State Press Institute Opens Fifth Session At University Today

The fifth annual convention of North Carolina's Press Institute will take ten members of High Life's staff to Chapel Hill today and tomorrow for the session, which will begin at 5 o'clock this afternoon with an entertainment for the delegates.

Plans for the program of the institute include a series of round table forums in one of which Eleanor Dare Taylor, High Life editor, will participate in discussion of make-up and news.

In addition the paper is to enter two editorials in a contest sponsored by the convention. Further, copies of the organ will be entered in the newspaper clinic at the meeting for criticism.

C. S. P. A. Report Planned

Business session will include reports from other press conventions held recently in other parts of the nation, and Douglass Hunt of the staff of the Greensboro high paper is scheduled to report on the Columbia Scholastic Press association convention held March 13, 14 and 15.

The convention will close with a banquet Saturday night, at which time officers for the next year will be chosen.

Greensboro's official delegates consist of Eleanor Dare Taylor, Douglass Hunt, Paul Miller, and Bill Brinkley; while unofficial delegates include Rachael Whiteside, Aurelia Dunstan, Solomon Kennedy, Arleen Whitener, Betty Routh, and Bob Perry.

Harris Proctor of Durham high school is present state chairman of the institute.

Braswell Invited To Show Artistic Work At Exhibits

Mrs. Callie O. Braswell, art instructor at Senior high school, has been asked to exhibit in two artists' shows. The North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs is sponsoring an exhibition of the work of artists living or having lived in North Carolina, to which Mrs. Braswell plans to send oils and water-colors.

The other exhibit sponsored by the Mint Museum of Art, of Charlotte, is an invitation exhibition of Regional Art, from May 1 to June 1, to which Mrs. Braswell will also send oils and water-colors. "The exhibition will be shown with the desire to further the work of the artists in this section and to encourage art and its appreciation in the South," stated the invitation.

Senior Band Again Wins State Class A-1 Rating

In the twenty-second annual state music festival held at Woman's college, April 17-20, Greensboro high school's band, under the direction of Herbert Hazelman, won a Class A first place rating.

When the contest began at 8 o'clock, the instrumental groups played the required composition, "Second Symphony," by Borodin, and as its own selection, Haydn Wood's "King Orry Rhapsody."

Judges for the bands included Glenn Baiman of Northwestern university, Chicago, and John Henry, of Stetson university, Deland, Florida.

Norman Promotes Huffine To Business Staff Berth

"As a result of her work in securing thirty-eight inches of advertising Evelyn Huffine has been added to the business staff of High Life," declared Ella Mae Norman, advertising manager, today.

Evelyn, a member of the elementary journalism class, secures advertising material from about thirty-one merchants.

Teacher-Pupil Play Day Planned

Gathered in practice for the annual student teacher fun on Student-Faculty day are Suzanne Lindeman, Miss Mozelle Causey, Jean Whitcomb, Mickey Fickling, Doris Jones, and Lorraine Springer.

Overcrowded Schedule Cancels May Day Plan

"Owing to an over-crowded schedule for spring activities, May Day will not be observed at Senior high this year," A. P. Routh announced today.

Each year it is the custom for extra-curricular groups to sponsor the event; however, since the state contests, graduation, senior pageant, and the like have intervened, it was necessary to delete the affair.

High School Slang Makes Students Groan

"Cute," "Swell," "Smooch," "Ain't it purty"—with all these sadly-over-worked and inelegant terms falling daily from the high school students' pure lips, is it any wonder that English teachers or speech instructors tear their hair and scream bloody murder?

Strangely enough, this queer jargon composed of student-created cliches, unlisted by the dictionary and sometimes called slang, do irritate those who cling to the "two-bit" words. For instance, Sarah Duly hates "ain't"; Homer Groome loathes "Is that right?"; Sarah Power Armstrong groans when somebody says "Watcha say?"

Among the juniors, Priscilla Mitchell says she can't bear "Cute, ain't it?"; and Margaret Poole runs in the opposite direction when she hears an "icky." Similarly, Martha Sink Koontz throws fits when she hears "Aw, nuts."

Perhaps this evidence indicates a shying-away from traditional slang. Whatever it is, one can only listen for the student who uses a "two-bit" word for the one in the vernacular—and hope for the best!

Aycock Pupils Sponsor School Flower Show

To encourage the cultivation and arrangement of flowers, students of Aycock school sponsored a 12-point flower show for members of the junior high department last Friday.

The exhibit, directed by Miss Virginia Fuller, faculty member, included arrangements for breakfast, luncheon, and dinner tables, coffee table, desks, breakfast trays, cut flowers, tray gardens, fruit, miniature vases, specimens, and hanging vases. Mrs. Vance Jerome, Mrs. Roger McDuffie, Mrs. W. H. Sullivan, and Mrs. J. G. Thomas judged the event and awarded the ribbons.

Four New Members To Join Quill Club

In an initiation program to take place in assembly May 6, four new members, Margaret Daniel Wilkerson, Betty Routh, Ann Thornton, and Faye Thomas, will join the Greensboro high school chapter of Quill and Scroll, international journalism honor society.

To qualify for membership in this society a student must be in the upper third of his class scholastically, and must be recommended by the school chairman of publications, the chapter adviser, or an old member of the club.

Material Sent to Chicago

After recommendations, samples of the student's work are submitted to the adviser, who in turn sends the material to Edward Nell, Northwestern university, Chicago, who judges the samples on the basis of the quality of the work. Students with experience in these fields are usually accepted in preference to those who have not studied the subjects.

'Home Needs Old-Fashioned Discipline' Declares York

"Approximately 90 per cent of all juvenile delinquency cases are a result of some sin of commission or omission on the part of parents," declared Judge W. M. York, of the Greensboro juvenile court, chief speaker at the monthly meeting of the Senior high Parent-Teacher association, last Monday. In his talk Judge York suggested that parents administer some old-fashioned discipline and teach their children good manners in the home. They should also, he declared, take them to church instead of sending them.

Judge York Speaks

In his talk, Judge York suggested a five-point program, that parents teach the meaning of discipline, dignity of labor, value of money, self-reliance, and good manners, to their children. To show their approval of the address, the 300 in attendance took up a collection of $24 to defray the cost of mail.

Latin Club Sets May 6 Date For Weiner Roast

Present members of the Latin club will entertain all old members with a weiner roast on Tuesday, May 6, at Miss Gertrude Farlow's home near Guilford College.

Martha Sholar and Preston Floyd are in charge of plans for the evening's food and entertainment.

Students, Faculty to Join Hands Thursday, May 8

Blackburn Announces Tentative Cast Plans For Senior Pageant

Tentative casting appointments for the senior pageant and production plans went into effect Tuesday morning when Mrs. Nellie Blackburn and Miss Lily Walker, senior advisers, disclosed characters for 41 speaking parts in six of the seven divisions of the play. Baxter Stapleton will serve as commentator for the event.

Nine in Prologue

Included in the prologue as immigrant families and soldiers will be James Patton, Jane Sloan, Barbara Jamieson, Bob Beane, Ed Faulkner, Herman Cone, and Gene Thornton. Charles Weill will portray the judge.

In Act I, entitled "To Form a More Perfect Union," Alice Kale, Henry Reynolds, Horace Kornegay, Ruth Taylor, Roy Evans, Carl Cense, Leonard White, Billy Kale, Kenneth Knight, Russell Byrd, Everett Saslow, May Latham, Janis Williams, Vivian Jessup, Charlotte Marks, George Whittington, and Frank Whitt will act as small town people in the country store scene.

To Establish Justice

Act II, "To Establish Justice," will star Bayard Whitehurst as a second judge. Bill Stedman, Clifford Frazier, and Everett Saslow.

"Domestic Tranquility," contrasting civil strife and peace, will include Irma Estes, Lee Poole, Aleta Overstreet, Mary Jo Flippin, Jean Nowell, Eugene Richardson, Bill Halladay, and Douglas Hunt, who will take the part of the minister.

Common Defense

In Act IV, Dorothy Baughn, Martha Hipp, Charles Current, Clarence Walters, and Jack Carpenter will stress "Common Defense" as soldiers, sailors, and other national defense workers.

Purple Panthers Invite Seniors to May Festival

That seniors of North Carolina may become better acquainted with its facilities, High Point college has invited them to attend its High School and May Day tomorrow.

Following the registration at 10 o'clock, a tour of the college is scheduled and then the visitors will witness a basketball game between the High Point varsity and junior teams.

Free lunches will be served the guests on the lawn. This event will be followed by a music concert by the musical organizations of the school. At five o'clock the festivities will close with the annual crowning of the May queen.

Room 317 Finds Answer To Program Difficulty

That the members of room 317 might gain a better understanding of national and international affairs, Herman Mesimore, program chairman for that class, conducted an essay writing contest reviewing these topics at the last meeting of the group, Thursday of this week.

"It was surprising to find how little high school students really know about world affairs, Mesimore said, "and I think this type of program actually made them wake up and think clearly through the situation."

Other unusual programs presented to the class by Mesimore and his committee included discussions of school affairs, fun programs, the inevitable professor quiz, and last, but not least, the old-fashioned spelling bee.

Annual Event Features Informal Recreation, Competitions, Picnic

"Let's-get-together" will be the theme of the second annual Student-Faculty Day to be observed by students and teachers at Senior high Thursday, May 8, from 11 until 1:30.

To Have Lunch on Lawn

Held for the purpose of allowing students and teachers to meet informally through a period of rest and recreation, this event was inaugurated last year and emerged a success. A picnic lunch on the lawn will be the climax of the day this year. Such lunches may be purchased during the lunch periods from the cafeteria for 15 cents.

Heading this year's committee on arrangements are Lelia Atkinson, student chairman, and Paul Miller, Richard Kiser, Billy Brinkley, Virginia Stoffel, Mell Alexander, Jack Roberts, and Nancy Cowherd, members. Faculty consultants include A. P. Routh, Miss Sarah Lesley, Miss Cathleen Pike, Miss Ella Lee Taylor, Miss Mary Ellen Blackmon, Mrs. Olive Betts, Miss Doris Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Moser, and Miss Gertrude Farlow.

Schedule Announced

The schedule for the day follows:

- 8:45-9:50—First period.
- 9:55-10:50—Second period.
- 10:55-11:30—Home Rooms.
- 11:15-12:00—First Play period.
(Students, teachers engage in group sports.)
- 12:00-12:40—Picnic Lunch.
- 12:45-1:30—Second Play period.
(Students, teachers observe individual contests.)

Civic Groups Plan Service Recognizing New Citizens

Acting on a proposal of the National Education association that "provision should be made to receive all persons into citizenship with suitable ceremony," civic leaders of Greensboro, under the direction of Superintendent B. L. Smith, will sponsor the city's first annual Citizenship Recognition day in the auditorium of the Greensboro Senior high school at 2:30 p.m., Monday, May 18.

Impressive ceremonies recognizing the attainment of majority and the reception of naturalization papers—both of which mean new citizens for the nation—will be held, and an effort will be made to inculcate a sense of the significance attendant upon citizenship.

President Proclaims Recognition Day

Releases sent out this week from the office of Ben L. Smith, superintendent of city schools, indicated that the program will come as an outgrowth of a similar event held in May, 1939, by the school officials of Manitowoc, Wisconsin, and they further report that the celebration is planned as a practical means of carrying out President Franklin D. Roosevelt's proclamation setting aside a time for the recognition of new citizens.

Room 10 Elects Carpenter President In New Voting

Since eight students of room 10, including the home room officers, have been transferred to junior home rooms, the students held a re-election of class leaders at home room meeting last week and selected Tom Carpenter, president; Muriel Causey, vice-president; and Violet Caneaga, secretary.

Library Displays Awards

On display in the school library this week are the awards won by members of the local debating squad at Wake Forest last week.
