UNIVERSITY OF N. C. SPONSORS DEBATE FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Members of Triangular Teams
Contest in Greensboro
Next Week.

WINNERS TO CHAPEL HILL

Debating Club of Local School Presents
Cup to Best Speaker in Senior Class.

Preliminaries for the state-wide triangular debate sponsored by the University of North Carolina, will be held in the Greensboro High School auditorium during the latter part of next week.

Resolved: That North Carolina should adopt the proposed constitution amendment, authorizing the classification of property for taxation is the query of the triangular debate for which more than thirty contestants are expected to try out. Many have written their speeches, bringing out only one point on the question, which was required.

Among the contestants who have expressed their intention of trying out are: Charles Hagan, Douglas Cartland, Clary Holt, Mack Heath, Dorothy Burnside, Edwin Holt, Edgar Meibahne, Dick Cann, A. C. Holt, Alma Taylor, Lane Barksdale, Maenette Graff, J. Barnes, James Strickland, Randolph Covington, Jack McLean, Mary Mitchell, Steve Douglas, Mabel Lamb, Randolph Freeman, Mary Nau, Edward Cone, Olivia Branch, Hilliard Klein, Holt Knight, Hadley Hayes, John Debutts. James A. Farthing, who is coaching the triangular debaters, is having a class on the query every afternoon, when he gives instructions, explaining terms and clearing the difficult points.

Out of these contestants four will be chosen to debate with High Point and Winston-Salem on April 4. The team that wins both the negative and affirmative side of the question will go to Chapel Hill to debate April 17 and 18 in the finals and compete for the Aycock Memorial Cup.

To each graduating class the debating club of Greensboro high school presents a cup to the most outstanding debater.

In 1929 Louis Brooks was presented with the cup, his name being engraved on it. Harry Buice received the cup for the best debater in this year's mid-year graduation class, with his name on it. When the cup is filled with names it will be placed in Archives of the Greensboro High School. In this way the Debating Club is making history for itself.

SENIOR SUPPLY SHOP HAS PROSPEROUS TERM

James Strickland, Manager, and His Assistants Plan Publicity Program to Be Held in Chapel.

The Senior Supply Shop has recently closed the most successful semester of its existence, according to Harry Buice, ex-manager, who brought the shop to the attention of the entire student body with values heretofore unrealized by patrons of the establishment.

The graduated senior class, sponsors of the institution, have reaped the profits, the shop netting them as much as it had previously netted before in an entire year.

The manager, aided by his assistants, did all in his power to serve the students; his efforts bore good fruit.

James Strickland, the new manager, with the help of Charles Hagan and Carey Sloan, plans to continue Harry Buice's service policy, and also to present an extensive publicity program in chapel and in each session room.

GIRL'S COUNCIL GIVES MOTHERS BANQUET

Miss Lee's Art Class is in Charge of Decorations for Occasion.

B. HAWORTH IS WAITER

Henri Etta Lee's art class at senior high school will have charge of all the decorations of the Mother-Daughter banquet which is sponsored by the Girls' Council. This banquet will be given at the high school cafeteria Friday, February 7, at 6 o'clock.

Miss Lee's class is moulding the candle holders out of clay and will use red tapers for the occasion. A red and white color scheme will be used as a symbol of Valentine day. The students are drawing silhouettes on the program cards.

Priscilla White, president of Girls' Council, is toast mistress for the night, and the G. H. S. orchestra directed by Earl Slocum, will have charge of the music.

The program for the evening will include several dances and recitations by Mrs. Oscar White's class. Mary Phillips will give the balloon dance and Polly Moore, the Valentine dance.

After the toast Elizabeth Willis will tell of the "Mother of Yesterday" and Nancy Hudson of "The Mother of Tomorrow." Then several mothers will answer these students.

Eleanor Randolph will toast the waiters who include the men of the faculty. The headwaiter for the occasion is Byron Haworth.

DIRECTORS PREPARE FOR NATIONAL CONTEST

Observe Music Anniversary First Week of May—Contest Takes Place in Flint, Michigan.

MUSIC DEPTS. FINANCE THE TRIP

Too-t-too! squeak-squeak! boom-boom, scream the instruments under the direction of members of Grady Miller's band and Earl Slocum's orchestra at G. H. S.

These music teachers are now preparing for the annual music contest which occurs the first day of May. During that week city schools and churches, as well as other prominent organizations, will observe the anniversary of music with special phrases of this art in their programs.

Instrumentation of the local band at the senior high school is practically filled out. There are several clarinets, B flat saxophones, bass clarinets, and flutes lacking.

Music students work on "Egmont Overture" by Beethoven at present. This is the designated number for the national contest to be held in Flint, Michigan.

Mr. Miller says the music department has plans for raising the money to finance the trip to Flint provided that there is complete instrumentation of the full symphonic band.

Easter in April—Not March
"High Life" wishes to call the attention of its readers to the fact that the Easter holidays fall on the 18 and 21 of April instead of the 21 and 24 of March, as was formerly stated.

U. N. C. PUBLICATION ANNOUNCES STATE LATIN CONTEST

University Hopes Academic Exams Aid All Latin Students in State.

PHILLIPS ENTHUSIASTIC

All Pupils Excluding Freshman, Enter
Spanish, Latin, and Mathematics
Tryouts.

Beginning February 28, with the State Latin Contest, the state academic contest for 1930 starts. This is the announcement contained in the latest issue of "The University of North Carolina Extension News" published periodically by the U. N. C. Extension department.

U. N. C. Promotes Languages

By means of these contests the University hopes to render a service to the high schools through an increase in the interest of North Carolina students in the field of scholarship, particularly in the study of Latin, French, Spanish and mathematics.

"Since 1925 when the Latin contests began the event, schools have greeted announcements of the contest with enthusiasm. I sincerely hope the students here take part, anticipating the best examinations," says C. W. Phillips, senior high school principal.

Latin Begins 1930 Contests

On February 28, Latin students, excluding freshmen, will take the state-wide examination. This test includes first a translation of some passage from Caesar's "Gallic Wars" such as is generally read in high school; second, questions on forms and syntax based on this selection; third, a second passage of Latin prose (similar to that of Caesar's composition) for translation at sight.

Three hours are allowed for completion of this and other contests. The three best papers of each school are selected and sent to the Latin department of the University where authorities grade these and thereby declare the best paper.

Other Contests Follow

Rules for French and Spanish divisions are practically the same as for Latin. French contest begins March 14, and Spanish, March 28. Only second year French students take this test which will likely include the following: first, a vocabulary test; second, the conjugation of several representative verbs; third, the composition of French sentences; fourth, a reading test.

Spanish students of sophomore, junior and senior class participate in that division. Vocabulary, grammar and reading make up the examination.

Mathematics Contest takes place April 25, when all students, except freshmen, qualify.

Heads of departments at G. H. S. are making plans for these contests and plan to announce further details later.

THEATER REDUCES PRICES FOR "DISRAEL"

Greensboro high school students, through the thoughtfulness of Mr. Street, manager of the Carolina Theater, will be given reduced rates for the picture "Disraeli" coming next week on account of its historical value. It deals with the prime minister of England during the Victorian Age.

The picture has its dramatic and light moments and within is woven a clever love plot.

George Arliss, an Englishman and one of the greatest actors in America, plays the leading role. His wife takes a minor part.

Tickets for the picture will be on sale in the Senior Supply Shop.

S-C-H-O-L-A-R

Students of Greensboro senior high school say scholarship is their aim for this semester.

Culmination of such a goal will undoubtedly result in that spirit of G. H. S. and emphasis of my high school and your high school which the present scholars receive from former scholars and pass on with their contributions to those future scholars.

Honor roll people will be feted as never before, a banquet in recognition of outstanding students being planned for February 20. On the school records will be the most successful semester in the history of this high school.

Learning to be the "Man Thinking," as Emerson defines scholar, is the individual goal to terminate in the achievement of the goal set by the entire student body.

Art and artists, of which none of the local students or faculty has dreamed, will be recognized.

RESULT of this scholar-campaign will be SCHOLARS at G. H. S.

DODGE ADDRESSES G. H. S. STUDENTS

"What Price Success" is Topic of Talk Made Before School Assembly.

SPEAKER ADVERTISES "Y"

"What Price Success" will be the subject of a talk by Harry E. Dodge to the Greensboro high school students next Wednesday afternoon, February 12, during chapel period. Mr. Dodge, of Fall River, Massachusetts, is a noted lecturer and probably known all over the country not only for his talks to young people but also to adults. During his stay in Greensboro from February 10 to 16, he will be at the Cone Memorial Y. M. C. A. and he comes to Greensboro high school through the courtesy of A. S. Arnold, secretary of Cone Memorial Y. M. C. A.

Before Mr. Dodge started traveling he was associated with the Y. M. C. A.

While in Greensboro he will give a number of lectures, mainly to clubs and schools. He usually speaks at club meetings, schools, colleges, Y. M. C. A. Bible classes, or churches.

The following are a few of the many subjects upon which he speaks: "Give Yourself a Chance," "Marriage Is Not a Failure," "Spirit of Fair Play," "The High Purpose of the Hi-Y," "Making Good With My Job," and "The Challenge of the 'Y' to the Community."

PRINCIPAL PHILLIPS TALKS AT WILMINGTON

"Meeting the Vocational Needs of High School Boys and Girls" Is Topic of Speech.

Greensboro high school's principal, C. W. Phillips, will leave Thursday, February 13, accompanied by J. W. Moore, principal of the Winston-Salem high school, L. R. Johnson, High Point high school principal, and J. N. Knox, principal of the Salisbury high school, to attend a meeting in Wilmington of the principals of the AAL high schools in North Carolina. The purpose of this annual meeting, lasting through Friday and Saturday, is to discuss the high school problems now existing.

Mr. Phillips will talk on the subject "Meeting the Vocational Needs of High School Boys and Girls."

GOV. GARDNER PLANS PROGRAM OF "LIVE-AT-HOME"

Students May Participate in a
State-Wide Essay Contest.

SCHOOLS HAVE SPEAKERS

State Officials Broadcast Over WPTF,
Raleigh, N. C.—Special Dates
Are Designated.

"As a part of Governor Gardner's "Live-at-Home" program for agriculture, all the schools of the state will observe "Live-at-Home Week" February 10-14," according to a bulletin issued by State Superintendent of Public Instruction A. T. Allen.

This bulletin also sets forth means by which the live-at-home idea can be brought to the attention of the students in general as well as a personal message from the North Carolina governor.

The topic for each day of the celebration is as follows:

Monday, February 10—Daily food for the family.

Tuesday, February 11—Importance of the cow.

Wednesday, February 12—Importance of the poultry.

Thursday, February 13—Importance of the hog.

Friday, February 14—Importance of the garden.

The state offers prizes for the best essays, posters, and booklets relating to this subject. All high school students may compete.

Speakers for the "Live-at-Home" program have been procured; the speeches of these state officials will be broadcast from station WPTF, Raleigh. The speakers, in chronological order, are: Governor Gardner, Superintendent Allen, T. E. Browne, director of vocational education; J. Henry Highsmith, director of division of school inspection; and Miss Rebecca Cushing, supervisor of home economics education.
