DR. E. C. LINDERMAN TALKS TO ECONOMICS STUDENTS

next two years, but he does not anticipate a revolution. He thinks that the labor unions will probably lose out during the next two years on account of the capitalists reducing wages and declaring open shops, but he firmly believes that the theory is just, and that it will rise again.

The laboring man's success is due largely to labor unions. The railroad companies did not put safety brakes on their cars until labor unions came into existence. Also, before labor unions existed, when a working man lost his life in a factory, his family then had no support, but now in such a case his family is taken care of. This is effective in all states but four, of which North Carolina is one.

Dr. Linderman then gave the worst things about the labor union. He says they sometimes break agreements, which is oftentimes the only weapon a laborer has. Then oftentimes a crooked leader takes charge of the union, and the laborers put their trust in him.—Reported by Allan Stainback.

ELON GAME

G. H. S lost to the Elon College Quint on last Friday, the 7th, at Elon by the score of 32-14. The local boys were handicapped in that they were supposed to meet the scrub team instead of the College team.

The game began with G. H. S. playing the scrubs and at the end of the first half, the score stood 12-7 in favor of the G. H. S. But in the second half Elon decided that no High School team should go away having defeated any team representing Elon. So one by one a first string man would take the place of a scrub, until Greensboro found itself playing a real college team, and at the end of the game found also that it had been beaten by a College team 32-14.

But the team had nothing to worry about because the fight that it put up against their much larger and more experienced opponents, would do credit to any team, thus handicapped.

For Elon the work of Fix and Perry was exceptionally good, while Capt. Poole and Ballard played the best game for G. H. S.

The lineup was as follows:

Poole, r. f., Britton, l. f., Daniel, center, Ballard, r. g., Koenig, l. g. Fix, r. f., Andrews, l. f., Marlette, center, Perry, r. g., Newman, l. g.

Substitutes, Henderson for Britton, Johnson for Marlette. Referee Carbay.
