

Group Writes Code of Ethics Entire Student Body Approves Project of Social Standards

The Committee Was Composed of Beverly Reeves, Helen Crutchfield, Maurice Polk, and Ruth Jones. Under Leadership of Mary Helen King.

For the first time in the history of the school a Code of Ethics has been written by a committee and approved by the student body.

The committee composed of Beverly Reeves, Helen Crutchfield, Maurice Polk, and Ruth Jones under the leadership of Mary Helen King, met and composed the following code: As a student in the Greensboro high school, I shall try always:

- To be courteous to everybody.
- To be honest in all my dealings.
- To have respect for and do my best to attain high scholarship.
- To be obedient to those in authority.
- To have respect both for myself and for others.
- To be considerate of the property and rights of others.
- To give my best in support of school activities.

- To be a good follower if I cannot be a good leader.
- To appreciate my opportunities and show that appreciation through a wise use of time.
- To have the courage to follow the right even though I stand alone in so doing.

On March 3 two codes were presented to the student council by the chairman of the Social Standards Committee, Mary Helen King. The above code was approved and presented to the student body March 6 in assembly, where it was accepted.

This is a project of the Social Standard Committee.

The code will be placed before the students in various manners at frequent intervals. Posters bearing the code are being placed on bulletin boards in halls and also a copy is to be posted in each room. Pupils are urged to memorize the code and live up to its precepts.

Senior Girl Scouts To Sponsor Circus

Park Place Methodist Church
Scene of Carnival; 10 Cents
Admission; Proceeds to Beautify
Troop Meeting Places.

There are going to be clowns, and gypsies, and animals. And a big parade!

Is the circus coming to town, you ask? Yes. The Senior girl scouts, together with troop 10 are giving a carnival tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Park Place Methodist church that will put to shame all circuses venturing to Greensboro.

The fun will begin with a big parade followed by dances and acrobatics. There will be a fat lady, a magician, a fortune teller, a crazy house, and a tattooed lady. Cold drinks and hot dogs will be sold at stands.

General admission to the public is ten cents. Proceeds will be used to beautify the meeting places of the two troops. Emily White will be ringmaster for Troop 10 and Jessie Douglas for the Senior troop.

STATE PRINCIPALS ATTEND MEETING

C. W. Phillips left today for Winston-Salem to attend the annual meeting of the Double A-1 high school principals over the state.

John W. Moore, principal of the Winston-Salem high school, is to have charge of the program.

Mr. Phillips' talk will be made on the subject, Developing better relations between the high school communities. All of the thirty principals are to participate by making speeches and engaging in discussions.

The main speaker of the meeting, which will extend from Friday to Saturday morning, is President Rondthaler, of Salem college.

There are a few outsiders attending the convention, which has been in existence for ten years.

The convention met at the Durham high school last year and at Greensboro high two years ago.

Debaters Hold Preliminaries

Affirmative Meets High Point
Here and Negative Fights
Winston There.

Preliminaries for the state triangular debates will be held Friday, March 31. The affirmative will meet High Point here at a chapel program. The negative side will go to Winston and debate before their student body.

The query is, "Resolved: That North Carolina should adopt the sales tax as a feature of its state system." The school winning both sides will go to Chapel Hill to compete for the Aycock Memorial cup.

Mr. Farthing stated that he thought Senior high had a fair chance of winning.

Tommy Miller and David Stafford will uphold the affirmative, while Howard King and A. C. Holt will argue the negative side.

Nature Students Make Field Trips To Observe Birds

Class to Begin Study of Trees and Flowers; Pupils Hear Lectures on Natural Science.

The nature study class is progressing nicely with their study of birds. They are making field trips every day that the weather permits. The class hopes soon to finish up the study of birds and begin its study of flowers and trees.

Mrs. Nellie D. Blackburn stated that she has eighteen pupils in her class, and that each of them will be expected to observe and report on twenty-five birds, fifty wild flowers, and fifty native trees.

Several speakers have addressed the class this semester. J. Paul Givler, head of science at W. C. of U. N. C., spoke to them on hobbies. Besides R. D. Douglas's talk on birds, they were shown one hundred different lantern pictures of birds by Lucy McAllister.

On the night of February 23, the class went over to W. C. and listened to Earl Hall speak on astronomy. Last Friday after Joe Armfield, assistant postmaster, came over and talked on bird, eggs, and nests.

Each student is keeping a nature calendar. Mrs. Blackburn says that so far indications point toward a later spring than last year. However, she says that when we see the service berry in bloom, we may know that spring is just around the corner.

Three New Courses Begin During March

Three new courses began the second day of March, namely, home nursing by one of the Greensboro city nurses; etiquette taught by Miss Irene Croghan, and a course concerning social problems which C. W. Phillips will have charge of provided enough are interested in taking the course. At present Mr. Phillips says that the courses will be taught during activities period.

Mr. Phillips stated that his course will be concerning the topics of individualism, socialization, idea of change, unequal places in our democracy, being born well, and faith and a square life.

MID TERM CLASS GIVES LIBRARY $15

The mid term graduating class of 1933 left to the Senior high school library fifteen dollars to be used in purchasing new books under Miss Rebecca Wall's supervision. As no suggestions have been offered, Miss Wall has considered buying illustrated copies of the classics and placing them on a browsing shelf where the students may look through the books without taking them from the library.

Any suggestions from the students would be appreciated, or if you desire any particular book, write the name and author on a slip of paper and give it to the librarian.

Student Views Inauguration

Greeted By Governor Ehringhaus; Charlotte, N. C. Band Parades.

By JOSEPHINE ANDOE

I was on the very front row of the crowd on the Capitol Plaza on March 4 to witness the inauguration of Roosevelt. Several times I thought the cable would break, the strain on it was so great. I deserved a front seat, for I had been standing right there for two hours before anything happened. I arrived at 8:10 and stood in practically the same place until 5:15.

When Governor Ehringhaus came around, I determined that he should notice me. I waved my hand, smiled for all I was worth, and to my great delight, he smiled and lifted his hat.

The Charlotte, N. C., band was there. The boy that marched in front and carried the placard had a hard struggle, as there was such a high wind. At times he would almost fall in an effort to hold the banner.

The Electoral College filled 250 cars, all same make and models, Ford.

James Cagney, Bebe Daniels, Joan Blondell, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Loretta Young were extended a personal invitation from the president-elect to participate in the parade. They were on the Warner Brothers float, but many did not recognize them.

The "Happy Warrior" stole the show. He received a tremendous ovation.

Tammany Hall was there in great numbers. All the members wore conventional morning suits with silk hats, and all had white boutonnieres.

An elaborate display of fireworks began at eight o'clock Saturday night and lasted until nine o'clock. The display was witnessed by hundreds of thousands. I was among them.

The climax of this colorful show came when the words "Happy Days Are Here Again" and the likenesses of Roosevelt, Garner, and the Statue of Liberty blazed against the deep, velvety blue of the night.

State P. T. A. Meet Will Be Held Here

C. W. Phillips to Talk. Mrs. J. J. Andoe, Local Chairman, Is Making Arrangements.

Plans are being made for the State Parent Teacher meeting to be held here April 19, 20, 21. The headquarters are to be at the O. Henry hotel. Mrs. C. O. Burton, the state chairman, will preside over the meetings. Mrs. J. J. Andoe, local chairman, is in charge of all arrangements.

Among the programs to be given, Senior high will present one concerning its Social Standards Conference. C. W. Phillips has been asked to talk, and he intends to be accompanied by two G. H. S. students. One of these is Mary Helen King, president of Torchlight.

Florence Austral Is Wonderful Housewife Noted Singer Finds Americans Appreciative

Florence Austral, noted singer, who appeared in Greensboro last week is declared by her husband to be a wonderful cook; he says cooking is one of her hobbies. He says that his favorite dish is braised steak which Madame cooks remarkably well.

He also stated that she could handle a needle with some degree of skill, making of her own clothes, and those of her friends and her friend's children, and also making silk pajamas for him.

Madame Austral finds the American audiences most enthusiastic and most

Play Group Drills on 'Peg' Upon Stage

J. H. Johnson Finishes Choosing Cast; Both First and Second Acts Practiced.

SCENE IS IN ENGLAND
To Be Presented Last of March; Is Riot of Laughs.

Work on the play, "Peg o' My Heart" is progressing. Both the first and second acts have been put on the stage. J. H. Johnson, director, says it will be presented the latter part of March.

The entire cast is as follows: Peg, Doris Hanes; Jerry, Frank Pittman; Ethel, Beth Ranson; Brent, Charlie Hinkle; Mrs. Chichester, Elizabeth Davis; Alarie, Edward Cone; Jarvis, John Durham; maid, Ruth Hill; Hawks, L. H. Dunivant.

The Chichester family, composed of Mrs. Chichester, Alarie, and Ethel, is a highbrow sophisticated English family, who, in the beginning lose their fortune. As a last resort they agree to care for Peg, an uncouth, country Irish girl, and receive one thousand pounds a year for it.

Everyone treats Peg cruelly except Jerry, a college friend of Alarie's who befriends her from the beginning. In the end, however, Peg has improved and is well liked by everyone.

One of the most humorous spots in the play comes in the second act when both Alarie and Hawks, the lawyer, propose to Peg, because they know that when she is of age she will inherit a large sum of money.

Secondary to the plot concerning Peg and Jerry is a plot concerning Ethel, a disillusioned, hard young girl, and Brent, who is married and who continually makes love to Ethel. Peg stops Ethel from eloping with Brent, and Ethel afterwards is deeply grateful to her.

Nominating Group Of P. T. A. Selects New Candidates

Committee Chooses Officers For All Positions; Program Planned For Last Meeting on April 4.

A meeting of the nominating committee of the Greensboro Parent-Teacher association was recently held at Senior high. Members of the committee present were Mrs. W. W. Whaley, chairman; Mrs. F. O. Chrysler, present in an unofficial capacity; Mrs. S. O. Lindeman, Miss Fannie Starr Mitchell and C. W. Phillips. Mrs. C. E. Stone was absent.

Nominations were chosen for all positions, and April 4 was set for the next meeting which is to be held at Senior high. The program planned for that time will be given by G. H. S. students. Tea will be served by the home economics class and the program will probably take the form of a resume of the different school activities such as Torchlight, student council and others.

This will be the last meeting of the Senior P. T. A. this year.

Girls to Give Operetta

The home economics department is giving a fashion operetta, "The Susanne Shop," the last of April. Miss Margaret Fuller has charge of it and is planning to get J. H. Johnson to help her.

The operetta is for the parents of the home economics students and there is to be a reception afterwards. The home economics students not taking part in the operetta will do the cooking and serving.

High Hats Win in Drive Of Subscription Contest

Edward Cone to Represent Homespun
At C. S. P. A. Convention in New York

Edward Cone, a member of the Homespun staff, is attending the ninth annual convention and contest of the Columbia Scholastic Press association in New York City.

The convention opened Thursday, March 9, at 1:30 with an assembly meeting at the McMillin Theatre and will close at 2:30 Saturday, March 11th, with a Varsity show. This show is considered one of the features of the convention. It is to be held in the "newest and most magnificent hotel in New York City if not in the whole country."

The Columbia Spectator, the daily newspaper of Columbia University, will be published by the delegates from the staffs of the prize-winning newspapers and magazines.

Last year Carl Jeffress, managing editor of High Life, was a member of the staff for this special issue.

Thursday afternoon the critics commented on and criticized the publications of contesting schools.

Saturday morning has been set aside for group meetings led by students and faculty advisers to discuss the problems incident to student publications.

College Day Here April 7

Open Forum Discussion to Take Place in Chapel; Booths to Be Erected on Campus.

College Day will be presented to the high school students by Martha Fry and her committee April 7. Hill Hunter and Katherine Ellison are on this committee.

Invitations have been sent to several colleges in the state and in the south. Many colleges have answered, accepting this invitation and are sending representatives to this school. These delegates will be in the library, and there will be booths situated on the grounds during the day where the students may go and talk about the respective colleges.

A chapel program is being planned in which several of these delegates will talk about their colleges and answer questions that may be of interest to the students.

Lunch will be served to all the delegates free. This will be served after the last lunch period in order that the delegates may talk and see the students at the other lunch periods.

Some sponsors that have accepted the invitation are: Professor J. L. Memory from Wake Forest; from W. C. of U. N. C., will come Miss Laura H. Coot, Mary Bailey Williams, and Ernestine Haliburton. D. R. Anderson, president of Wesleyan College, will be here. From Flora Macdonald College will come Genevieve MacMillan. A delegate will represent Randolph Macon also. Miss Anne Preston will come from Salem College. President S. B. Turrentine, of Greensboro College will be here; Dean Milner will be here from Guilford College. Mr. F. W. Heneveld will be here from Davidson. Other colleges have not yet stated whether they will be represented or not.

Candidates for membership are now being considered. After selections have been made, the club will sponsor a chapel program at which they will present the new members.

They are also planning to put on radio programs in which Quill and Scroll members will participate.

A committee composed of Paul Curtis, Edward Cone, and Kendrick Vestal is writing a constitution.

Blanche Calloway To Play at Dance

Buccaneers to Present Sister of Famous Cab at Next Social Event.

Red hot music will vibrate through the halls of the Winter Garden on March 16 when Blanche Calloway, sister of the famous Cab, brings her band to Greensboro to play for the next Buccaneer dance.

The Buccaneer club is formed of a group of Senior high and college boys, and many good dances have been the result of their management.

She has been engaged to sing the role of Brunnhild in "Nibelung's Ring," in Covenant Gardens in London next May.

In choosing a nom de theatre, she wanted to select something suggestive of her native country. The director of the Covent Gardens, the late Mr. Wiggins, suggested the name Austral which she accepted.

According to the New York Herald Tribune, she possesses "A soprano voice, volume, range, and ease of production probably without a superior anywhere in the world today." Hers is a rich low voice of rare beauty.

Room 203, whose teacher is Miss Mary Harrell, made seventeen sales, which was the largest number.

Winston, with whom Senior high agreed to compete, beat Greensboro badly with a score 612 to 181.

Senior high was organized as a large business firm for the drive with Hill Hunter as president. Mary Elizabeth Moore, head of the Sombros and Irma Lee Graves, head of the High Hats, were vice-presidents. Jimmy Bishop, Kathrine Ellison, and George Fincke had charge of the publicity. The renewal manager was Tommy Miller.

A theatre ticket was presented to every person making at least one sale. Other awards were given ranging in values according to the number of sales.

The sales by session rooms were as follows: Room 2, 4 sales; Room 3, 4 sales; Room 4, 6 sales; Room 6, 4 sales; Room 7, 8 sales; Room 8, 5 sales; Room 10, 5 sales; Room 14, 7 sales; Room 16, 2 sales; Room 24, 4 sales; Room 25, 2 sales; Room 100, 3 sales; Room 102, 7 sales; Room 106, 14 sales; Room 109, 16 sales; Room 201, 16 sales; Room 202, 8 sales; Room 203, 17 sales; Room 206, 5 sales; Room 300, 13 sales; Room 301, 3 sales; Room 302, 2 sales; Room 303, 6 sales; Room 304, 6 sales; Room 306, 9 sales; Room 313, 8 sales; Room 315, 2 sales and Room 317, 10 sales.

Wooters Organizes Boys' Makeup Class

North Carolina Dramatics Student to Tutor Eight Boys; Jay C. Lane to Teach Girls.

Bill Wooters, a student here who has studied dramatics under many well known dramatists of North Carolina for over six years, will teach boys the art of stage make-up. Almost all of the six years study was in Charlotte, North Carolina, under Professor George Forrester, Linda Smith, Margaret Newland, and Miss Rea. In Durham he studied under Miss Nix at the high school there.

This class is organized for the purpose of making up characters for plays produced by Senior high school. In this way quite a bit of responsibility will be taken off of J. H. Johnson, dramatics adviser.

The students will receive actual experience in juvenile and character make-up. Due to the cost of materials, the class will be limited to eight pupils. These will be selected from the student body. The class will meet during activity period once a week. Boys particularly interested may see Bill Wooters and girls, Jay C. Lane. Mrs. Scott will supervise.

Latin Department Submits Three Papers for Contest

Jane Clegg, Jasper Seabolt, and Phyllis Hagedorn submitted the best Latin papers of all the juniors and seniors. Cicero and Vergil students of G. H. S. have forwarded their papers to the judging committee of the state examination under the auspices of the extension department of U. N. C.
