MUSIC DEPARTMENT CONTINUES WORK ON SPRING OPERA

Boys Try Out Second Time for Parts in "Yeomen of the Guards."

GIRLS CAST STAYS SAME

American Federation Music Club Meets in Greensboro on Date of Students' Exhibition.

A second try-out for the boys in the opera, "The Yeomen of the Guards" which will be given by the Greensboro high school music department, Friday afternoon and evening, May 9, have been held and the results stand as follows: "Red" Paris and Guy Hope will sing the leading tenor role "Fairfax," Lawrence Russel and John Ademy were chosen for the part of Point; Frank Tye and John Moore were selected to sing the part of Leonard and L. H. Dunivant is understudy to G. W. Stamper for the part of Wilfred. Also G. W. is understudying the part of Meryl. The role of the first yeoman will be sung by Steve Douglas and the second yeoman, Billy Horton.

The cast of girls is the same as had been selected before: Lois Lazenby and Annie Laurie Felder, singing the part of Elsie; Ethel Grey, Roger and Martha Nell Carson, Phoebe; Adelaide Fortune and Clara Applewhite, Dame Carruthers; Evelyn Haddon, Kate.

The American Federation of Music clubs will meet in Greensboro on the same day that the high school opera is presented. This was a request of the clubs, so that the members, numbering 200 and 300, may hear the opera. Through these people, the opera will be talked of throughout the state.

SENIOR LATIN STUDENTS PLAN HOMESPUN ISSUE

Virgil Class Urges Pupils to Submit Material for Edition of School Magazine.

MEMBERS OFFER TWO AWARDS

For the first time in the history of Greensboro high school, the senior latin classes are issuing a number of Home-spun. The theme of the issue will be "Virgil's Life and Works."

In order to arouse interest in the issue throughout the school, a Virgil contest will start today. Poems, stories, art work and anything else pertaining to the life and works of "Roman Virgil" may be entered in the contest.

Two prizes will be awarded: one, for the best story, essay, or poem; the other, for the best art contribution.

The rules of the contest are:

1. The material must be in to English teachers by Friday, March 7; they, in turn, must turn these into the senior supply shop not later than 4 o'clock of the same day.

2. Anyone may enter, except Virgil students.

3. The contribution should be typed if possible, if not it should be written in ink on one side of the paper only.

Miss Leslie says: "I hope every Latin student will take part in this contest, for I feel that it will be very worth while.

Judges for the contest are Elizabeth Sockwell, editor-in-chief of the Virgil issue of Home-spun; Miss Sara Lesley, head of the Latin department; and Miss Laura Tillett, head of the English department.

Scholarship Committee Gives Banquet for Star Students

"When times are hard and money spent,
An education is quite excellent."

Thus feel the bronze star, the silver star, and the gold star students who attend the Scholarship Banquet at six-thirty tonight in the High School cafeteria.

FANNIE STARR MITCHELL ATTENDS ASSOCIATION

Lillian Killingsworth, Former Dean of Greensboro High School, Leaves for National Meeting.

PRINCIPALS GO TO CONFERENCE

Miss Fannie Starr Mitchell, Greensboro high school dean of girls, leaves Tuesday, February 18, for Atlantic City where she will attend a national meeting of deans. This conference is affiliated with the National Education Association and is a part of this organization. Miss Mitchell went last year to Cleveland, Ohio, in company with Miss Lillian Killingsworth, a former G. H. S. dean, who is now at the North Carolina College for Women.

Miss Mitchell and Miss Killingsworth leave Tuesday night and will remain until the end of the week; the conference of deans meets prior to that of the regular N. E. A. Association, which begins next week.

Miss Florence Pannill will also go to this meeting. Miss Pannill is the city superintendent of the primary grades.

Mr. Guy Phillips, Greensboro city school superintendent; Mr. Charles Phillips, senior high school principal; Mr. McSwain, the principal of Central junior high school, and two other Greensboro school principals will attend the conference next week.

Mrs. E. H. Strickland head of the German department, will go to the State German meet in Raleigh March 22. Here she will speak on "Problems in Teaching German."

TEACHERS GIVE NEW OBJECTIVES FOR CITY SCHOOLS

Committees From Each School
Select Objectives From All Submitted.

HAWORTH IS CHAIRMAN

Teachers Vote on Report Given to Committee of Twelve—Purpose Explained.

A report of the objectives of the teachers of Greensboro public schools has recently been presented to the entire faculty group for their adoption. Each teacher in the school system wrote his own objectives for his class and then the committees from each school combined them. Later they were passed on to the committee of twelve teachers, Mr. Haworth, chairman, and two others from the high school, three from junior high, three from grammar school, and three from the primary grades, who had been chosen for the purpose.

The objectives as they stand, ready for adaption, if they are pleasing to the entire faculty group are:

I. The Profession

A. Personal:

- (1) To keep ourselves physically fit.
- (2) To keep pace with growing education.
- (3) To inculcate into our lives desirable traits of character.
- (4) To cultivate a pleasing personality and a cheerful disposition.
- (5) To have regard for personal appearance.
- (6) To maintain a sincere and natural mien.

B. Administrative:

- (1) To lend co-operation in every enterprise undertaken by the administrative department of the Greensboro schools.
- (2) To be ever ready to encourage, uphold, or assist fellow-teachers and all agencies of the school, as the situation may dictate.

II. The Child.

A. Citizenship:

To so direct the child, by encouraging those habits, attitudes and skills that tend to mental, moral and spiritual growth, that he may meet adequately the responsibilities of citizenship both now and in later life.

B. Subject Matter:

To endeavor to have the child measure up to the standard requirements of his grade, but to so provide for individual difference that no child may feel himself a failure.

C. Self Expression:

To give the child abundant opportunity for self expression through creative work.

III. The Community.

A. To adjust ourselves to the environment of the community in which we are placed, and to become a vital part of the social, civic, and religious life.

B. To create a feeling of confidence and good-will on the part of the general public toward the existing system of education.

C. To create a spirit of cooperation between each school and its patrons.

Phillips Heads High School Principals

C. W. Phillips, principal of Senior high school, was elected president of AA1 High School Principals' Association at the convention held in Wilmington February 14 and 15.
