

STUDENTS SET SOCIAL STANDARDS

LOUISE HOWARD WINS BEST RATING IN SCHOLARSHIP

Jean Stephenson Makes 97 To Secure Second Place; Three Tie for Third.

Louise Howard, with a score of 98.5 per cent, made the highest scholarship rating for the last six weeks' report period, announced Miss Moore, faculty adviser for the honor roll group, yesterday. Jean Stephenson, with an average of 97, placed second. Elva Spencer, Rachel Baxter, and Clair Gingham with 96.8 per cent tied for third place.

Other students winning high honors and making the special honor roll of 95 per cent and above, are:

Billy Brinkley, L. M. Clymer, Kirby Moore, Eleanor Patterson, Rae Schumann, Josephine Duncan, Jane Eller, Louise Morton, Alleene Darby, Allen Dixon, Marie Coe, Margaret Sigmom, Mack Lackey, Philip Levine, Sara Armstrong, Carolyn Frazure, Berry Reid.

The regular honor roll boasted 171 members this report period as opposed to 143 of last month, making a total gain of 28.

Rooms having the highest attendance average who contributed greatly to the half-holiday achievement were Miss Stedman's room with 98.4 per cent, Miss Bradley's with 98.35 per cent, and Miss Lesley's group with 98 per cent, perfect attendance.

TWENTY-TWO SENIORS TAPPED BY TORCHLIGHT

Twenty-two students were inducted into Torchlight on Friday, December 2, during assembly, as part of the program for the first state-wide convention of all national honor societies in North Carolina.

All students elected for membership in Torchlight must be approved by the honor society, adviser, faculty, and principal, who consider service, leadership, and character, as well as scholarship, since the fourfold purpose of the society involves these characteristics.

Those students who have proved themselves worthy of this honor are: Mark Altwater, Jack Behrman, Janet Campbell, Wilbur Carter, Ann Chisholm, L. M. Clymer, Dorothy Estes, Marian Gary, Dorothy Hendrix, Duncan Holt, Kirby Moore, Jane Murray, Elizabeth Newton, Paul Pearson, Virginia Pope, Ann Schneek, Ben Smith, Jane Webb, Gordon West, Margaret Brown, Arbutus Reele, and Vernon Roberts.

BAND TO BROADCAST COLLECTION OF CAROLS

The Greensboro high school band, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hazelman, will play a collection of Christmas carols during the weekly W. B. I. G. high school broadcast, on Wednesday, December 14, at 7:45 p. m.

The collection, which is called "Under the Holly," contains such familiar songs as, "Silent Night," "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," and "Joy to the World."

Myers To Deliver Keynote At 7th Annual Conference

Dr. Charles F. Myers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church who will deliver the opening address at the Social Standards Conference this morning. Photo by courtesy of Greensboro Daily News.

SENIOR HIGH ALUMNI WILL CONVENE JAN. 2

Large Number of College Students Expected To Attend.

January 2 has been marked up on the calendar of Greensboro high school events as the date for the annual "Home Coming Day." A large number of G. H. S. alumni from the University of North Carolina, Duke university, Greensboro college, and Guilford college are expected to be present.

Gray Mills High, the student chairman of the alumni committee, and Miss Margaret Sledge, faculty adviser, announce that there will be a chapel program, for juniors and seniors on this day, presented by former Senior high school students.

The "home-comers" will be at school all day, and lunch will be served for them in the cafeteria.

Dog-Days Are Here Again

The calendar is respected by everyone, and of course every intelligent person realizes that August is marked as the official close of dog-days, but for one time in high school history the juniors and seniors of G. H. S. have disagreed with old man time. No, this doesn't mean that mad dogs are running loose or that dog-wood trees are in bloom. It simply goes to explain a very unusual occurrence of Tuesday's chapel program.

Just as everyone was seated, impatiently waiting for something to happen, it happened. A dog came up on the stage, walked to the microphone, wagged his tail, and amid a burst of cheers and laughter, slowly walked to the far exit.

Pearson Hears Roosevelt

Paul Pearson, editor-in-chief of High Life, returned last night from Chapel Hill where the state university had invited him to represent Senior High at the talk made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

MOSELEY TO TALK

Over 300 Students Will Take Direct Part In Program For Meeting.

Greensboro High school's seventh annual Social Standards conference, which opens here this morning with the keynote address by Dr. Charles F. Myers, will have over 300 students taking direct part in the activities. This number, the largest in the history of the conference, has been working as special squads, as student chairmen, as committee members, and as members of the art department who have devoted their entire time to making posters and badges for the conference members.

Keynote Address at 9:15

Today's schedule, which includes addresses by Dr. Myers, Mr. Robert W. Moseley, and Rabbi Fred I. Rypins, in the assembly program, is as follows:

- 8:45-9:10—Homeroom period.
- 9:15-10:30—Keynote address by Dr. Charles F. Myers.
- 10:30-10:40—Recess.
- 10:45-11:45—Group conferences.
- Sophomores:
 - 11:45-12:30—Lunch.
 - 12:30-1:15—Recreation.
- Juniors and Seniors:
 - 11:45-12:30—Recreation.
 - 12:30-1:15—Lunch.
 - 12:00-1:00—Football game.
 - 1:20-1:45—Homeroom summaries.
 - 1:50-3:00—Closing assembly, Mr. Moseley and Rabbi Rypins.

Movies will be shown in the auditorium during the recreation period. A demonstration of proper dress, etiquette, and varied dance steps, under the direction of Jean McAllister and Tom Carpenter, will be presented in the gym. Student spectators are requested to sit in the balcony so that the floor will be clear for the demonstration.

Group Speakers

Visitors who will act as speakers for the group meetings, which range from topics on jobs and vocations, discussed by Dr. Henry Louis Smith, to "Your Manners Please," discussed by Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, include the following: Rev. J. Ben Eller, Dick Douglas, P. T. Hines, Charles T. Hagan, Jr., Joe Johnson, Frank Burns, Lt. John Lowdermilk, C. W. Phillips, Guy B. Phillips, Bill Hearn, Dr. J. B. Craven, Dr. Leonard B. Hurley, Major Edney Ridge, Montgomery S. Hill, Judge William York, and Rev. W. P. Jones.

Other speakers are: Misses Lucy Pell, Malvin Morton, Dorothy Gerner, Claire Hartsok, Wilhelmina Rowland, and Mrs. Elmo M. Sellars.

MUSIC GROUPS OF CITY TO GIVE XMAS PROGRAM

Music groups of the city schools will present a special Christmas music program at the Carolina Theater on December 18, at 3:30 o'clock. The first part of the program will be a community singing of familiar carols. This will be followed by a lesson on carols by the elementary school groups. The Junior and senior high school glee clubs will then end the program with a Christmas cantata and several unfamiliar carols.

All of the music teachers of the city have participated in the preparation of the program.

HAESLOOP GETS LEAD IN PAGEANT

Traditional Story by Luke Followed; Students Take Part.

Taking its story from the account of the nativity by Luke, practice was begun yesterday with Mary Frances Haesloop playing the leading role in the annual Christmas pageant, under the direction of Miss Sarah Mims, head of the English department.

Joseph, the character of second import, is to be portrayed by Mark Altwater, while Dorothy Green assumes the part of the first angel. The reader, though he has not been decided as yet, will probably be Frank Barrett. The seasonal music for the pageant, a respect in which the presentation has always been outstanding, will be furnished by the mixed chorus whose director is Mr. Brietz.

The first presentation is scheduled for Tuesday night, December 13, when it will be given for the P. T. A. On December 16 the pageant will be presented for the entire student body.

"Lost But Easily Found"

The most mysterious day in the history of a sophomore's life has finally arrived!

"What's it all about?" one asked another.

"Search me, but I think it's a time when the juniors and seniors and a flock of speakers take the stage, but anyway we can listen to them."

Yes it's going to be very much like your first day at senior, sophomore, but if you get lost, you've at least got Miss Lily Walker to look to. She says she is the "Chief Devil" on Social Standards Day. That is, she stands out in the hall and patiently awaits the arrival of those "long lost sheep" who ask her: "Where am I supposed to be?" Then her task of placing them begins.

Paul Cobb Makes Quill and Scroll

High Life has been asked to announce that Paul Cobb was accepted into the Quill and Scroll, international honor society for high school journalists. His name was not listed with the other 15 new members in the November 23 issue of High Life because his certificate arrived too late for publication.

The success of the Social Standards conference today is chiefly due to those students in the top picture who have worked unflinchingly in its behalf. They are Bruce Walls, Martha Hipp, Wade Fox, Harriet Sink, Tom Carpenter, Lib Beall, Virginia Klages, Orvaline Koontz, Mr. Thomas, faculty adviser, Bobby Clark, and the chairman, Douglas Hunt. In the lower picture is shown Mr. Robert F. Moseley, prominent member of the school board who will deliver one of the feature addresses of the day. Photo of Moseley by courtesy of Greensboro Daily News.

WALKER RUCKER TELLS CLASS ABOUT SENATORS

"Vice-President Garner eats peanuts all during the sessions of Congress," declared Walker Rucker, former page in the United States Senate, in a talk to Mrs. Avery's first period class this week.

Walker, whose favorite senator is Robert Rice Reynolds who appointed him to his position, told many humorous facts about the supposedly dignified member of the upper house of Congress. His choice for the best politician was the former Huey Long, who used the filibuster as an effective weapon against legislation of which he disapproved. His selection of the best speaker was also the senator from Asheville.

Walker concluded his talk with an account of a page's duties, which consist almost entirely of running errands for the senators.

Holidays Announced

The Christmas holidays will begin on December 16 and continue to January 2.