

TEACHERS TRAVEL LONG DISTANCE IN NORTHEASTERN U.S.

Misses Laura Tillett, Sue Tillett, and Lily Walker, sleepily began a journey north on the morning of June 20 at the early hour of 6:30 o'clock.

VISIT GETTYSBURG FIELD

Travel to Niagara Falls, the Adirondack Mountains, Lake George, Toronto, and Many Famous Places Down East

Misses Laura Tillett, Sue Tillett, and Lily Walker, sleepily began a journey north on the morning of June 20 at the early hour of 6:30 o'clock.

"Fanny the Flapper," Miss Miss Tillett's car, was to flap to her heart's content on this four-thousand mile trip, for to quote Miss Tillett, "Fanny certainly flapped."

Following the Susquehanna Trail through the Finger Lake district of New York and by Yellowstone Trail, Fanny carried the three to Niagara. Miss Tillett says Switzerland can't excel the Finger Lakes, so clear and blue is the water.

Gettysburg

This family says their most interesting visit was at Gettysburg. An extensive tour was made of the field. The trio was amazed by the many markers, the prettiest being Virginia's memorial to Robert E. Lee. The field overlooks the site of "Pickett's Raid." They also saw the site which has been chosen by North Carolina for its memorial.

The Susquehanna Trail which follows the Susquehanna river gave the travelers beautiful scenery and an excellent highway.

Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls delighted these visitors. It was awe inspiring, and Miss Tillett says she felt as though in the presence of some great monster. The falls impressed upon her "The power of God and His goodness." After the week-end at the Falls, they took a boat trip to Toronto. During the trip a terrible storm raged. Miss Tillett was sea sick, and Miss Walker was the only woman on deck. Arriving in Toronto the trio started off to view the city; almost before they could start, a man walked up to them, saying, "Best barroom in town, just around the corner." Toronto, they say, is a beautiful city.

From Niagra they traveled the Cherry Valley Trail and woe be to the owners, the cherries were ripe. Their next stop was Syracuse, and then south to Albany. The capitol was visited, but Governor Smith, being out of town, failed to receive his distinguished guests.

Mountain Scenery

Leaving Albany they went through the Adirondack Mountains. Lake George and Lake Champlain were visited. Crossing Lake George they went into Vermont, where they struck "horrible" roads. Here their coupe gave them trouble for a day and a half. They labored patiently and finally reached Massachusetts. On July 4 they arrived in Cambridge. The colleges were visited and Misses Laura Tillett and Lily Walker attended Harvard. While at Harvard they made several week-end trips, one time visiting White Mountains.

Hawthorn's "Old Man of the Mountains" and the famous "Indian Head" were objects of interest to our visitors.

After their Harvard education the visitors traveled on to Portland Maine. Historical places, a Lindbergh crowd and birthplace of Longfellow were visited. From Portland the trio went to Cambridge where the homes of Longfellow, Louise Alcott, Emerson and Hawthorne were visited.

Another interesting week-end trip was to Plymouth. Misses Lesley and Caldwell, in their Ford were encountered here. The size of Plymouth Rock was so much smaller than expected that the visitors were almost dismayed.

The trip homeward started as our trio came through Providence and New

THE TEACHER'S LAMENT

It's hard to be a teacher,
On that you may rely;
I want to be a student,
A student live and die.

Now my work is more heavy
Than any pupil's yet;
I have more daily lessons,
Than those my pupils get.

I'm always, always picked on,
I'm always in the wrong,
I'm never right—no, never—
So listen to my song:

I want to be a student
And as a student sent.
It's hard to be a teacher—
Now that is my lament.

—The Spectator, Senior High School, Trenton, N. J.

"We are intellectual opposites,"
"Be explicit."

"I'm intellectual and you are opposite."
—West High Tattler, Des Moines, Iowa.

Don't go in bathing after a big dinner.

Why not?
Because you won't find it there.
