SECURE STATISTICS

During the session room period this morning, four girls from each home room, made up of sophomores and juniors, took a test called "Likes and Dislikes of High School Girls." The students who participated in this were not required to sign their names, as the test was just an attempt to secure statistics. Miss Snowe Bradley was in charge of the examinations, which were held in the library.

The questions requested expressions of opinion on such varied statements as the following: "I always prefer riding in an automobile" and "It is no worse to chew gum in the theatre, or on the street, than at home."

ALUMNI NEWS

Leslie Ricketts, who was president of the January class of '35, is now a member of the Greensboro Record staff.

A graduate of the June class of '36, Winfred Meibohm, is a delivery clerk for Patterson's Food Store.

Jessie Douglas, '35, is now taking an art course at Woman's College.

Louise Morgan, '36, is now working with the American Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Sarah Foust, '34, is majoring in a home economics course at W. C. U. N. C.

Incidentally . . .

The seniors caps' and gowns were delivered on Wednesday.

A general teachers' meeting, the last one for this year, was held Monday.

For students who have completed the required Latin, an elective course in Virgil and Cicero will be offered next year.

The same polls and ballot boxes that were used in the recent city election were used in the G. H. S. election.

On Monday the students made out the proposed schedule cards for next year.

Rehearsals for the senior pageant have been going very well. All the costumes have been designed and will soon be made.

Mr. Ben L. Smith, superintendent of the Greensboro Public Schools, is delivering the commencement address at Mebane High School today.

MOTHERS ARE FETED BY GIRL RESERVES CLUB

The Lucky Lassies Girl Reserve club was hostess to their mothers at a mother-daughter banquet recently.

Norma Lowman, president of the club, acted as toastmistress for this occasion, which was held in connection with Mother's Day. A toast to the Mothers was given by Rachel Miles, a cabinet member of the organization. Mrs. Morrison gave the response.

At the conclusion of the banquet, all joined in the Girl Reserves' songs, led by Miss Morton.

Evolution

Freshman: "I don't know."
Sophomore: "I'm not prepared."
Junior: "I don't remember."
Senior: "I don't believe I can add anything to what has been said."

Mary: "Why, all the pages of this novel are blank."

Cecil: "Well, you'll notice that the hero and heroine squarrel on page 145 and never speak again."

O. HENRY SHORT STORY CONTEST PAPERS DUE

Valuable Prize is Given Annually by Club to Successful Entrant in Competition.

The O. Henry Short Story Study Club has made it a custom, for the past several years, to give a set of O. Henry books for the best short story written by a member of the senior class. Anyone who wishes to participate in this contest may do so. The judges will select the best paper and will not reveal the name of the winner until the night of graduation, when the books will be awarded. All competing papers must be handed in to the English teachers within the next few days.

This is one of the mostly highly coveted awards which a senior can receive, as it shows that a great deal of time and effort, as well as brains, have been expended in preparation.

CAFETERIA HAS CHARGE OF RADIO BROADCAST

The Cafeteria was in charge of the WBIG radio program last night. The program took the form of a skit which presented the importance of fresh vegetables in the modern diet. Mrs. Milner, Miss Boyd, and Miss Strickland participated.

There will be only one more program in this year's series, and it will be presented by the Glee Club of Dudley High on May 26.

WHAT DO YOU READ?

Do you read constructive or destructive literature? Do you read books that are elevating intellectually, or do you read "dime novels" and "Wild West" stories? It is important that we read good, clean literature—literature which will broaden our minds and keep us informed on the movements of this progressive era. In order to raise our standards, we must cultivate the use of good books and discard the second-class literature which is prevalent among the uneducated people. Let's put in our homes and public reading places the best reading material available and eliminate the bad.

SAY IT WITH FLOWERS

With special permission of the copyright owners, the florists of America, the smart young Miss is wearing this message over all the land. You want a flowered print for your next dress. Have you been into Mangel's as yet and looked them over? Aren't they simply too, too grand? Lush flower bouquets, fairly large white designs on dark backgrounds, bold, splashy flowers, actual photographic object patterns. Short sleeved. Fascinating. And such fun to wear!
